A PUBLIC DUTY.

Montpelier, Ohio, Man Feels Compelled to Tell His Experience.
 Joseph Wilgus, Montpelier, O., says: "I feel it my duty to tell others about Doan's Kidney Pills. Exposure and driving brought kidney trouble to me, and I suffered much from irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Sometimes there was retention and at other times passages were too frequent, especially at night. There was pain and discoloration. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the first, and soon infused new life. I give them my endorsement."

 The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A Public Benefactor.
 A woman whose husband's business forces them to change their residence frequently tells a little story of herself which is good enough to record among the kind deeds and generous philosophies of the world.
 "There is a great of talk nowadays," she says, "about planting good deeds and cultivating fine thoughts. Let me add something to this later-day philanthropy and altruism. It is very simple.
 "Whenever I find myself in a new region I secure permission to plant in the autumn a dozen crocuses. Usually I move away before the crocuses bloom, but the people who come after me must enjoy those dainty, bold, brave little faces that bloom before the snow has left us.
 "I am sure it is good for people to be hosts to such guests. The cheerful little plants must inspire good thoughts, and good thoughts inspire good deeds. So I plant crocuses. It is my special mission."

Marion Harland.
 The celebrated authoress, so highly esteemed by the women of America, says on page 103 and 145 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters; or, Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother."
 "For the aching—back should be slow in recovering its normal strength—an Alcock's Plaster is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight."
 "For pain in the back wear an Alcock's Plaster constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant."

Warming the Flat Iron.
 When the thermometer dropped far below zero last December good Mrs. Rogers was much disturbed at the recollection that Huldah, the new kitchen maid, slept in an unheated room.
 "Huldah," she said, remembering the good old custom of her own girlhood, "it's going to be pretty cold to-night. I think you had better take a flat-iron to bed with you."
 "Yes, ma'am," said Huldah, in mild and expressionless assent.
 Mrs. Rogers slept soundly and free from care, secure in the belief that the maid was comfortable. In the morning she again visited the kitchen.
 "Well, Huldah," she asked, "how did you get along with the flat-iron?"
 Huldah breathed a deep sigh of recollection.
 "Well, ma'am," she said, "I got it most warm before morning."

Attacks the "Woman's Page."
 At the convention of the general federation of Women's Club at St. Louis one of the delegates, Miss Lavina Egan, of Louisiana, attacked the woman's page of the modern newspaper. She declared it was filled with "plaudits and platitudes and pie crust and pudding. No woman," she declared, "is fit for the ballot box or for equal rights with men as long as she permits a woman's column of the accepted type. Clear it of recipes and frivolities and let it express the woman's point of view."
 Miss Egan is right. The woman's page as at present conducted is silly, foolish, frivolous, nauseating to a healthy mind. It contains no food for elevated thought, little that is interesting and less that is instructive.

Pine Tree Silk.
 About five tons of artificial silk are now manufactured daily in Europe and the demand far exceeds the supply. This is one of the many modern products of cellulose, that wonderful substance of which the microscopic cells of plants are made and which composes about one-third of all the vegetable matter in the world. Robert Kennedy Duncan, now professor of industrial chemistry in the University of Kansas, points out its possibilities for the manufacturer. For instance, he writes: "A pint tree is worth $10 a ton; cut and stripped it is worth $15; pulped into pulp it is worth $40; bleached it is worth $55, which turned into viscose and spun into silk is worth $5,000."—Harper's.

THRIFTY KLONDIKE MINERS.

Quiet, Provident and Anxious to Get Away as Soon as Possible.
 Lack of water is the great drawback to mining in the Yukon, says Leslie's Weekly. There is little rain during the summer and the miner must depend upon the melting snows to swell the streams for his summer sluicing.
 Villages have sprung up near the creeks and living is a shade higher than in Dawson owing to the extra freight. Sending souvenir post cards from these points becomes an expensive remembrance, as the plain, uncolored ones sell for $1.50 a dozen. The picturesque swagger miner of Cripple Creek, Creede and Tonopah is not found here. The cost of getting "in" is heavy, money is not always easily made, and the winters are bitter cold and depressing on account of the long darkness. So the miner saves his earnings until he reaches a more congenial climate. To be sure, there are men on the creeks who drink whisky—and the hardest kind of whisky—and gambling goes on; yet, on the whole, the Klondike miner is a quiet, provident individual, who devoutly hopes that the gold fields are not to be his permanent home.
 A man who works for a company or individual mine owner receives from $4 to $6 a day and his board. Many of them do their own cooking and live in cabins near the creeks. Flap-jacks (pan cakes), bacon and coffee are their chief diet during the winter, and in midsummer it requires a dexterous hand to turn the flap-jacks before the mosquitoes can settle on the unbaked side. The old-timer who has seen the ice come and go is known as a "sour dough" and these men are the aristocrats of the camp. The newcomer, or the man who spends his winters outside, is always known as a "cheechako."
 If people in the States know how letters from home are appreciated by the cabin dwellers of the Yukon they would send some message every day. I have seen miners sit in front of their cabins and read and reread old, tattered letters. At some particular passage their faces would light up with a smile and the entire letter would be gone over again.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or official names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.
 Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

Good and Poor Butter.
 Every year the dairy being drawn more closely about dairy products, and each succeeding year brings an increased demand for strictly first-class grades and a weaker demand for the poorer ones. In all probability the time is not far distant when it will be almost impossible to dispose of poor butter at all, except as grease and at grease prices. Notwithstanding all that is said against imitation butter, it is a truth that the meanest, filthiest imitation of all is made from genuine cows' milk, but in such a slovenly, incompetent manner that all value and trace of genuineness have been eliminated.
