Headly Squelched.

George Headly, formerly Governor of Ohio, says that the hardest setting down he ever experienced fell to him while campaigning in his own State. Tired and out of sorts, he arrived at a little town one evening and went to the only hotel in the place. The proprietor stood coatless behind a little desk smoking a corncob pipe. After Mr. Headly registered his host said: "Take yer gr., up to No. 10, down at the far end of the hall." With some exasperation the State's chief executive said: "I am George Headly, Governor of Ohio." The man looked him over calmly and replied: "Well, what d'ye want me to do—kiss ye?" The Governor went meekly to bed.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Mr. Chugwater—You know what pneumonia is, don't you? Well, pleuro is the same as plural. It means more than one. Pleuro-pneumonia is what you have when you've got it in both lungs. Why can't you think these things out for yourself once in a while?

Real Name of "Guillotine."

The nickname "guillotine" will have been "louisette"—and would have been if Dr. Guillotin's own wishes had been consulted. He neither died by the guillotine nor invented it, in spite of the popular legend on both points. What he did was to carry in the constituent assembly of 1789 his proposal that decapitation should be the form of capital punishment for all classes, and no longer the privilege of the aristocracy, and to propose, on the ground of humanity, that a machine should be substituted for the ax or sword. Unfortunately his remark, "With my machine I have your head off in the twinkling of an eye, and without your feeling the least pain," extinguished his motion in laughter. But afterwards Dr. Louis, secretary of the Academy of Surgeons, to whom the question was referred, recommended such a machine, rough forms of which had been used in Scotland, England, and other countries. So at first the "national razor" was called a "louisette."
But Guillotin's remark was remembered, with "guillotine" as the result—to his deep horror and disgust.—London Chronicle.

Forgetful Saurian.

A colored preacher took some candidates for immersion down to a river in Louisiana. Seeing some alligators in the stream, one of them objected.
"Why, brother," urged the pastor, "can't you trust the Lord? He took care of Jonah, didn't he?"
"Y-a-s," admitted the darky, "but a whale's different. A whale's got a memory, but of one o' dem 'gators was ter swaller dis nigger, he'd jes' go ter sleep dar in de sun an' fergit all 'bout me."—Women's Home Companion.

Telling the News in Holland.

In Holland births, marriages and deaths, instead of being recorded in newspapers, are indicated by wind-mills. When a miller gets married he stops his mill with the arms of the wheel in a slanting position and with the sails unfurled. His friends and guests frequently do likewise with their mills in token of the ceremony. To indicate a birth the wheel is stopped with the arms in a slanting position, but at a more acute angle than for a marriage, and with the two upper sails unfurled. Should a miller die the sails of his mill are all furled, and the wheel is turned around until the arms form an upright cross, in which position they are left until the funeral has taken place.

Tribe Committed Suicide.

In consequence of the wording of a telegram, it is alleged that the Netherlands troops in Bali got Achin (this is 1,700 miles away from Bali), slaughtered about 400 people, among them a majority of women and children. The death of so many human beings is sad enough, without the imputation of cruelty against the Netherlands soldiers, says the London Times. What happened is this:
All students of Malay and Hindu history know that one of the most horrid customs in those countries is the "poo-pootan," what I should like to call the tribal suicide. A Bali prince, with the instincts of his warrior race, declines to surrender, but prefers death, and he with all his people seek death. The prince of Badoeng did this. He turned a deaf ear to all suggestions of a settlement, but he and all connected with him, men, women and children, committed suicide.

Where Ships Were Made.

The name of Bath, Maine, is inseparably associated with the history of the merchant marine of the United States, and particularly with the American ship-building industry, as that of Pittsburg is with the iron and steel industry in this country, or that of Glasgow with marine construction in the united kingdom, says the National Magazine. As a port of entry, Bath, which once occupied a prominent position and did a flourishing trade with the West Indies and Europe, has sunk into comparative insignificance, on account of the location of its magnificent harbor so far from the great pathways of present-day American commerce; but as a ship-building center, it has retained the prestige won when its ships were on every sea and in every port in the world, in that much regretted ante-bellum epoch, when the American flag was as familiar wherever the commerce-carriers of the sea penetrated as the red ensign of the mistress of the seas. Neither the increasing distance of the Bath shipyards from the materials which they consume, nor the partial change from wood to steel in hull construction, have operated to deprive this staid community of its still unchallenged sobriquet, the City of Ships.

Omissions of History.

Francis Scott Key had just written the "Star Spangled Banner."
"In days to come," he said, "when people hear that song they will stand on their feet and listen to it with uncovered heads!"
Yet even he had no premonition that the day would come when the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by a theater orchestra would make the people within hearing rise to their feet as one man, grab their wraps and make a dive for the exits.

The Evils of Constipation

are many; in fact almost every serious illness has its origin in constipation, and some medicines, instead of preventing constipation, add to it. This is true of most cathartics, which, when first used, have a beneficial effect, but the dose has to be continually increased, and before long the remedy ceases to have the slightest effect. There is one preparation, however, that can be relied upon to produce the same results with the same dose, even after fifty years' daily use, and this is Brandreth's Pills, which has a record of over 100 years as the standard remedy for constipation and all tubercularising from an impure state of the blood.
Brandreth's Pills are the same fine laxative tonic pill your grandparents used and can be found in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar-coated. 10c.

Site for Charlemagne.

Charlemagne, though interred at Aix-la-Chapelle and regarded as an ancestor by the German emperor, is nevertheless claimed as a Frenchman by the majority of modern Gauls. Their interest in the great emperor, however, does not extend to the point of providing a definite site for his monument, which for twenty years has occupied a temporary wooden pedestal on the bank of the Seine, within the precincts of Notre Dame. A movement is now on foot to have an appropriate pedestal set up for the statue, which is covered with waterproof canvas.—New Orleans Picayune.

ORPHEUM.

Christmas week at the Orpheum will be distinguished by a program of unusual quality.
Julius Steger, the well known operatic baritone, will make his first vaudeville appearance here, assisted by Helen Mar Wilcox, William H. Pascoe and John Romano the celebrated harpist. The medium for their introduction is a musical-gramme playlet entitled "The Fifth Commandment."
Kathrine Nugent, who as Flora Wiggins the tough girl, was the hit of "The College Widow" will also make her first appearance in vaudeville here. She is known as the American Cissy Loftus, and gives amusing imitations of prominent stage folk.
Mlle Dziria, a Parisian dancer whose reputation has preceded her across the foam, will be seen in a beautiful terpsichorean novelty.
Chas Serra a gymnast of fame in the East, and the three Leightons in a comedy entitled "A One-night Stand in Minstrelsy" complete the list of newcomers. The holdovers are Bellman & Moore, Kocily Bros. and the marvelous Lukens. New motion pictures.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The Christmas attraction at the Grand Opera House is "Under Southern Skies" without question the most original, diverting and the most realistic Southern play ever written. No section of our great country affords better opportunity for character drawing and charming love-story incidents. The play has been greeted with enthusiasm by every section of the country and is easily the most popular Southern play before the public. The company numbers twenty-seven persons, and is produced with the same cast and scenic settings that were used in the Belasco Theatre production in New York where the play ran continuously for several months.

President's Baby Dress.

Marianna, the 16-months-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Horace Whittlesey of Emporia, Kan., is the owner of a dress worn by William Henry Harrison, once president of the United States, when he was a baby in old Virginia days, says the New York Herald. William Henry Harrison was born in 1773. Miss Ellen Windsor, who was "Tippecanoe" Harrison's nurse, was given the dress by the mother of Mr. Harrison. She, in turn, gave it to her friend, Mrs. Chapin, for her baby to wear.

Years afterward Mrs. Chapin passed it on to her friend, Mrs. J. C. Whittlesey, and Horace Whittlesey was the next baby to wear the little garment. Mrs. Horace Whittlesey dressed little Marianna in the famous frock the other day, but she didn't allow her to make mud pies while she had it on—in fact, she wore it only half an hour, and the dress was then put carefully away.

The pretty little garment is made of low neck and short sleeves and is one piece from neck to hem. It is shirred at the top, the hem finished in genuine Mount Mellick embroidery, and French knots are scattered over the dress. The material is the finest linen.

Fifteenth Century Manners.
The antiquary took down a small, fat volume, vellum-bound, with a brass clasp.
"This is a 'Book of Manners,'" he said. "It was printed in 1476. Here are a few extracts."
And he read:
"Do not gnaw a bone, like a dog, nor suck the marrow out of a bone."
"In peeling a pear, begin at the stalk; but with an apple, begin at the top."
"Do not wipe the hands on the clothes, nor suck them, but use the cloth."
"When you drink, lift the cup in both hands; you must not drink with one hand like a wagoner when he is greasing his cart wheels."
"Wipe your nose and mouth when you have drunk, and do not cough into the cup."
"Do not eat an apple all alone, but cut it in two and give a neighbor a piece."
"Do not use your own knife to cut your meat if the host has set a knife of his own at your place."
"Do not spread butter on bread with your thumb."

Postmen Collect Debts.

A debt-collecting agency which is run as a part of the regular public postal system is the newest "improvement" of the postoffice of Austria.
Despite the novelty of the enterprise, the plan has worked admirably, so that thousands of dollars are collected annually by the postmen throughout the Austrian empire.
The system is very simple. Suppose a tradesman in Vienna has an account due from a customer in, say, such a distant town as Budapest, which he wishes to collect. Distance does not matter in the least.
He merely sends the bill to the post-office in the capital, whence it is at once transmitted to the postoffice at Budapest. There the postman presents it to the Vienna postoffice, whence it is delivered to the tradesman by postman.
In the event of payment being refused, which, of course, sometimes happens, the creditor is promptly apprised of the fact, and valuable time is thus frequently saved.

Considerate of the Cook.

"This story may sound a bit fishy, but it is true, nevertheless," said a clerk at the National hotel. "A few days ago a young man came in and registered and I immediately sized him up as a resident of the rural districts. He was very verdant and that was demonstrated beyond a doubt later when he asked me what time dinner would be ready. I told him the hours for meals and he left the desk. Shortly afterward he came back. I saw there was something on his mind and thought I'd help him out.
"Is there anything I can do for you, sir?" I inquired.
"Well, I dunno," he replied, "but I was just thinking I'd tell you I won't be here at dinner time, so you needn't bother about waiting for me. I've got to meet a feller about the time you said was meal time and I don't know whether I'll be able to get back. I don't want to put folks to any trouble, so you had better tell the cook about it. I guess I can get along without dinner for one day, anyhow."
"We don't often have guests who are so considerate of the cook," mused the hotel man.—Washington Post.

SKIN DISEASES HUMORS IN THE BLOOD.

When the blood is pure, fresh and healthy, the skin will be soft, smooth and free from blemishes, but when some acid humor takes root in the circulation its presence is manifested by a skin eruption or disease. These humors get into the blood, generally because of an inactive or sluggish condition of the members of the body whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste and refuse matter of the system. This unhealthy matter is left to sour and ferment and soon the circulation becomes charged with the acid poison. The blood begins to throw off the humors and acids through the pores and glands of the skin, producing Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum and skin eruptions of various kinds. Eczema appears, usually with a slight redness of the skin followed by pustules from which there flows a sticky fluid that dries and forms a crust, and the itching is intense. It is generally on the back, breast, face, arms and legs, though other parts of the body may be affected. In Tetter the skin dries, cracks and bleeds; the acid in the blood dries up the natural oils of the skin, which are intended to keep it soft and pliant, causing a dry, feverish condition and giving it a hard, leathery appearance. Acne makes its appearance on the face in the form of pimples and black heads, while Psoriasis comes in scaly patches on different parts of the body. One of the worst forms of skin trouble is Salt Rheum; its favorite point of attack is the scalp, sometimes causing baldness. Poison Oak and Ivy are also disagreeable types of skin disease. The humor producing the trouble lies dormant in the blood through the winter to break out and torment the sufferer with the return of Spring. The best treatment for all skin diseases is S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids and removes the humors so that the skin instead of being irritated and diseased, is nourished by a supply of fresh, healthy blood. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., while they soothe the itching caused by skin affections, can never cure the trouble because they do not reach the blood. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and forces out every particle of foreign matter and restores the blood to its normal, pure condition, thereby permanently curing every form of skin affection. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write. S. S. S. is for sale at all first class drug stores.

I suffered with Eczema for forty years and could find nothing to cure me until I tried S. S. S. I suffered intensely with the itching and burning, pus-like matter would form from which there flowed a sticky fluid; crusts would come on the skin and when scratched the skin was left as raw as a piece of beef. I suffered agony in the long years I was afflicted, but when I used S. S. S. I found a new face came. There had never been any return of the trouble.

Only Too Well Satisfied.

The husband who is always growling over everything looked up from his paper and remarked sulkily:
"Madam, I see where a man went from home, remained thirty years and then returned and gave his wife $5,000. If you don't do better you may find me doing the same trick some day."
The patient little wife looked up from her sewing and replied sweetly:
"All right, James, but if you will only remain away the thirty years you needn't trouble yourself about the $5,000." And after that he stopped growling.

Defining the Situation.

Henry B. Stanford, for several years with Sir Henry Irving's company, tells this good story of the famous actor: "Sir Henry's wit was of an almost Voltairean character. Once, while I was rehearsing 'Faust' with him at the Lyceum Theater, in London—we were doing the Brockin scene and he had occasion to reprove an array of exuberant supers—he stopped the rehearsal and all was silence. Then, in that quiet, grimy way of his, he said: 'Very charming—but you must remember that you are in hell—not plinking on Hampstead Heath.'"—Rochester Herald.
