"Tommy, I wish you would run to the butcher shop and tell the man to send over two pounds of the same beef we had the other day."
"Yes, mother, it will afford me unwonted pleasure to do as you request," replied Tommy, as he wiped off his glasses.
"And Tommy?"
"Yes, mother."
"Be sure and tell the butcher to send dressed beef—we wouldn't dare let the neighbors see it come into the house otherwise."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Since She Left.
A city lady wrote to a farmer living in the country, where she spent vacation with her family last summer, and told him she would like to come again, and she objected to the kitchen methods of the hired girl and to the swine being kept too close to the house. She received an answer which contained the following:
"You may cum alright, Hannah has went, and there ain't been no hogs on the place since you left last summer."—Magazine of Fun.

Might Have Known It.
Green—What became of that pretty stenographer you used to have?
Brown—Had to let her go because the clerks flirted with her.
Green—Why don't you get a plain one?
Brown—I did advertise for one of that kind, but didn't get a single response.

How Many Birthdays?

You must have had sixty at least! What? Only forty? Then it must be your gray hair. Ayer's Hair Vigor stops these frequent birthdays. It gives all the early, deep, rich color to gray hair, and checks falling hair. And it keeps the scalp clean and healthy.

"I was greatly troubled with dandruff which produced a most disagreeable itching of the scalp. I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor and the dandruff soon disappeared. My hair also stopped falling out until now I have a splendid head of hair."—DAVID C. KINSE, Plainfield, Conn.

"But," protested the multimillionaire's son, "I don't want to go to college."
"Oh, very well," rejoined the old man. "I'll have 'em bring it to you."

A Mere Quack.
Jobson—You don't mean to say you have engaged Dr. Quack for your sick daughter?
Bobson—Why, yes.
Jobson—Great snakes! Why, man alive, I wouldn't let that fellow doctor my mother-in-law.

RHEUMATISM

BODY RACKED WITH PAIN

No other bodily suffering is equal to that produced by the pain of Rheumatism. When the poisons and acids, which cause this disease, become entrenched in the blood there is hardly any part of the body that is not affected. The muscles become sore and drawn, the nerves twitch and sting, the joints inflame and swell, the bones ache, every movement is one of agony, and the entire body is racked with pain. Rheumatism is brought on by indigestion, stomach troubles, torpid Liver, weak Kidneys and a general inactive state of the system. The refuse matter instead of passing off through nature's avenues is left to sour and form uric acid, and other acrid poisons which are absorbed into the blood. Rheumatism does not affect all alike. In some cases it takes a wandering form; it may be in the arms or legs one day and in the shoulders, feet, hands, back or other parts of the body the next. Others suffer more seriously, and are never free from pain. The uric acid and other irritating substances find lodgment in the muscles and joints and as these deposits increase the muscles become stiff and the joints locked and immovable. It matters not in what form the disease may be the cause is always the same—a sour, acid condition of the blood. This vital stream has lost its purity and freshness, and instead of nourishing and feeding the different parts with health-giving properties, it fills with painful and far-reaching disease. The cold and dampness of Winter always intensify the pains of Rheumatism, and the sufferer to get relief from the agony, rubs the affected parts with liniments, oils, lotions, etc., or uses plaster and other home remedies. These are desirable because they give temporary ease and comfort but have no effect on the real trouble which is in the blood and beyond the reach of such treatment. S. S. S. is the best remedy for Rheumatism. It goes into the blood and attacks the disease at its head, and by neutralizing and driving out the acids and building up the thin, sour blood it cures the disease permanently. In the establishment some years ago of a mid-day luncheon service for the members of the school the Los Angeles State Normal School led the way in a plan that is being widely adopted by other similar institutions. This service is maintained by the department of Domestic Science. Wholesome meals are prepared and served largely by the students themselves. The enterprise is entirely self-supporting, and besides affording a valuable training, and a certain amount of remunerative employment for the students, fills an important economic place in the life of the school.

Concerning Common Sense.
The man who knows when not to talk possesses judgment of a high order. People everywhere are displaying good judgment by eating Pillsbury's Vitos for breakfast. It's a mighty good thing to be outside of; try it.

The number of graduates from the Los Angeles State Normal School this year promises to exceed that of any previous year in the history of the school. The mid-year senior class number 59 and the second-term class 90.

She'd Keep It.
"But can you keep house?" he asked, doubtfully; for he was, above all things, a practical man.
"If you get a house and put it in my name," she replied promptly, "I'll keep it all right enough."
Matters being thus satisfactorily settled, their engagement was announced.—Judge.

THE COLORS OF SYRIA.

Crowning Glory of Syrian Landscape Is in Brilliant Hues.
The crowning glory of a Syrian landscape, however, is its brilliant coloring. Before I left America, says Lewis Gaston Leary in the World Today, it seemed to me that the vivid tints of Tissot's pictures must be exaggerated, but they fall short of the reality. Of course, no artist can hope to reproduce the marvelous warmth and depth of the colors in an eastern landscape or to imitate the vague, soft hues that are so characteristic of the Syrian atmosphere; but it would be almost as impossible for him to find tints that were overbright or to arrange them in an order too daring to be matched by the Syrian sun.
The very nights are full of color. The moonlight is so brilliant that it is easy to read a guide book, and, even on a moonless night and in the wilderness, far from any city's glare, the starlight has been so bright that I could see the second hand of my watch and could find quite a distinct shadow cast by Jupiter. A moonlit scene at home gives only the impression of light spots and dark spots; everything is black or white or gray; but here in Syria the moonlight shows all the colors of the rainbow. The green of the trees and grain, the red of the roofs, the blue of sea and sky and the white of the distant mountains are softer and more delicate, but hardly less distinct, one from the other than in the sunlight.

But the sunset colors are the best of all, especially where the mountains come close to the sea. I hesitate to compare Beirut with Naples; yet we have as clear skies here, the sweep of the bay is much the same, and, instead of smoky Vesuvius, there is the splendid range of Lebanon, culminating in Jebel Sunnin, almost twice as high as the Italian mountain, and for half the year crowned with dazzling snow.

The City of Spokane.
The city of Spokane, with a population of 75,853, which increased a little over 8,000 in 1904, is the gateway to and the distributing and commercial center of all this vast and rich territory. Spokane is now the second city of the State in population and commercial importance, says L. G. Monroe in the New England Magazine. It is the greatest railroad center west of St. Paul and the Missouri River, and has the greatest water power in the West. The Spokane River, flowing through the heart of the city, descends in a series of cascades a distance of 132 feet within a quarter of a mile. The minimum capacity of the falls is 33,000 horse power, of which 15,000 is developed. The power in the form of electrical energy lights the city, turns the mills and factories, operates seventy-four miles of suburban road, and is furnished manufacturers on the Niagara scale.
Electric power generated by the falls is transmitted to the famous Coeur d'Alene silver-lead mines of northern Idaho, a distance of over 100 miles. These mines produce a fifth of the annual lead output of the world, and can be easily reached via rail or via rail and steamboat from Spokane.

Aroused Him.
The doctor bent over the dying man and took his hand.
"I'm afraid the end is approaching," he said. "Your circulation is at a low ebb."
With a herculean effort the man sat up in bed. "You're a liar!" he shouted. "It went up to 80,000 last week and I can show you the books to prove it!"
And the great editor fell dead.—Cleveland Leader.

The Mean Things.
Miss Passay—It seems so funny to me now when I think how terribly afraid of the dark I was when I was a child.
Miss Speltz—But you're not afraid of it now?
Miss Passay—Of course not!
Miss Speltz—No, the dark must be so much more becoming to you than the light now.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Admiral Hichborn Praises Pe-ru-na

Admiral's Words Carry Weight.
Rear-Admiral Hichborn is one of the best known officers of our navy. His statements concerning Peru-na will have much weight as they go out in the world. What he says is echoed by many other officers of high standing.
What the Admiral Says.
Philip Hichborn, Rear-Admiral of the U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C., writes:
"After the use of Peru-na for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic."—Philip Hichborn.
An Ever-Present Foe.
The soldier and the sailor are especially subject to catarrh. In the barracks and on the field, Peru-na is found equally efficacious to overcome this physical enemy. If taken in time, it will prevent colds from developing into catarrh. Even after a cold has settled in some organ of the body, Peru-na can be relied upon as an efficacious remedy to promptly overcome it.
Peru-na will relieve catarrh, whether acute or chronic, but a few doses of it taken in the first stages of the disease will be more effective than when the disease has become established.

A Parent's Plea.
My little boy is eight years old. He goes to school each day; He doesn't mind the tasks they set— They seem to him but play. He heads his class at raffle work, And also takes the lead At making dinky paper boats— But I wish that he could read.

They teach him physiology, And, oh, it chills our hearts To hear our prattling innocent Mix up his inward parts. He also learns astronomy And names the stars by night— Of course he's very up to date, But I wish that he could write.

They teach him things botanical, They teach him how to draw, He hables of mythology And gravitation's law; And the discoveries of science With him are quite a fad, They tell me he's a clever boy, But I wish that he could add.

Life.
Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Lost Bearings.
"Bindley says he won't resign."
"Why not?"
"He declares he'll not resign under fire."
"But he's not under fire. He's over it."—Detroit News.

Not the Same.
"Has your daughter any vocal ability?" asked the new minister.
"No, she ain't much at playin'," answered Mrs. Cornshucks, "but you jist ought t' hear her sing."

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or official names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.
Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup"—and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.
