

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Female Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous? How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly," or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in woman is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, headache, loss of appetite. I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night."

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me."

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger."

"Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick, weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women."

EUROPE PRESERVED BY TRIFLE

Vanity of Musa Kept Him From Leading Moslems as Tours.

The most striking case in history of the importance of trifles is furnished by the story of Musa, the leader of the Moslem host which won from Christendom in three and a half years dominions which it took the soldiers of the cross twenty generations to win back.

He had a red beard; this was a trifle. Musa, though a very great general, was a very vain man, and he dyed his beard black. This was another trifle. One of his captains chafed him on the subject and Musa forthwith had him stripped and scourged.

For this, at the very height of his conquering career, he was recalled by the caliph and disgraced. This made it impossible for him to command the Moslem army at the battle of Tours on the issue of which, as all historians agree, the destinies of Europe and perhaps of the whole human race depended.

It is almost certain that, if the genius of Musa had replaced the incompetence of the half-dozen tribal leaders, whose dissensions made victory possible, the forces of Islam would have joined hands from the west to the east and inclosed Europe in their grasp.—Stray Stories.

WOMAN'S FONDNESS FOR DRESS

Antiquary Shows It Has Been the Same in All Ages.

An antiquary was chuckling over an article on extravagance in dress. "A man wrote this, I'll warrant," he said. "Men are always writing such things. See what a man wrote in 1630 of a certain Miss Phraser's gown."

And he read from his notebook: "This lovely rich gown, of the best brocade, much bejeweled and embroidered, cost 330 pounds. It frights Sir Cave Scroope, who is much in love with her, from marrying her, saying his estate will scarce maintain her in clothes."

He turned another page: "Mme. de Montespan," he read, "wore at a great court festival a gown of gold on gold, embroidered in gold, bordered with gold, and over that a gold frieze stitched with a certain gold which makes the most divine stuff imaginable. But why deck out the human form with such ruinous extravagance?"

LITTLE WOMAN'S SHREWD TRICK

With It She Had Little Trouble in Collecting Alimony.

"In regard to the usual difficulty experienced in collecting alimony," said the observing man, "I know of an enterprising little New York woman who collects hers all right. She has a scheme that is all her own. I happened to be associated with her husband in business and occupied the same office.

"The first two or three times she appeared he put her off with some cock-and-bull hard-luck story which she accepted with fairly good grace, taking her leave afterward.

"Then things began to look serious. The fourth time she came there was a certain look of grim determination about her which seemed to indicate Emitted a Yell That Woke the Echoes that she meant business. Even the office boy noticed it. He spoke of it to me afterward.

"Again she asked him for the money awarded her by the courts and again he put her off with a hard luck tale.

"The fifth time there was no mistaking her air of determination. She sat in the chair placed for her by her former husband very quietly for awhile then requested him to pony up. He gave her the same old story and thought the matter would end there as usual. It did not.

"Then you can't give me any money to-day," she said in a manner ominously quiet.

"No," he said, "I'm afraid I can't. I am dead broke," he finished mournfully.

"With that she opened her mouth and emitted a yell that woke the echoes. It was the beginning of a spell of hysteria that went ahead of anything in the line I have ever seen before or since.

"We rushed for water and dashed it in her face. The office boy held her head. I held her hands, while her husband, looking the villain he was, went hastily fumbling through pocket after pocket for the alimony. To our surprise, seeing he had declared himself dead broke at the beginning, he succeeded in coughing up a considerable sum of money to meet the emergency. He handed it over to her, whereupon she became sufficiently calm to be conducted to a cab and started off in the direction of home.

"After that it was plain sailing for that little woman, so far as her alimony was concerned. Whenever she became due at the office he went industriously through each and every pocket in his diligent search for the money. He watched her very carefully meanwhile, to see whether or not she was developing symptoms of another yell. He was not the only one in the office who kept a careful eye on her. The office boy and I did, also.

"Her little scheme had a most salutary effect. He not only produced the money at once, for fear of a similar spasm, but it got to be so that he collected bills the day before he expected her and handed them out to her, the moment she entered, with a broad, bland smile, like a little man."

Mourns Lost Pet Frog.
After keeping a frog for ten years, simply as a question of ascertaining how long it would live, James Spence of this place has lost it and is inconsolable.

Ten years ago the frog, then a small one, escaped into a cellar through a rat hole, rapidly increased in size and was permitted to make the place its home, being fed and cared for every day.

It became a great favorite with patrons of the restaurant, and at a well known whistle would come to the hole for food or to be seen, but it was unable to leave the place.—West Chester Correspondence of the Philadelphia Record.

White Sparrows in Maine.
A large flock of sparrows attracted much attention in a mill yard in Gardiner some time ago. One of their number was perfectly white, not having a dark feather, and appeared perfectly capable of looking out for himself.—Maine Woods.

Bad Stomach Makes Bad Blood.

You can not make sweet butter in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate, work up and disintegrate our food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and foul the result will be torpid, sluggish liver and bad, impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion. Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs; especially if there is also aeration or catarrhal action of the intestinal tract. Glycerine is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity. It is useful in chronic constipation, stimulating the secretory and excretory functions of the intestinal tract."

When combined, in just the right proportions, with Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Blood-root and Mandrake root or extracts of these, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there can be no doubt of its great efficacy in the cure of all stomach, liver and intestinal disorders and derangements. The several ingredients have the strongest endorsement in all such cases of such eminent medical leaders as Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Robert A. Harter, M. D., of the University of Pennsylvania; Prof. Lawrence Johnson, M. D., Medical Department University of New York; Prof. Edwin H. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Chas. M. Snyder, M. D., and Prof. John King, M. D., Authors of the American Dispensary, and scores of others among the leading medical men of our day.

Who can doubt the curative virtues of a medicine the ingredients of which have such a professional endorsement? Constipation cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One or two a dose.

To Prevent Metal Rusting.
A good mixture which will prevent the rusting of machinery, says an English publication, is made by dissolving one ounce of camphor in one pound of melted lard. After the impurities have been skimmed, black lead should be added to give the whole an iron color. After cleaning the machinery carefully and smearing it with the mixture it can be left indefinitely, or if wiped off after twenty-four hours it will obviate rust for some time. When removed, the metal should be polished with a soft cloth.

TERRIBLE SCALY ECZEMA.
Eruptions Appeared on Chest, and Face and Neck Were All Broken Out—Cured by Cuticura.
"I had an eruption appear on my chest and body and extend upwards and downwards, so that my neck and face were all broken out; also my arms and the lower limbs as far as the knees. I at first thought it was prickly heat. But soon scales or crusts formed where the breaking out was. Instead of going to a physician I purchased a complete treatment of the Cuticura Remedies, in which I had great faith, and all was satisfactory. A year or two later the eruption appeared again, only a little lower; but before it had time to spread I procured another supply of the Cuticura Remedies, and continued their use until the cure was complete. It is now five years since the last attack, and have not seen any signs of a return. I have more faith in Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases than anything I know of. Emma E. Wilson, Liscomb, Iowa, Oct. 1, 1905."

Possesses Rare Book.
The Duke of Devonshire possesses, as an heirloom, Claude Lorraine's "Book of Truth," which is said to be one of the rarest and most valuable volumes in Europe. It is worth six times as much as the "Mazarin" Bible, the most costly book that the British Museum can boast. The late duke refused an offer of $100,000 for it.

Washing Windows.
The method of washing windows has changed very much of late; have a pail of lukewarm suds made from Ivory Soap. Dip a soft cloth in the water; squeeze almost dry and wipe the glass off. Then polish with chamomile as it leaves no lint and does the work with more ease.

RAN INTO A FLOCK OF GEESE.

River Steamer's Odd Visitors On a Trip Up the Potomac.

Capt. Bally Reed, master of the river steamer Harry Randall, reports a singular occurrence that happened on the trip of his steamer up the river Thursday night.

Capt. Reed says that the attention of the men in the pilot house was attracted to a singular noise in the air over the steamer, like she was passing through a flock of big birds.

Turning on the searchlight, it was discovered that a large flock of geese, flying low, had run afoul of the steamer, and blinded by the rays of the searchlight, were flying wildly about the smokestack.

Several of the big birds struck the stack, but fell into the water, where they could not be recovered in the darkness.

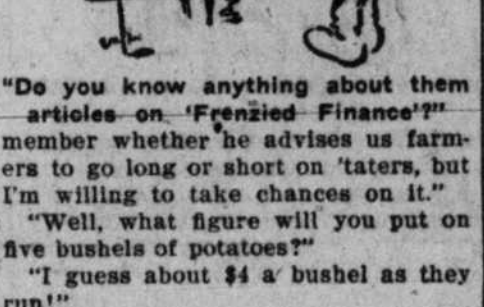

The men on the steamer fired on the geese, but failed to bring any home, though they claim they shot several.—Washington Star.

WILLING TO TAKE A CHANCE.
Farmer Had Put Price on Potatoes, and Would Stick.
I was driving along the highway as a Long Island farmer was digging potatoes and stopped to ask how much he expected to get a bushel for them. He said he would tell me if I would wait for a few minutes, and he dropped his hoe and went to the house. He was inside a good twenty minutes and when he reappeared his wife came to the door with him.

"Say, stranger," said the man, as he got back to the fence, "do you know anything about them articles on 'Frenzied Finance'?"

"You mean those written by Lawson of Boston?"

"Yes, he's the feller. I have been trying to find that last article of his, but it has been mislaid. I can't re-

"Do you know anything about them articles on 'Frenzied Finance'?" member whether he advises us farmers to go long or short on 'taters, but I'm willing to take chances on it."

"Well, what figure will you put on five bushels of potatoes?"

"I guess about $4 a bushel as they run!"

I tried to convince him that he was $2.50 above the market price, but he said that potato salad was going to be all the go in fashionable society and would lead to a sharp advance in the price of tubers, and he went to whistling and digging again as I drove off.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Record of a Marrying Parson.
The Rev. F. K. Hunsicker, pastor of St. Peter's Church of Molltown, holds Berks county's record for the number of weddings conducted in 1905. During the year 1,608 marriage licenses were granted in the county, and Pastor Hunsicker married 115 couples, being 8 per cent of the number of licenses granted, but a decrease of twenty-three couples from 1904. This deficiency was due to Mr. Hunsicker being abroad five weeks.

It is an unusual event for this minister to perform five or six marriage ceremonies on a Saturday night, and in one day the past year he married eight couples.

During the thirty-six years of his ministry he has married 2,515 couples, conducted 3,168 funerals, baptized 6,408 persons and confirmed 3,550 persons.

American Ceramics.
It is claimed by some antiquarians that America has some of the oldest native art ware in the world. The curious old bowl which is illustrated herewith is an excellent example of our native American art. The bowl in question was discovered in Colorado.

radio buried beneath the accumulation of centuries. Its origin is extremely indefinite, but it is certain that it antedates Columbus by many centuries.

Atlas Engines
Many prospective purchasers of engines and boilers are under the impression that because the Atlas Throttling Engine is of such high grade and because it is fitted with a balance valve and a main bearing, such as only Corlies engines of other makes contain, it is necessarily of such price that it is quite out of their reach. This is not true. An Atlas engine is no higher in price than any other engine, except, perhaps, one that is made entirely in a foundry.
