Those who claim it is too soon to plan county division should read Senator Stewart's proposed bill on another page of this issue. While we temporize others are busy. Better be too soon than too late.

Mrs. C. C. Kirkhill entertained the club last Tuesday evening. Several invited guests were present and a pleasant evening was enjoyed with the cards followed by luncheon. The club will gather next week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Hicks.

Residents of Lincoln county who refuse to listen to the proposition to divide the county between themselves, may be forced to accept a division arranged by active residents of other counties. Senator Stewart has prepared a bill rearranging the lines of several counties, including Lincoln.

About a dozen Las Vegas gentlemen, mostly barkeepers, have formed a social club and will sit up quarters where they may spend their evenings and other leisure hours. The plan was set on motion by W. D. Worrell, who entertained the boys last Saturday night, and brought the beneficial results of such a club to their notice so forcibly, that it was immediately acted upon.

Oil Machinery

The well-boring rig recently secured by E. T. Maxwell for the Nevada Home Oil Co., has arrived in Las Vegas.

Owing to some misunderstanding among the stockholders of the company the rig remains on the side track at this point. If matters can be adjusted it will be sent on to the oil fields and operations commenced.

Another Branch Road

Salt Lake Tribune says that in two weeks Senator Clark will make official announcement of the building of a branch railroad from Tintic Junction on the Salt Lake to the Deep Creek mining district. Surveys have been made and construction will probably commence about January 1st.

State Returns

Latest advices from Reno indicate the election of the Democratic state ticket with the exception of Frank Mannix for secretary of state, Leo G. Lewis for state printer and Mitchell for superintendent of public instruction. The Republican nominees for these offices are running ahead of their ticket.

The Democrats will control the legislature by five or six votes. The Republicans seem to have the senate. Eggers, Republican nominee for controller, is crowding Rafferty, the Democratic candidate. A few scattering precincts still remain to be heard from.

How It Happened

Prospectors tell weird stories of ghostly miners seen working moonlight nights in the neighboring hills. Heat and privation might cause such an illusion but more probably these unearthly workmen are real ghosts and are the result of a severe something like this.

The Devil's withering glance darted through the wicket of the massive gates of his domain, resting upon the latest arrival from Las Vegas.

"Who are you?" said the Devil.

"I am one of Nevada's future millionaires," replied the candidate for admission.

"How many claims have you staked?"

"About 80 in different localities."

"Any location or other work done on them?" continued the Devil.

"None. I expected to relocate them by the time expired," answered the large millionaire.

"You belong to a class of men who expect to get in here by the time the mine is discovered and then sell it to the man who has the money to develop it," said the Devil.
