REWARD OF THRIFT AND CONFIDENCE.

J. R. Ryan, a prominent mine owner from Crystal Springs, took a lay over at the Vegas Monday. Mr. Ryan is a prominent mine owner and operator in the Bullfrog belt. Somewhat over a year ago he applied himself to securing claims around Crystal Springs, when the wise ones used to, all the same like Las Vegas Age, say nothing there. But today Mr. Ryan is gaining his reward. His property is in demand. Within the past few weeks the Tonopah Mining company paid him a princely price for a number of claims out of his 90 odd claims near Crystal. Crystal is about seven miles from Rhyolite and in the zone that says millions in it.

An earnest and indefatigable worker, Ryan is gaining his reward that comes with thrift and confidence.

JOURNALIST FROM BULLFROG.

Hon. Frank Mannix, the nestor of Bullfrog journalism—editor and publisher of the live Bullfrog Miner—not the pessimistic Beatty Bullfrog Miner—was at Vegas Monday, en route for Los Angeles. Mr. Mannix was full to the brim with information and knowledge of the wondrous wealth of the Bullfrog country. In bringing the attention of the world at large to these great resources Frank Mannix played fully his part and is entitled to a full measure of credit for the same.

Men of the Mannix caliber and character are ever worth more than their weight in gold in the upbuilding of a new country. It is the hope of the Times that Mannix will be richly rewarded for his patriotic endeavors in behalf of Nevada's greatness.

ITS BEST FUTURE.

It has well been said that Caliente is the pearl of the mountains and the gem of a great inland empire. Caliente is the natural distributing point for the commerce of a territory that is greater than the state of Rhode Island.

As a railroad point it is the most important and lively along the whole Clark line, with the exception of Los Angeles and Salt Lake.

The mineral resources surrounding it are of such an incalculable sort as to make one wonder at the immense possibilities.

Caliente will be the largest and most thriving town in the state of Nevada before many years. It has the resources. It has the push and the vim to win.

Had Chance to Develop.

Mr. Balnes of the Bison society is a smart man and reminds us of what Uncle Enos said. "You see that nigger there? That's Booker Washington. He's the smartest nigger in the whole world." "He's not as smart as the Lord," ventured Uncle Enos' wife. "No, dat's so, but he's young yet."—Dan Beard, in Recreation.

Fine for Too Many Courses.

An edict of Charles IV of France, dated 1563, made it a civil offense to offer any guest more than three courses at one meal. If a fourth appeared, the provider of the feast was liable to a fine of 200 francs; while the guests who partook of it could be called upon to pay the authorities 40 francs each.

Unearthed Greek Wall.

An interesting archeological discovery has been made in Naples in the construction of Forcella street. A Greek wall, dating from 400 B. C., which surrounded the ancient city, has been unearthed.

High Price for Tea.

Mrs. de Bary has the unique distinction of having received the highest price for one cup of tea ever recorded. She presided at a Paris charity bazaar, and every one who wished to join her at the festive board was required to produce $7.50.

A POLITICAL GRIST

The People Ought to be Up to the Front When the Time Arrives for a Distribution of the Loaves and Fishes.

KEEP YOUR EYES ON YOUR PRIMARY.

Do Not Be Hood-winked and Sandbagged into Playing into the Hands of the "Click."

NONE TOO EARLY TO WATCH THE "RING."

After having sized up the political situation from a conservative standpoint, we are of the opinion now, more so than we have ever been, that the people of Lincoln county will have to be on the alert for if they are not the "ring" will control again.

We have no favorites in this political game in the county other than a selection of the very best material to fill the public positions to be nominated at the several county conventions within the next three or four months.

There are a great many people who would accept a nomination and then there are others who are hungry for a whack at any pie counter. The board of political control at the temporary county seat have a number of favorites they would be pleased to have nominated, and the truth of the matter is, they will attempt to manipulate the primary elections, hoping to control the conventions, then they will nominate them.

Caliente is large enough, it is strong enough and powerful enough to defeat the ring if they are so disposed. Caliente contains some of our best people in the county, being convenient to the temporary county seat, a selection or two from among our citizens would impose no hardship on the rest of the county and at the same time the people of Lincoln county could rest satisfied that the financial as well as every other interest would be carefully attended to.

There are others, perhaps, equally as well qualified and who would be only well pleased to be favored with a public responsibility, but the truth of the whole affair is we are anxious for a change. We do not care to bring to prominence the many who aspire for public place. We leave that to themselves, but we are positive that there are as good fish in the sea as have ever been caught in any well regulated county, and not considering the temporary county seat at all we cannot but conclude, the rest of the county can make ideal, respectable and responsible selections without the assistance of slate makers, political dictators and peacock aristocracy at the temporary county seat.

The time for action is not long hence, but as the "ring" has the political machinery in their hands, they will consult their own convenience before attempting to start the ball rolling.

Be on the alert, for any kind of a "ring" that may attempt to coerce, intimidate or interfere with a selection of your candidates.

Watch your primaries.

Good Breeding.

A man's own good breeding is the best security against other people's ill manners. It carries along with it a dignity that is respected by the most petulant. Ill breeding invites and authorizes the familiarity of the most timid. No man ever said a pert thing to the duke of Marlborough. No man ever said a civil one Sir Robert Walpole.—Chesterfield.

NEXT WORLD'S FAIR.

NEW ZEALAND WILL HAVE INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

Arrangements Under Way for Opening in November—Will Continue Until April of Next Year.

The next great world's fair is to be given by the colony of New Zealand, in the South Pacific islands of that name, the romantic home of the ancient Maoris, which numbers among its attractions for the tourist many relics of that ancient people, with their descendants still living according to their old-time customs. The wonderful scenery of the picturesque island, with its bursting geysers, its forests and mountains filled with game for the sportsman, add an attraction to the site of the fair which will tempt many a visitor from far-off lands to make the trip to New Zealand during the progress of the exposition.

The fair is to be held in Hagley park, Christchurch, Canterbury, beginning in November next and continuing to some date in April, 1907. This is the summer season in New Zealand, the time of year when her natural attractions are at their best. All nations of the world have been invited to exhibit at the fair. The object of the exhibition is educational, the colonists desiring to show to the world the resources and possibilities of the colony as one of the world's food-producing factors; to demonstrate its vast mineral resources and to draw attention to picturesque and unrivaled scenery, its thermal wonders and the exceptional opportunities offered to sportsmen. A further object is to bring to the notice of the more industrial nations of the world the great field offered by New Zealand as an outlet for enterprise and for the use and consumption of all manner of up-to-date appliances and manufactures.

The imports of New Zealand in 1905, at least three-fourths of which are manufactured goods, amounted in value to $66,000,000. Of course, Great Britain, the home country, furnished the great bulk of this trade. The commonwealth of Australasia was next in the list and following her came the United States, which furnished goods to the value of $8,000,000. When it is considered that this great expenditure for foreign supplies is made for the use of a colony with a population of but 850,000 persons it can be readily seen what a rare opportunity is offered for exploiting New Zealand with up-to-date manufactures. Exporters of every land on the face of the globe will be deeply interested in investigating the trade possibilities of the country and it is confidently anticipated that the fair will be a success financially as well as in bringing to the attention of the world the advantages possessed by the island as a trade center for the industrial world.

Special arrangements are being made with the steamship companies trading to New Zealand under which exhibitors will obtain special rates of freight on exhibits. The exhibition buildings will be constituted a bonded warehouse, and while all goods sold will be charged the regular rate of duty, those to be returned to other lands will be reshipped free of duty. The ordinary charge for space will be from two shillings (50 cents) a square foot, the minimum charge being $5.25, 25 per cent. payable on application, 25 per cent. on allotment and the balance one month before the opening of the fair.

PLANTS MADE BY SPIRALS.

Original Nebula Supposed to Have Been Formed by Influence of the Sun.

How were the planets made? Prof. R. G. Moulton, of the University of Chicago, has another alternative to La Place's theory of the formation of the planetary systems. It is that the planets and their satellites have been formed around primitive nuclei of considerable dimensions existing in spiral nebulae probably similar to those which Prof. Keeler showed to be many times more numerous than all the nebulae of all other types. The growth of each nucleus was caused by the gradual accretion of smaller masses, and the method of this growth which is suggested accounts for all the different types of bodies now found in the solar system, and for their present motions and velocities on dynamical principles. The original spiral nebula is supposed to have been formed by the near approach of another star to the body which is now our sun. This exterior attraction set up tides in the solar matter, and, being continued, actually caused immense masses to be ejected and drawn out in the spiral form. On this assumption the spiral would emerge from the central nucleus in two directions, on opposite sides, and this is the form generally shown in photographs of such nebulae.

Beaver in New York State.

Although since 1870 the beaver has continuously hovered on the point of extinction in the Empire state, there has never been a time when the North woods did not contain at least one wild colony. I have in my possession fresh beaver cuttings which were obtained within the past five years from two different localities in Franklin county, and at present there is in this county, in the waters northwest of Upper Saranac lake, a small family—perhaps two distinct families—which are undoubtedly the direct descendants of the original wild stock.—From "Bringing Back the Beaver," by Harry V. Radford, in Four-Track News.

POLYGAMY RARE IN TURKEY

The Law Allows Four Wives, But More Than One Is Considered Bad Form.

The ordinary idea of a harem probably accords little with the picture of life behind the cafes or screens covering the windows of the seraglio presented by Mrs. L. Parks-Richards in a lecture at the Waldorf-Astoria Wednesday morning. In the first place, Mrs. Richards stated that there was as a rule only one wife in the harem.

"Polygamy is practically nonexistent among the Turks," said Mrs. Richards. "The law allows a man four wives, but makes it so difficult for him to take a second one by requiring him to provide for her exactly as he did for the first that it is seldom done. Besides, among the upper classes polygamy is not considered good form. I heard of half a dozen Turks who had two wives while I was in Constantinople, and of one who had four, but these are rare exceptions. 'The crowd of women found in a Turkish harem is made up of servants, slaves and female dependents. No Turk ever lets a relative suffer while he has a roof over his head and every great house has numbers of such dependents, both male and female.'"

Neither is the life of the harem dull, according to Mrs. Richards. No man ever enters it except the husband, son, father or brother of the mistress, but she may receive women friends and go to see them.

The relation of the inmates of the harem to one another Mrs. Richards found very beautiful. Children were great pets, she said, and servants and slaves were treated with great consideration. Slaves are often treated like members of the family, may marry a son of the house and are much sought in marriage by men for the purpose of avoiding complications with mothers-in-law.

"The sultan's harem," said Mrs. Richards, "is composed entirely of slaves, as the law forbids members of the imperial family from marrying into the great houses of the realm, lest the latter be made too powerful." The Turkish woman, Mrs. Richards found, is quite satisfied with her lot, while that of the European woman is regarded with horror by the most enlightened Turks.

"It is true," said a Turkish official of high rank and much culture, "that we marry our daughters to men whom they never see until their wedding day, but we do not have the awful European spectacle of angling for men. We do not bring them into the open market and sell them to the highest bidder."

HOW HIS WIFE KEPT TAB.

Made the Old Man Bring Home at Least One Street Car Transfer Each Day.

When the old man got on the car with two heavy market baskets, under the weight of which he fairly staggered, he asked for a transfer ever before he paid his nickel fare. The conductor smiled as he handed over the slip and the old man put it away with extreme care, relates the Chicago Record-Herald.

Near one of the streets midway between those on which were cross-town street car lines the old man asked the conductor to stop. This was done, and the car man smiled as he lifted off the basket. A fellow passenger who had witnessed the incidents asked the conductor why the old fellow had insisted on a transfer when he did not intend to use it.

"Didn't intend to use it?" echoed the conductor. "Oh, but he does use it, and he uses one each weekday of the year. No, he does not change cars for he lives in the second house from the corner where he gets off. To him the transfer is most valuable evidence that he has paid his fare, and not spent the nickel for barrel-house liquor and walked home."

"You see, it is this way: The old man was once a prosperous business man, but booze got the better of him and he lost all he owned. His wife had managed to save a few hundred dollars, and when he went all to pieces she started a boarding house and made him her buyer. She found that he was in the habit of walking to and from the market and spending the fare money for drink. Then she conceived the idea of making him bring home a transfer each day so as to make sure that he rode at least one way. How do I know this? Because I made him confess. Does it keep him sober? Well, not entirely, for he has established a sort of nickel graft with some of the market men. But he does not spend the old lady's money, any way."

When Men Get Wise.

The larger part of the great fortunes of this country have been accumulated after their amassers have passed 40. In fact, the first 40 years of a man's life are the preparatory years the years of training and discipline. A large part of this time he is laying the foundation—just getting ready to rear the superstructure. Many of us stumble around many years before we get into the right place, and then, for additional years, we make many mistakes. Most men do not get wise until they have passed 40. They may get knowledge before this, but not much wisdom. Wisdom is a ripening process. It takes time.—Success Magazine.
