Suffered Over Two Years—Health Was
In a Precarious Condition—Caused
By Pelvic Catarrh.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH RESTORED BY PE-RU-NA.

Mrs. Emma Fleissner, 1413 Sixth Ave., Seattle, Wash., Worthy Treasurer Sons of Temperance, writes:
"I suffered over two years with irregular and painful periods. My health was in a very precarious condition and I was anxious to find something to restore my health and strength."
"I was very glad to try Peruna and delighted to find that it was doing me good. I continued to use it a little over three months and found my troubles removed."
"I consider it a splendid medicine and shall never be without it, taking a dose occasionally when I feel run-down and tired."
Our files contain thousands of testimonials which Dr. Hartman has received from grateful, happy women who have been restored to health by his remedy, Peruna.

ALCOHOL IN MOST MEDICINES.
Indispensable Requisite in Compounding of Some Prescriptions.

It is of course true that some proprietary medicines contain alcohol and nearly all liquid medicines prescribed by physicians contain it. No honest man will defend the sale of intoxicants under the guise of medicine; but every honest man should protest against a system of wholesale denunciation born of malice, or ignorance of pharmaceutical principles, and fostered by selfish interests. It is assumed that alcohol is the cause of intemperance; but there is a great difference between alcohol and whisky. If a substitute for alcohol could be found for use in the manufacture of medicines, its discoverer would render a great service to the profession of pharmacy and the science of medicine, for alcohol is a very expensive ingredient and a cheaper substitute would be gladly accepted. Unfortunately the word alcohol, in the minds of many people is associated exclusively with bar-rooms, drunkenness and all forms of degradation and vice. This is due to a lack of knowledge by the general public of the fact that alcohol is an indispensable requisite in drugs, tinctures and fluid extracts. All fluid extracts and tinctures on the druggists' shelves contain from 20 to 90 per cent of alcohol; and of all liquid medicines prescribed by physicians more than 75 per cent contain it in large proportions.

Alcohol is required to preserve organic substances from deterioration and from freezing, and it is also required to dissolve substances not soluble in water, while it contributes to their preservation when dissolved. Diluted alcohol is largely employed in fluid extracts; and whenever a greater strength of alcohol is required as a solvent (for extracting medicinal principles) the medicine is of such a character as to preclude a large dosage; and for this reason preparations, even if containing 50 per cent or more of alcohol, are practically less intoxicating than beer. In such cases the character of the medicinal constituents is such as to absolutely forbid the taking of the medicine in any way except in very small doses and at stated intervals only. To assume that any great number of proprietary medicines are used as beverages is the veriest absurdity.—Exchange.

WILL LIVE IN HISTORY'S PAGES.
Famous Highway to the Southwest Built Only a Century Ago.
A hundred years ago the eyes of America were on the southwest. We were on the edge of the war with Spain, over the closing of the Mississippi, and under orders from Washington, Wilkinson, in command of Fort Adams, held solemn convalescence with the Indians who owned the east bank of the big river, and by treaty established a sacred postroad through their country.
It left Nashville on the old Buffalo trace, crossed the Tennessee at Colbert's ferry below the Mussel shoals and, striking the hills back of the Big Black, came down to Natchez and to New Orleans, with a branch to the Walnut hills. The road was more than a military necessity, for so many pirates infested the Mississippi that merchants returning from New Orleans needed a safer route home with their money.
After it was opened it became all things to the southwest. Methodists went down that way in the person of Tobias Gibson; later Lorenzo Dow followed him with the camp meeting spirit. Old Hickory marched his army down to Natchez over this route in 1813 and marched it back again next spring. And from that day till nearly our own it has been the great center of that country's activity. Now the railroads have come, the settlers have moved down into the valleys and opened up poorer roads in the beds of branches and through swampy lowlands. But the Trace is still there upon its ridges, the best road of them all.—Everybody's Magazine.

Claims Cure for Appendicitis.
Dr. Pond of Liverpool, England, has advanced a new theory with reference to the origin of appendicitis and other disturbances of the digestive organs. He calls attention to the fact that such ailments can often be attributed to antimonial poisoning, and the source of the antimony taken up by man is said to be the rubber rings which are frequently used to close all sorts of bottles.
Dr. Pond has established the fact that such rings consist of almost one-third their weight of antimony. The antimony is not only dissolved by the mineral waters containing alkalis and organic acids, but these rubber rings, as daily observation shows, soon become brittle and some of the compound falls into the contents of the vessels.
Dr. Pond claims to have found that a frequently repeated introduction of antimony can become the source of a series of disturbances of the nutritive and digestive system, especially through continued weakening of the muscles of the stomach and intestines.

Nothing Wrong. There is nothing at all the matter, my boy.
The world goes plunging along in the same old way from day to day. Singing her good old song. Maybe her songs grow old to you. And maybe your hopes grow dim; But there's nothing at all the matter, my boy. It's only your foolish whim.
There is nothing at all the matter, my boy. You have only lost your hold; Get back to the life and back to the strife. Get back to your work's enfold. There is work laid out for your hands to do. So stick to your task with vim; There is nothing at all the matter, my boy. It's only your foolish whim.
There is nothing at all the matter, my boy. Stand by till your task is done; It's the way for a place in the world's mad race. It's the way that the end is won. There's a place at the top, but the way is long. Don't rail if your star grows dim; Don't say that the world's all wrong, my boy. It's only your foolish whim.—W. F. Griffin in Milwaukee Sentinel.
His First Visit.
"Look here, Halton, why in creation did you lure me into buying a ticket for that lawn fete?"
"Why, did you pay out much?"
"Much. Why, they charged me 50 cents for lemonade and $1 for ice cream."
"That was exorbitant."
"Then I was lured through the 'maze of mystery,' 'witches' cauldron,' etc., and by the time they finished telling my fortune I didn't have a penny."
"That was tough."
"O, I could have recovered from that, but it was the sequel. When I reached home dead broke my wife accused me of playing poker and hasn't spoken to me since."—Chicago News.
Careful-of-Strangers.
"They're very careful at the Boston beaches," said a man who visited the New England metropolis a few weeks ago. "I went down to one of the watering places one hot day. There had been a storm and the surf was rough, and the man in charge refused to let me go in bathing. I left in no very pleasant frame of mind, and complained to the cabman as I drove away.
"Oh, well," said he, in a consoling tone, "you see they don't like to have strangers come down here and get drowned. It hurts the beach."

STRENGTHEN THE STOMACH
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Really Cure Indigestion Instead of Merely Relieving Symptoms.
There are plenty of remedies by which you can relieve for the time heartburn, pain and gas on the stomach and can soothe nervous sensations and induce artificial sleep. You can humor your stomach by giving it predigested food. But when you take your next meal all your trouble begins afresh.
There is only one sensible thing to do. Strengthen the stomach and do away with the necessity for drugs and artificial foods. The best remedy ever found for this purpose is the one that was used by E. E. Stroug, of Capleville, Shelby county, Tenn.
"For years," he states, "I suffered greatly from indigestion. I tried many different remedies and some of them would relieve me for a time, but the trouble always came back. About six months ago I had an unusually severe attack, and while I tried everything I had ever heard of, I found that none of the ordinary remedies would reach the difficulty this time."
"One day I read in a Memphis paper how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured a Michigan woman, a sufferer from chronic dyspepsia of a most stubborn type. I then tried the same remedy and it proved just as successful in my case. I took only three boxes, and was cured. I have not had the slightest symptoms of indigestion since."
The tonic treatment has a sound principle as its basis, and abundant success in actual use. Multitudes of cases that had defied all other remedies have been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pills actually make new blood and strike at the root of all diseases caused by bad blood. They contain no harmful stimulants or opiates. Every dyspeptic should read, "What to Eat and How to Eat." Brahms' work in Astronomy.
It was the great eclipse of Aug. 21, 1560, that turned Tycho Brahe into an astronomer. He was in his 14th year at the time, a Danish boy of noble origin, and had been destined first for the army and then for the law. But the accuracy with which the eclipse was predicted impressed him with the belief that astronomy was a divine thing, and thenceforward he devoted his life to it. The debt of astronomy to Tycho Brahe, not only for his own work, but as the man who shaped the genius of Kepler, can scarcely be overestimated.

NOT ADAPTED FOR THE PART.
Richard Carle's "Find" Turned Out of Little Value.
Shortly before "The Maid and the Mummy" company opened its season, Richard Carle was looking for an actor to play the part of a wild man with the musical comedy. He wanted a big, blustering fellow with a bad man's face and the voice of a steam calliope.
After examining several applicants for the part Mr. Carle finally selected a man who filled all the requirements save that of voice. Orlando Wilson was the giant's name, but like many big fellows he was modest and retiring in manner and speech. He wanted a big, blustering fellow with a bad man's face and the voice of a steam calliope.
"Why don't you shout?" exclaimed Mr. Carle, after listening to a 2x4 voice exuding from a man who stood 1 foot 5 inches in his stockings. "Yell! Give your lungs a chance! Imitate a tipsy cowboy—like this!" To illustrate, Mr. Carle cut loose with a cow boy yell, "YH-I-I-I!"
"Go home and practice that," he said to the big chap, "and come back to rehearsal to-morrow prepared to make a noise."
Next morning, when the giant put in his appearance, Mr. Carle said, "Well, are you all right?"
"Yes," he replied, "almost perfect; but I'm going to give up my part."
"Why?"
"I live in a flat."
"What has that to do with it?"
"Everything. I started to rehearse that cowboy yell last night, and the neighbors thought I was murdering my mother. I nearly got lynched."
"Why don't you move?"
"Well, my parents have always supplied me with good board and lodging and if I move they might get out of the habit. I don't believe I'm cut out for that part. You'd better engage some other kind of a person."
"I will," said Mr. Carle; "I'll engage a man."
Diving Bell of 200 Years Ago.
It was nearly 200 years ago that Edmund Halley constructed what is often referred to as the first diving bell, although the apparatus must have been much like that which was used in the presence of Charles V.
The principle of the diving bell is simple. An inverted jar sunk in the water retains air at its top, and if there is enough air men may live and breathe and work there, and keep dry.
Dr. Halley's diving bell was a large wooden chamber, open at the bottom and loaded there with lead to prevent it from turning in the water. Pieces of glass set in the roof furnished light. Air was supplied by an ingenious method; for leaded casks full of air were sent down, bung downward. Tipping the barrel, water would rush into it and drive out the air to the man in the bell chamber.
At the depth of thirty-three feet the air is compressed to half its former bulk, and the bell is therefore at the depth filled full with water; and as the depth increases, so do the compression and the pressure.—Technical World Magazine.
