

A PRECARIOUS CONDITION

Many Women Suffer Daily Miseries and Don't Know the Reason.

Women who are languid, suffer backache and dizzy spells, should read carefully the experience of Mrs. Laura Sullivan, Bluff and Third Sts., Marquette, Mich., who says: "I had backache and bearing-down pain, and at times my limbs would swell to twice natural size. I could hardly get up or down stairs, and often could not get my shoes on. Beginning to use Doan's Kidney Pills I got relief before I had used half a box, but continued taking them until cured. The bloating subsided and I was well again."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Spider Lives Long on Light.

Little Miss Muffet's spider was perhaps not so hungry as he looked. M. J. H. Fabre has studied the spider's powers of fasting. He noticed that the mother spider carries its little ones on its back for seven months, and that during that time the young spiders consume absolutely no food. He concluded from this observation that it is the solar heat and light that for them directly takes the place of nourishment. In other words, the motor heat in these young animals, instead of being released from the food, might be utilized directly as the sun, source of all life, radiates it.

FOR NERVOUS PEOPLE

A Michigan Mother Preserved to Her Family by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When the blood is impoverished the nerves starve and neuralgia or something more serious swiftly follows. Nervous people are generally pale people. By supplying through the blood those vital elements that the nerves need, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have performed those remarkable cures that make it impossible for any nervous sufferer to neglect them.

A recent case is that of Mrs. Peter Morrisette, of No. 315 Eleventh street, Alpena, Mich., who writes as follows: "My trouble started with childbirth. After one of my children was born I had a kind of paralysis. I was very weak and my mouth was a little crooked. I was always tired and was so nervous that I could not bear to hear a dog bark or a bell ring—even the little bird in its cage would annoy me. My heart fluttered a great deal and I had dizzy spells. I was not able to be left alone. "My doctor gave me different kinds of medicine, changing it several times. When it was evident that he could not help me he said he did not understand my case. This was three years ago and I was very much discouraged, when my brother, who had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, recommended them to me. I tried them and noticed a change for the better when I was taking the second box. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me and I have been well ever since. I now do all my own housework, sewing and washing for seven of us."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also cured diseases caused by impure or impoverished blood such as rheumatism, anemia and after-effects of the grip.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or the remedy will be mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

One Trouble at a Time.

Never bear more than one kind of trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds—all they have had, all they have now, and all they expect to have.

To Launder White Silk Handkerchiefs. Do not put white silk handkerchiefs in the ordinary wash as they are easily laundered at home. Make a strong lather of Ivory Soap and water, but do not rub the soap on the handkerchief or use soda. Rinse and iron while damp with a moderately hot iron.

RUSSIA IS A RIVAL.

COMPETITOR OF AMERICA IN INDIA OIL FIELDS.

Advantage Lies with Our Producers in Advanced Methods of Refinement, Transportation, Etc.

The illuminating oil trade of British India is at present almost exclusively controlled by Russia. Of the 22,500,000 gallons of kerosene oil imported into Bombay during the fiscal year 1904-05 the czar's empire was credited with more than 17,000,000 gallons, valued at nearly $2,000,000. This oil, however, is not the highest quality of illuminating fluid, states the New York Tribune. Russia has never been able to meet the United States in competition for the higher grades of oil, but for some years she has practically controlled the market of British India in low grade and low priced oils.

For these oils, however, other competitors have appeared in the market, which threaten to take away ultimately her present supremacy. Dutch Borneo has within the last three years increased the volume of her export of kerosene to Bombay from 500,000 to 3,500,000 gallons.

Burma oil also shows a remarkable advance, and its first shipment to Bombay was recorded last year. Being a part of British India, politically, Burma imports her oil into Bombay duty free, which, of course, gives her a great advantage over the Russian producer.

The American producers of kerosene have lately been devoting considerable attention to the importation of Russian oil into Bombay. It is believed that with advanced methods of refinement, system of bulk transportation and immense installations the United States will be able to meet successfully the competition, not only of Russia, but of Borneo and Burma, in the kerosene markets of India.

The Russian oil sent to India is produced near Baku, on the western shore of the Caspian sea. From there it is carried across Trans-Caucasia, some 500 miles, to the port of Batoum, on the Black Sea, on tank cars, holding ten tons each, like those which were used in the Pennsylvania oil fields over 30 years ago. The cost of railway freight is $6.50 a ton.

At Batoum the oil is loaded on oil steamers, which transport it across the Black sea, through the Bosphorus and Dardanelles, down the Aegean sea, across the Mediterranean, through the Suez canal, through the Red sea and the Arabian sea to Bombay, the distance traversed being some 6,000 miles, although Bombay is only about 2,000 miles in a straight line from Baku, the point of departure.

It is thought by the producers of the United States that in their facilities for transportation they have an advantage which will enable them easily to wrest from Russia the predominance which she has held in the oil trade of British India. Russia, herself, however, is doing a good deal to lessen the costs of transportation, and this must be taken into account in forming plans of action in the contest.

A pipe line to unite the wells at Baku with the port of Batoum has been completed, and this cannot fail to have an important and far reaching effect on the Russian oil industry. The length of the line is 570 miles. It crosses the watershed of the province, and will carry crude oil from Baku to be distilled and shipped at Batoum.

The total capacity of the tanks and pipes of the line is, roughly speaking, 12,507 tons. The saving in freight by the pipe line is estimated to be equal to one-half of the old car freight, which will prove an important factor in the competition to hold the oil markets of British India.

The increase of exports is estimated to amount to more than 500,000 tons a year, and it is calculated that as the result of the construction of the new pipe line a lessening of the cost of oil to the consumer can be made of about two cents a gallon. The American producers must be able to meet this reduction, and, possibly, increase it, if it is to secure the rich field now being worked by Russia.

Shipments of American Tea.

This year 12,000 pounds of choice tea will be shipped from what is at present the only tea farm in the western hemisphere. The farm is at Somerville, S. C. In the face of difficulties that at times seemed insurmountable, but, on the other hand, with the kindly assistance of the United States government, the Somerville tea farm has grown to a point where it can offer serious competition with the best grades of tea shipped from China, India, Formosa or Java. But, above all, it has been demonstrated that, barring the question of labor, the finest tea can be successfully grown at home, and there is nothing that gladdens the heart of an American more than the discovery that he can enter into competition in a field hitherto denied him.—Technical World.

There Are Others.

"Why do you always tell that story about how you used to drive the cows to pasture whenever we have company to dinner? I don't want people to know that I got the palls ready for you!" said Mrs. Woudbeswell. "Oh, what do you care?" said her husband. "In these days of rubber gloves you can't tell who's doing her own dish washing."—Detroit Free Press.

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, and as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, debilitated, nervous, "run-down," pain-racked women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness, all catarrhal affections, whether of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchia, or other mucous passages, also as an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin, watery or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honesty in the full list of ingredients composing it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is the best guaranty of their merits. They cannot be classed as patent or secret medicines for they are neither—being of known and verifiable ingredients.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the afflicted into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines freely before them because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the most eminent medical writers as cures for the diseases for which these medicines are recommended. Therefore, the afflicted do not have to rely alone upon Dr. Pierce's recommendation as to the curative value of his medicines for certain easily recognized diseases.

A glance at the printed formula on each bottle will show that no alcohol or no harmful or habit-forming drugs enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines, they being wholly compounded of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American forest plants. These are best and safest for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. Dr. R. V. Pierce can be consulted, by addressing him at Buffalo, N. Y., and all communications are regarded as sacredly confidential.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

FINS ARE SIMILAR TO WINGS.

Flying Fish Really Propel Themselves Through the Air.

Does the flying fish really fly, or is the so-called flight a mere extended leap, in which the fins are used on the principle of the aeroplane to float or rest on the air, and so afford support to the body? The question has been much discussed, and many naturalists have denied it the power of true flight. Mr. Frank Bullen, who in his many voyages has had unique opportunities for observing the flying fish, is emphatic in the assertion that it does really fly in the proper sense of the word. He has seen it, for example, change its course at a sharp angle when an obstacle intervened, and when about to re-enter the water he has seen it rise and continue its course on seeing an enemy below. Some recent observations contributed by Lieut. Col. Durnford to the London Annals and Magazine of Natural History, confirm this view. The writer contends that the ordinary aeroplane theory involves a mechanical impossibility. The true explanation is an intensely rapid vibration of the winglike fins—a vibration which becomes apparent to the eye as it slows down when the fish reaches the water.—London Globe.

Feed Flies to Chickens.

One of the strangest cargoes ever carried consisted of several tons of dried flies, which arrived in London the other day from Brazil. They are mixed with meal and make fine food for chickens. They bring 16 cents a pound, and there are about sixteen pounds to a bushel. The importers used to get only 10 cents a pound, but the demand has increased greatly.

A WOMAN DOCTOR

Was Quick to See That Coffee Poison Was Doing the Mischief.

A lady tells of a bad case of coffee poisoning and tells it in a way so simple and straightforward that literary skill could not improve it.

"I had neuralgic headaches for 12 years," she says, "and have suffered untold agony. When I first began to have them I weighed 140 pounds, but they brought me down to 110. I went to many doctors and they gave me only temporary relief. So I suffered on, till one day in 1904, a woman doctor told me to drink Postum Food Coffee. She said I looked like I was coffee poisoned.

"So I began to drink Postum and I gained 15 pounds in the first few weeks and am still gaining, but not so fast as at first. My headache began to leave me after I had used Postum about two weeks—long enough I expect to get the coffee poison out of my system.

"Now that a few months have passed since I began to use Postum Food Coffee, I can gladly say that I never know what a neuralgic headache is like any more, and it was nothing but Postum that cured me. Before I used Postum I never went out alone; I would get bewildered and would not know which way to turn. Now I go alone and my head is as clear as a bell. By brain and nerves are stronger than they have been for years." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," 14 pgs.

THE BOY AND THE JUDGE.

Typical Instance of a Denver Judicial Celebrity's Treatment of Youth.

Seven years ago, before there was such a thing as a juvenile court, a boy of nine was arrested in Denver for burglary. He was brought into the criminal court, tried as a burglar, and sent to jail. He served a term of years, during which he learned thoroughly the trade which he had been accused of plying. When he was released, writes Frances Maule Bjorkman, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews, he began to practice in earnest. He was rearrested, recommitted, and, after a second term, turned loose again, a more accomplished burglar than before. A few months ago he was shot at by the Denver police in an attempt to escape a third arrest. He was captured and brought into the juvenile court, still a mere child that ought to have been going to school.

Judge "Ben" B. Lindsey, who presides over the tribunal, was confronted by a bold, hardened and unnaturally sharp young expert in crime who had mystified the police by telling half a dozen different stories. Judge Lindsey began by telling the boy that he didn't believe him to be half as "tough a kid" as the police had made him out, and that he would not be "sent up" if he was "square with the court" and made a clean breast of his trouble with the "cops."

This new treatment got from the boy his real story. He had been led into his first offense by a desire for a knife with which to make a kite. His father refused to get him one, and he broke into a barber shop and took a razor. According to the letter of the criminal law, the boy had committed a burglary. As there was no "juvenile" law at the time, he was dealt with as a professional housebreaker. Asked about his first trial, he said to Judge Lindsey: "Aw, de guy wid de whiskers, wot sat up on de high bench looked over at de 'cop,' and de 'cop,' he says: 'Dis is a very bad kid; he broke into Smith's barber shop and took a razor, and he admits it, yer honor. Den de guy on de high bench sends me up widout givin' me a chanct to say a word."

Thus, the boy was well started on a criminal career before he was ten years old. Fortunately, he fell into the hands of the Denver juvenile court, which had been established in the interval between his second and third arrest, while he was still able to "pull up." Instead of telling him that he was a bad boy and sending him to jail again, Judge Lindsey told him that he was a "bully fellow" and set him free—no probation. To-day that boy is still going uphill as fast as he was going downhill before.

NOT A REAL SAFE PLACE.

There Appeared to Be Too Many Opportunities for Getting Into Trouble.

When Mr. Trent decided to buy a home in the south in which he and his family could spend the spring months, during which they had found New England winds and weather to be trying, he took a journey of investigation, relates Youth's Companion.

Mr. Trent was accustomed to be treated as if his society were eminently desirable, and it was therefore with a friendly and engaging smile that he addressed a melancholy person who was lounging on the piazza of the hotel at his first southern stopping place. "I'm thinking of buying a place down here," said Mr. Trent, in a half-confidential tone. "Now what part of the country would you particularly recommend? The landlord tells me you've lived south for many years."

"Yes, I've lived south a long spell," admitted the melancholy man, "though I was raised north, and I'm willing to say right here and now that you couldn't find a more favorable nor a lovelier spot in this whole state, sir, than this very town. I have lived here for five years, and if I'd had anything like a fair show I should have enjoyed every minute of the time."

"You haven't had a fair show?" asked the New Englander. "No," said the melancholy one. "This is a lovely spot, and if I'd had a fair show I'd have enjoyed it; but the first year I had fever and ague, and the next year I was bit by a shark, and the third year I had an awful fight with a snake, that shook up my nerves, and last year—"

"I doubt if I should like this locality," said the New Englander, briskly. The melancholy man looked at him with mild astonishment. "Why, you know it's pretty dangerous living anywhere, stranger," he said, slowly, "if that's what you're thinking about."

What She Left Off.

A teacher in a certain Episcopal Sunday school, had been impressing on her girls the need of making some personal sacrifice during Lent. Accordingly, on the first Sunday of that penitential season, which happened to be a warm spring day, she took occasion to ask each of the class in turn what she had given up for the sake of her religion. Everything went well and the answers were proving highly satisfactory until she came to the youngest member. "Well, Mary," inquired the teacher, "what have you left off for Lent?" "Please, ma'am," stammered the child, somewhat confused, "I—I've left off my leggins."—Lippincott's.

SKIN ERUPTIONS 35 YEARS.

Suffered Severely With Eczema All Over Body—A Thousand Thanks to Cuticura Remedies.

"For over thirty-five years I was a severe sufferer from eczema. The eruption was not confined to any one place. It was all over my body, limbs, and even on my head. I am sixty years old and an old soldier, and have been examined by the Government Board over fifteen times, and they said there was no cure for me. I have taken all kinds of medicine and have spent large sums of money for doctors, without avail. A short time ago I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, two treatments in all, I am now well and completely cured. A thousand thanks to Cuticura. I cannot speak too highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John T. Roach, Richmondale, Ross Co., Ohio, July 17, 1905."

The Three "G's."

S. S. Breese Stevens tells of an old colored minister whom he heard preach in Richmond, Va., not long ago.

"It seems," says Mr. Stevens, "that the church treasury was represented by a deficit, and on this occasion the worthy colored clergyman's discourse was directed toward urging his congregation to make their donations a bit more liberal. His remarks, in part, were something like this: "Now, dis heah ch'ch, needs jes three things, an' dey all begins wid 'G.' Dey's grace, grit, and greenbacks. De good Lawd sends us grace; I've got de grit, and you, ma bruders, jes got ter rustle 'roun' fo' de greenbacks."

FRIGHTENS HIS BROTHER RATS.

Rodents Will Not Associate With Belligerent Companion.

One of the old school-book stories of another generation told about the ruse of a porter, who caught a rat and fastened a bell to its neck. When it was turned loose again and ran through the building all other rats left in fright at the strange member of their species that was trying to associate with them.

The janitor of a bank in Cleveland followed the idea in this old story, and it works out just as the school books say it did. Traps set every night were filled with the rodents, and yet there seemed to be no end to their ravages. One morning the janitor chloroformed a big fellow and fastened a wire loop securely to its neck. To this loop were attached three tiny tinkling bells. Mr. Rat was revived by being placed before an electric fan and then allowed to go again. His bells have since been heard tinkling behind the walls, but he is a lone some wanderer through what was once a populous rat city. All the rats have left this building and he is monarch of all he surveys. Probably he would prefer to "dwell in the midst of alarms" again rather than "reign in this desolate place."
