Where People Never Die.

It is said that the town of Patta, in Peru, has not had a drop of rain in thirteen years. The common joke about Patta is that people never die there. They simply get tired out.

Major Frederic T. Ward.

Major Frederic T. Ward, one of the worshiped gods of 400,000,000 people, has been the remarkable fate of one American citizen, Major Frederic T. Ward of Salem, Mass.

The story of this man's invaluable services to the Chinese government as commander-in-chief of the Imperial forces which suppressed the famous Taping rebellion after a twenty years' campaign, is fairly well known, but probably few Americans are aware of the almost unprecedented honors that have been paid to his memory since Major Ward fell, while leading a charge by his Ever Victorious army near the city of Ningpo, Sept. 19, 1862.

It is pleasant to realize that the memory of this illustrious Massachusetts soldier is so securely enshrined in the hearts of China's millions that nothing short of an entire change of faith on the part of that great nation can ever dim its luster.

When Major Ward fell before Ningpo, to be later succeeded in command of the army by the noted "Chinese" Gordon, his body was committed to earth with honors that have never perhaps been equaled in China, save at the death of an emperor.

This, however, was not sufficient to show the veneration in which he was held by the Chinese, for in 1871, the late Li Hung Chang of illustrious history memorialized the throne that Ward should be deified and a temple erected where he might receive sacrifices.

The throne was responsive and in the tiny village of Soong Kong, situated about 100 miles up the river from Shanghai, the necessary arrangements were later carried out.

Not many American tourists and comparatively few of the business men of Shanghai find their way to this remarkable shrine of an American-Chinese god, but a few months ago a well-known Boston merchant made a pilgrimage thither, spent several hours at the temple.

"Thither I went," says this gentleman, one beautiful day in September, to search out the place where an American citizen is held as a god.

"The main room of the temple is perhaps twenty feet square, and in the center stands the pedestal or dais on which rests the tablets which are the material manifestation of Ward's deity.

"There are a number of tablets about the shrine. Above all and the most prominent one has these words in Chinese characters, 'Sacred Seat of Major Ward.' Two others which were presented by the Taotal of Shanghai read as follows: 'A wonderful warrior; he was from beyond the seas, whose deeds spread through a myriad miles, and whose name is retained in stone and blood.'

"Near the rear of the temple stands the grave. It is a large mound possibly eight feet in height. Around its base are a half dozen tall poplar trees. It is just such a grave as may be seen anywhere in China by the hundreds of thousands.

"In no other place in the world would the grave of a foreigner receive such homage as does this one of the leader of the 'Ever Victorious Army.'

It is a remarkable story how Ward, who without military training and while comparatively a mere boy should seek such a commission. He with his followers were playing for big stakes. Many hundreds of them fell on the field and received but the scant honor of an unknown grave in an unknown land.

Others, more fortunate, as officers, have their names engraved upon the brass tablets which adorn the sides of a granite monument which stands upon the public bund in Shanghai.

Ward's name heads that list. Every morning a coolie burnishes the tablets on the monument, but he cannot read.

Two foreigners have been received into the Chinese government, and have been claimed and held as if they were God-given benefactors to the Chinese people. One was Ward, whom the Chinese have thus deified; the other is Sir Robert Hart, who is the most powerful personage to-day in the Chinese empire, an Englishman who is virtually the dictator of Chinese policy under the guise of a public adviser.

DEIFIED BY CHINESE

REMARKABLE HONOR PAID TO AMERICAN CITIZEN.

Services of Major Frederic T. Ward, Commander of the Ever Victorious Army, Recognized in a Peculiar Manner by the Celestials.

To live on after his mortal death, as a deity, one of the worshiped gods of 400,000,000 people, has been the remarkable fate of one American citizen, Major Frederic T. Ward of Salem, Mass.

The story of this man's invaluable services to the Chinese government as commander-in-chief of the Imperial forces which suppressed the famous Taping rebellion after a twenty years' campaign, is fairly well known, but probably few Americans are aware of the almost unprecedented honors that have been paid to his memory since Major Ward fell, while leading a charge by his Ever Victorious army near the city of Ningpo, Sept. 19, 1862.

Treat That Rover Missed.

Tales of the siege of Paris during the Franco-Prussian war have been many. One of these yarns was as follows: A much-loved collie dog had been preserved by its owners from the death that befell all pets during that time of starvation. There came at last a day, however, when it, too, had to go, and the sorrowing but famished family met their pet for the last time in the soup tureen. They ate in silence until nothing remained but a heap of bones. Then the master of the house, an absent-minded person, looked round in search of something, and said with a sigh: "How poor old Rover would have enjoyed those bones!"

Infalible Cure for Toothache.

A London physician at a meeting of a medical society stated that extraction of teeth was unnecessary. He was enabled to cure the most desperate case of toothache, he said, unless the case was connected with rheumatism, by the application of the following remedy to the diseased tooth: Alum, reduced to an impalpable powder, two drachms; nitrous spirits of ether, seven drachms; mix and apply to tooth.

Learning About the Brain.

We are all phenologists nowadays, not with any care for busts and bumps, but with a growing conviction that we are beginning to see, in faint outline, some facts that hang together and will some day go to make a good working theory of the life of the brain. —Dr. Stephen Paget.

PANTOMIME HAD BAD EFFECT.

London Youth Copied Crimes of Hers of Stage.

Are modern melodramas harmful to uneducated minds? Some of the old-time pantomimes in London proved to be. In the eighteenth century one of the most popular productions at the Drury Lane theater of those days was a pantomime called "Harlequin Jack Sheppard," which was simply a reproduction of the crimes of this popular young criminal, who was only 23 when he was hanged. His chief appeal to the popular imagination was his brilliant escape from Newgate prison with the fetters on his hands, and when he was made the subject of a Christmas entertainment hundreds flocked to see it. It was even proved that numbers of boy pickpockets who filled the prisons about that time had got their first inspiration to thieve from this melodramatic entertainment, and one boy confessed that he stole in order to get to the pantomime and hoped some day to be as clever as Jack Sheppard.

His View Utilitarian.

To her already considerable collection of old mahogany the woman had added an unusually large dresser that had its top covered with a slab of marble not less than six feet long. All sorts of comments had been made on it, but one of her men friends struck a note that illustrated just how many different viewpoints there may be in the world. He stood in front of it for a few moments and seemed to be comparing the length of that marble slab with his own person. Then he remarked slowly: "Wouldn't it be great to have that in your rooms and come home late on a hot summer's night, take off your clothes and lie down on it."

A NECESSARY EVIL.

Experience of a Minister Who Tried to Think That of Coffee.

"A descendant of the Danes, a nation of coffee drinkers, I used coffee freely till I was 20 years old," writes a clergyman from Iowa. "At that time I was a student at a Biblical Institute, and suddenly became aware of the fact that my nerves had become demoralized, my brain dull and sluggish and that insomnia was fastening its hold upon me.

"I was loath to believe that these things came from the coffee I was drinking, but at last was forced to that conclusion, and quit it.

"I was so accustomed to a hot table beverage and felt the need of it so much, that after abstaining from coffee for a time and recovering my health, I went back to it. I did this several times, but always with disastrous results. I had about made up my mind that coffee was a necessary evil.

"About this time a friend told me that I would find Postum Food Coffee very fine and in many respects away ahead of coffee. So I bought some and, making it very carefully according to the directions, we were delighted to find that he had not exaggerated in the least. From that day to this we have liked it better than the old kind of coffee or anything else in the way of a table drink.

"Its use gave me, in a very short time, an increase in strength, clearness of brain and steadiness of nerves; and sleep, restful and restoring, came back to me.

"I am thankful that we heard of Postum and shall be glad to testify at any time to the good it has done me."

DAZED WITH PAIN.

The Sufferings of a Citizen of Olympia, Wash.

L. S. Gorham, of 518 East 4th St., Olympia, Wash., says: "Six years ago I got wet and took cold, and was soon flat in bed, suffering tortures with my back. Every movement caused an agonizing pain, and the persistency of it exhausted me, so that for a time I was dazed and stupid. On the advice of a friend I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and soon noticed a change for the better. The kidney secretions had been disordered and irregular, and contained a heavy sediment, but in a week's time the urine was clear and natural again and the passages regular. Gradually the aching and soreness left my back and then the lameness. I used six boxes to make sure of a cure, and the trouble has never returned."

Ever Hear of "Scotty" and His Record-Breaking Ride?

The story, briefly told, is this: Walter Scott, the Death Valley gold miner, made the trip from Los Angeles to Chicago last summer on a special train over the "Santa Fe" in less than 45 hours. That whirlwind train cost him more than $6,000. It was the fastest long distance run over mountains and plains ever made on any American railway. It demonstrated beyond dispute that the Santa Fe track, equipment and employees are of the dependable kind. Probably you wouldn't care to ride so fast.
