Russians Carefully Guard Rich Heirlooms They Bring Here.
Few Americans would believe that nearly every Russian peasant that comes to this country carries in the bottom of his shabby trunk heirlooms of such that an age that they are almost worth their weight in gold. In Worcester there are several of these heirlooms in the possession of Russians who have emigrated to the United States, but it is almost impossible to buy them.

So said A. C. Warner, a collector of relics, in the Worcester Telegram. Lately Mr. Warner has become an enthusiast over things of great age that come from Russia, and nearly every week he makes a trip through the Hebrew-speaking and Italian-speaking quarters of Worcester, in the hope that he may find Russians who have heirlooms to sell. He has succeeded in securing several, including brass candlesticks and pewter ware.

"These Russian heirlooms," he said, "are very old, some of them 150 years old, and others much older. Recently in a certain part of Worcester I came across a pair of candlesticks thirty inches high and enameled over with silver. It was over 200 years old, and mind you the Russian thought so much of it that he toted it all the way from Russia in his little trunk. I made an offer of $30 for the relic, which was promptly refused.

"You will find few of these candlesticks alike in design. Most of them are made of solid yellow brass and weigh from two to three pounds. Other heirlooms that are brought over are teakettles, teapots and cooking utensils, all made of hammered copper. I have also seen an urn made of solid brass with a boiler and a place underneath in which to burn charcoal. Among other things that the Russians take away with them when they leave the old country are solid silver cups, spoons, knives and forks.

"These things have been handed down from generation to generation, and are very old. When a girl gets married in Russia she is given three candlesticks, and this is the reason why almost every Russian family that hits America is supplied with an abundance of these ancient candlesticks. The Russians prize these heirlooms as much as we do our family bibles and they don't part with them unless they are positively obliged to."

BLOOD POISON THE BLACK FLAG

The black flag is an emblem of horror and dread. When it is hoisted by an army, the order has gone forth that "no quarter" will be given, everything must be destroyed. Helpless women and children, as well as opposing soldiers, meet the same fate, and a trail of desolation, suffering and death is left behind. Contagious Blood Poison is the black flag of the great army of disease. This vile disorder is known as the blackest and most hideous of all human afflictions, overthrowing its victims and crushing out the life. It is no respecter of persons; no matter how pure the blood may be or how innocently the disease is contracted, when this awful virus enters the circulation the hideous, hateful and humiliating symptoms begin to appear, and the sufferer feels that his very presence is polluting and contaminating. Usually the first sign of the disease is a little sore or ulcer, but as the blood becomes more deeply poisoned the severer symptoms are manifested, the mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the groins swell, a red rash breaks out on the body, the hair and eyebrows come out, and often the body is covered with copper-colored spots, pustular eruptions and sores. In its worst stages the disease affects the nerves, attacks the bones and sometimes causes tumors to form on the brain, producing insanity and death. Not only those who contract the poison suffer, but unless the virus is driven from the blood the awful taint is handed down to offspring, and they are its innocent victims. Blood Poison is indeed a "black flag." Mercury and Potash, so often used, never can cure the trouble. These minerals merely drive the symptoms away for awhile and shut the disease up in the system, and when they are left off it returns worse than before. This treatment not only fails to cure blood poison but eats out the delicate lining of the stomach and bowels, produces chronic dyspepsia, loosens the teeth and frequently causes mercurial rheumatism to add to the patient's suffering. S. S. S., the great vegetable medicine, is the conqueror of this vile disease. It goes down to the very root of the trouble and cures by cleansing the blood of every particle of the poison. S. S. S. does not hide or cover up anything but clears the entire circulation of the virus and puts the system in good healthy condition. It cures safely as well as certainly, because there is not a particle of mineral in it. We offer a reward of $1,000.00 for proof that S. S. S. is not purely vegetable. When the blood is purified and strengthened with this great remedy the symptoms all pass away and no sign of the disease is ever seen again; nor is there left the least trace to be handed down to posterity. Special book with instructions for self-treatment and any medical advice desired will be sent without charge to all who write.

Several years ago I had blood poison and my flesh was in an awful condition. Great sores would break out and nothing I put on them would do any good. My hair and eyebrows fell out and I was "a fright." My mouth was so sore I had to live on milk and water. I took Mercury for a long time and instead of getting better I continued to grow worse and my arms and hands became solid sores. My legs were drawn so I could not walk and I felt that my time was short here if I did not get some relief. I began to use your S. S. S. and it helped me from the start. After taking it awhile the sores all healed, my rheumatism was cured and to-day I am a strong, well man. It got all the mercury out of my system and it cured me sound and well. Persian Dinners.
Persian dinners are very much like ours, only turned the wrong way round. The feast is preceded by pipes while tea and sweets are handed about. Then the servants of the house appear, bringing in a long leather sheet, which they spread in the middle of the floor. The guests squat around this, tailor-fashion. When all are seated, a flat loaf of bread is placed before every one, and the band then commences to play. The various dishes are brought in on trays, and arranged around the leather sheet at intervals. The covers are then removed, the host says "Bismillah" (in the name of God), and without another word they all fall to.

Diamond Expert.
First Stranger—Excuse me, sir, but I understand you are a good judge of diamonds.
Second Stranger—That's right.
First Stranger—Would you mind giving me your opinion of the stone in this ring?
Second Stranger—Don't know anything about stones; I'm a baseball umpire. See?

Chance to Lose Her
They were about to go for a sail on the lake.
"Shall we—er—take your chaperon with us?" queried the young man.
"Will there be any danger?" she asked.
"Well, the boat might capsize," replied the youth.
"Then let us take her along by all means," said the fair damsel.

The Greatest Invention.
"What do you consider the greatest invention of modern times?"
"The phonograph," answered the political boss, who was having trouble with some of his loquacious subordinates. "It never says a thing that hasn't been told to it by somebody that knows what he is talking about."—Washington Star.

Gardening as Exercise for Women
I'm sorry for the women whose standards, social or physical, do not permit her to handle a hoe. It seems to me as graceful an instrument as a golf club. An hour's exercise along a tidy garden row will produce the finest kind of a glow, and, withal, you get so much more done with a hoe! It is but a poor-spirited person who will "putter with flowers" but dare not work in the vegetable garden for fear that some one may think that she has to do it. If the neighbors are scandalized because I turn the baby loose in the shade on the grass and push the wheel hoe instead of the perambulator; if it is their lookout. Perhaps, now, they are dying to dig and have not quite dared for fear of my scathing criticism! Let them know the worst. I purpose to dig, to rake, to sow, to weed, to hoe, and to harvest, for the sake of what I get out of it in mental growth, flowers, exercise, aesthetic uplift, and vegetables. I shall take my turn, too, with the bicycle, the tennis racket, and the golf clubs; but next to the go-cart the wheel hoe is my favorite vehicle!—Success Magazine.

A Mistake.
Said little Pericles McGook:
Into the ample, gracious cook,
"I've learned a secret which has quite transported me with keen delight. From out the cupboard you will take A whopping piece of jelly cake, With luscious layers, fine and thick, And beg of me to eat it quick. That this is accurate I know, 'As Nigle bird has told me so!" "It was a dratted lyre bird," Said cook. "Sure 'av thim birds I've heard."

Strong Reminder.
Eva—Freddy Charing says he came from London. Do you see anything that reminds you of London about him?
Ethel—Yes; even his mind is foggy.

The North Pole.

It is often said that, when the North Pole is discovered there will be found a Scotchman doing business. The Highlander always ranked foremost amongst the pioneers of the American West. His Herculean strength fitted him for frontier life, and to his constant use of "porridge" for breakfast is attributed his splendid physique. This generation can be as brawny by eating Pillsbury's vitos.

Diagnosis.
The Friend—So old Gotrox is dead, eh? What did he die of?
The Doctor—Post-mortem insanity. The Friend—Post-mortem insanity! Why, I never heard of such a thing.
The Doctor—Well, it is a form of insanity only discoverable after it is found the deceased has left the most of his money to charitable institutions.

A Pertinent Question.
A Chinaman was one day walking along a street in Glasgow when a dog ran up to him and began barking. He became greatly alarmed and dodged about all over the place to avoid it. A benevolent gentleman who happened to be passing at the time saw the trouble he was in and immediately went up to him, and, putting him on the shoulder, said, in a pacifying tone: "Come, come, my friend, you mustn't be afraid. The dog won't harm you. Don't you know the old proverb that barking dogs never bite. You surely—"
"That's all velly well," replied the Chinaman; "you knowe proverb, and me knowe proverb, but does the dog knowe proverb?"

Strenuous Life.
"Say," roared the irate citizen as he rushed into the office of the village weekly, "where's the editor?"
"Want to see him personally?" queried the office boy.
"You bet I do," answered the i. c. "I'm going to thrash him within an inch of his life. See?"
"Oh, all right," answered the boy. "Just have a seat, please. There are three others ahead of you."

European Breakfasts.

Mark Twain, in speaking of the typical European breakfasts said, "Do you know what I'll do? I'll nail a piece of cattle fish bone to the chimney, and every morning I'll hop up on the mantel and take a pick at it with a tin bill. It will be just as siling and much cheaper than a European breakfast."

It is evident that Mr. Clemens prefers the typical American breakfast dish of Pillsbury's vitos with good cream and sugar.

After Alfonso.

Ralph Peters, the new president and general manager of the Long Island Railroad, has a new joke which he declares was cabled to him from Paris. It has to do with the recent attempt to assassinate King Alfonso of Spain when he was riding through Paris in a carriage with President Loubet of France.

"Whom are they after?" Mr. Peters declares the king asked the president. "After you, my dear Alfonso," replied the French chief executive, without a smile.

Beveridge Is Glad He Laughed.

"The direction of my career was completely changed," said United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge to the writer, "by a careless laugh. When I was a youth in Illinois I heard that the Congressman from our district intended to hold an examination to determine what young man he should appoint to West Point. I pitched in and studied hard for that examination, and found it easy when I came to take it. Most of the other fellows seemed to be still struggling with it when I had finished, and I was so confident that I had made few mistakes that I was in a pretty cheerful frame of mind. This is why I laughed when one of the strugglers asked a rather foolish question of the professor in charge. The latter evidently felt that the dignity of the occasion had been trifled with, for he scored one per cent against me. When the papers came to be corrected this loss caused me to fall one-fifth of one per cent below the boy who stood highest on the list. He is a captain in the army now, where I suppose I should be had it not been for that laugh. I believe in the power of cheerfulness. Looking back, I am rather glad that I laughed."—Success Magazine.

A Wise Child.

The man who was painting signs along the road met old Uncle Remus sitting on the fence contentedly puffing his corn-cob.

"You don't seem worried over the doings of the world?" remarked the sign painter.
"Ward don't boddeh me," drawled Uncle Remus.

"But why don't you get out and hunt for boddie like the rest of the world is doing?"

Height of Sea Waves.

Careful experiments made by a noted English navigator along the north coast of Spain show that waves frequently attain a height of 42 feet, which is nothing compared to the rise of Pillsbury's vitos in the estimation of people who like good, pure common-sense wheat food. You will like it. Ask for it at your grocers.

The Difference.

There is a good story told of Sir Chieh-Chen Lo Feng-luh, who was formerly Chinese minister to England. Years ago he was secretary to Li Hung Chang. He is a very able man, and among other accomplishments speaks and writes English perfectly. The story is given in "The Navy as I Have Known It."

Li Hung Chang is reported to have said to him, "I don't know how it is we send our men to Europe and America, and have foreign instructors in our colleges, as do the Japanese, but we do not seem to derive the advantage from their instruction which the Japanese do."
To this Chieh-Chen Lo Feng-luh replied:

"That is quite true, I was a classmate of the Marquis Ito in England. He is now prime minister, and I am your excellency's secretary."

For Removing a Wrinkle.

Just think of paying $1,000 for having one wrinkle removed. That's what a well-known New York society leader has paid, and without a doubt there are many others who would be willing to pay just such an exorbitant price if they had it for the same purpose.

Authorities along these lines are demanding large sums for beautifying women's faces. It is not an easy task and means much suffering for the woman. The injection of paraffin is one of the well-known remedies for this shortcoming. The process is painful, the paraffin being injected underneath the skin by a hypodermic needle and allowed to remain there, harden and become a part of the membrane tissue, which it does in time.

It is a good remedy. The wrinkle is sure to disappear, and there are more women than one would surmise who are undergoing such a treatment.

Some of the society leaders who have gone west, for a rest, as they say, have in reality secluded themselves for a time with doctors of beauty and upon making their reappearance in society are indeed creatures of beauty. Their complexions are beautified, white and pink, without a blemish, and they have regained their good humor and look like young matrons just entering their second year of married life, instead of contemplating the celebration of their twenty-fifth.

The Ironic Motorman.

The car was just getting under way, says a writer in the New York Sun, when two women, rushing from opposite sides of the street to greet each other, met right in the middle of the car track and in front of the car.

There the women stopped and began to talk. The car stopped, too, but they did not appear to realize that it was there. Some of the passengers on the front seat began to make sarcastic remarks. Then the motor man showed that he possessed the saving grace of humor. Leaning over the dashboard, he said, gently:

"Ladies, would you like to have me get you a couple of chairs?"
