C. O. Whittemore, Speaks From the Inside and All Looks Well.

COOLER WEATHER WILL TRANSFORM

Vegas a Winter Resort. Same As Long Beach is a Summer Haven.

WILL STOP OVER AT LAS VEGAS

C. O. Whittemore, the forceful representative of vast interests that means the upbuilding of Las Vegas in particular and Nevada prosperity as an entity was in the city, that owes so much to the foresight and courageous thrift of the Whittemore order, during the week.

Whilst here he expressed his gratification at the progress that is being made and was particularly impressed at the confidence expressed by purchasers of realty from the townsites company. All the heavier purchasers of lots, for whom the deeds were ready, have made final payment and assumed full control of these holdings that will be a source of profit and revenue for them. "This promptness is an augur of confidence and outside of the work the companies are doing will mean prosperous times for energetic Vegas citizens."

"The railroad company, as well as the townsites company, will push all improvement work as rapidly as money and help can accomplish it. By October 1, Vegas improvements will be completed and with its paved, graded and curbed streets and water mains, will not only assume the proportions, but look a city. "I am confident of great activity and a vast influx of people to Vegas this winter. The railroad company in all its advertising through the east is making Vegas a feature and emphasizing its advantages as a sanitarium—a haven for the winter tourist and a blessing to the pitiable objects, subject to pulmonary complaints; the railroad company also is arranging for stop over privileges at Vegas for all travelers from the east."

"By December 1 Vegas will have an activity and liveliness, to compare with the beach resorts, for its salutary winter climate with its dry exhilarating ozone, and the comfort it bestows upon those who seek relief from the cold blasts of the north and the unpleasantness of the humid rawness of the Atlantic and lake climates, will bring many travellers from there to our borders.

"By September, conditions in the mining camps will assume their wonted activity and all these contributory factors will bring Vegas into the lime light as the most prosperous place in the great west. All looks well and my confidence is from the knowledge I have that it will be way in the front of any other Nevada point."

JOLLY GOOD TIME

The Elks Have the Art of Making Sunshine Out of Darkness.

EXPRESSION OF REAL LIFE

An Example by This Fraternity Worthy of Emulation By All.

MANY NOTABLES GRACE THE OCCASION.

"The glad circle round them yield their soul The festive mirth and wit that knows no fall." It was a festive occasion; not prior in the history of southern Nevada did so pleasant and splendid an assemblage of ladies and gentlemen associate together as were brought within the folds on Tuesday evening at the Beale Resort by those enticing and generous invitations put forth by the Elks.

The Elks are great entertainers. They understand the art of extorting the greatest amount of pleasure from life and as they are first in social features, so they are first in the wondrous mystifications that ever is an attraction for the uninitiated and a great source of that fraternity that makes the Elks such a charming circle.

Truly the Elks have the art to radiate sunshine and hope amidst darkness. They are a satisfaction, emblazoning encouragement with their smiles, jollities and illumined gladness they disseminate free of cost that warm heart that good will and those salutations that means so much to all of us. Where the Elks lead one finds a true expression of real life.

The evening was an Elk triumph. It was such a success as to occasion great praise and with such reverberations the entertained guests voted the Elks as a combination of jolly good fellows, that could not be best and that the proud occasion was one that was all that is better and best in our social life.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, p. m. G. R. Cleveland, one of the most prominent Elks in the west, as toastmaster, called time and introduced Judge Brennan, who delivered the welcome, in manner and eloquence, denoting the true orator; "We are gathered here tonight for the purpose of instilling into our midst a spirit of sociability that tends to mitigate the natural discomforts incident to the up building of a new community. In behalf of our local representatives of Elkdom, I extend to you a cordial welcome. We are proud to receive the ladies and studiously solicitations of their welfare and happiness. Like the perfume of a rose, you have an entrance everywhere. The very name of woman has a tender and beautiful significance to every wearer of the anthers
