

PERUNA A TONIC OF GREAT USEFULNESS

HON. R. S. THARIN.

Hon. R. S. Tharin, Attorney-at-Law and counsel for Anti-Trust League, writes from Pennsylvania Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C., as follows: "Having used Peruna for catarrhal disorders, I am able to testify to its great remedial excellence and do not hesitate to give it my emphatic endorsement and earnest recommendation to all persons affected by that disorder. It is also a tonic of great usefulness."

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes: "Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having the grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well. I also induced a young lady, who was all run down and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring. I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic."

Pe-ru-na Tablets. Some people prefer to take tablets, rather than to take medicine in a fluid form. Such people can obtain Peruna tablets, which represent the solid medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

No Wonder It Buzzed. She—How is your ear, dear? He—Oh, the buzzing in it is something awful. "But I thought you were going to see the doctor about it to-day?" "I did go to his office, but he wasn't in, and his wife talked to me for an hour."—Yonkers Statesman.

Busybodies. "I never saw such a rubberneck," sneered Mrs. Gabbie. "Just because the doctor stopped at our house yesterday she immediately wanted to know what was the matter."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Naylor; "I wonder how she'd like the rest of us to be that curious about her. You know the doctor stopped at her house to-day, too."

"You don't say? I wonder what's the matter there?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Tripped. Gunner—So you think the DeBlowers are faking about their extended European tour?

Guy—I should say so. They said there were so many Americans in Venice that many had to walk in the middle of the street.

Gunner—Well?

Guy—Why, the streets of Venice are canals.

Rubbing It In. Thomas Beecham, the famous pill man, was a witty old gentleman. He told a story about him and a grocer. The grocer was guilty of some rather sharp practice on Mr. Beecham one day, and the latter stamped out of the shop roaring: "You're a swindler, and I'll never enter your doors again."

Next day, though, he came back and bought five pounds of sugar. "Dear me," said the grocer, smiling in a forgiving way. "I thought you were never going to enter my doors again."

"Well, I didn't mean to," said Mr. Beecham; "but yours is the only shop in the place where I can get what I want. You see, I am going to pot some bulbs and I need sand."

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Learn to Swim. "I don't know why I should state that every man and woman, boy and girl, should know how to swim, and save life in the water besides," writes Montague A. Holbein, famous swimmer, in the Technical World Magazine. "The thing is so obvious. And yet, what a strange state of affairs we see. Every year thousands of people lose their lives bathing in the sea or rowing and sailing in small boats on lake or river. And even winter brings its tragic tale of drowning because of skaters slipping through the ice."

"I have no hesitation in saying that nearly all these sad events might be prevented if elementary instruction in swimming and life-saving were made compulsory in the public schools. And in the Old World at any rate a new era is dawning in this matter—especially in London, where the various school swimming associations with hundreds of thousands of adherents are teaching first of all 'dry-land' swimming in the play-grounds, and then practical instruction in specially erected swimming baths under competent instructors engaged by the school authorities."

"And quite apart from the question of saving one's own life or that of another, swimming opens up a new and pleasurable exercise, as well as quenching forever the dread of deep water which seems to be on the bravest of us who cannot swim."

Explanation Was Necessary. As the Pratt's dog was at last detached from the trousers leg of the new milkman by Mr. Pratt's vigorous efforts, the victim of the onslaught began to express his mind with considerable freedom.

"I wouldn't keep a dog like that," he said, indignantly, but Mr. Pratt broke in before he had time to say more.

"It's only playful, that's all," he insisted and at the same time he pressed something into the new milkman's hand.

The man glanced at the wad of green, and then, as he transferred it to a safe pocket, his expression changed.

"I guess I can take a little fun as well as anybody," he said, dryly. "But till you explained it, I had a notion that dog was in earnest when he bit that piece out of my trousers."

Getting Practice. "I counted seven girls taking down my sermon in shorthand this morning," said a suburban minister. "I am getting tired of this business of turning church into school. It is a desecration of the Sabbath and of the sanctuary, and it gets worse year by year."

"When the thing first began, I admit that I was flattered. I thought the solitary shorthand writer in my front pew was a reporter. I took unusual pains that morning, and I searched all the newspapers the next day. In vain, of course. The shorthand writer was merely a student of stenography, using me to practice on."

Love In a Roll of Paper. While pretty Miss Bertha E. Cummings of Lock Haven, Pa., employed in a papermill last fall, she wrote her name and address on one of the large rolls of paper as it was reeled off.

The roll was shipped to Brooklyn, where it fell into the possession of Andrew J. Pruey, foreman of the Mayer Press.

But weeks elapsed before he reached that part of the paper containing the scribble. When he did so, in the same spirit of fun that had prompted Miss Cummings, he wrote her a letter, telling of his find.

Correspondence followed; the pair met at Miss Cummings' home at Christmas time; it was a case of love at sight, and last week they were married at the home of the bride's parents in Lock Haven.

Growing Young Again. Two ladies were talking in a corner of the drawing room.

"Had not Mrs. M. gray hair last year?"
"Yes."
"How does it happen to be black now?"
"You forget, my dear, that she has lost her husband since then."—Tatler.

MIX THIS YOURSELF

GIVES RECIPE FOR SIMPLE HOME-MADE KIDNEY CURE.
Inexpensive Mixture of Harmless Vegetable Ingredients Said to Overcome Kidney and Bladder Trouble Promptly.

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement in a New York daily newspaper, that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe; try it:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known physician is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foet, decomposed waste matter, which cause the afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

Scattered Far and Wide. Eastern Housekeeper—Do you have any difficulty in keeping good girls in the West?

Western Housekeeper (from a natural gas town)—Great difficulty? Every once in a while the girl lets the gas run too long before lighting it, and we have to look about for a new girl. No use looking for the old one.—New York Weekly.

Respects Work. "I am afraid you don't like work."

"Yes I do," answered Plodding Pete. "I have so much respect for work that when I see a piece of it to be 'tended to I alius feel like turnin' it over to somebody else that wouldn't be as likely to spoil it as I would."—Washington Star.

Still Cutting. The stranger returned to the village after a long absence.

"And what has become of the village cut-up?" asked the stranger.
"Oh, he is grown up now," drawled the old postmaster.

"And is he still a cut-up?"
"Oh, yes. He is one of these here appendicitis doctors."

A Valued Possession. When Commander Peary made his first trip in search of the pole, he gave a "Prince Albert" coat and a weather-beaten sombrero to an Eskimo.

Years afterward, when again in the north, the explorer received a ceremonial visit from a native, and to his surprise, set eyes once more on the discarded vestments.

On the occasion of the commander's latest dash for the pole his former native friends took him aside and showed him a rude mausoleum. By it stood a disused sledge. Its six dogs had been strangled to make an appropriate funeral offering, and on the pile of stones lay what was left of the "Prince Albert" coat and the sombrero.

It All Depends. "A miss is as good as a mile," remarked the quotation fiend.
"Oh, I don't know," rejoined the contrary person. "A mis-fortune isn't."

Prepared. A farmer rode into an up-state town to consult a doctor, and took his prescription to a druggist to be filled.

When it was handed to him he inquired: "How much?"
"Let's see," said the druggist. "It's $1.10 for the medicine and 15 cents for the bottle. That makes"—he hesitated as if he might have forgotten something, when the farmer, who was in a hurry, exclaimed impatiently:

"Well, hurry up, boss! Put a price on the cork and let us know the worst!"—Boston Post.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. A Queer Experience. "We photographers," he said, "have many a queer experience."

"One day a young man came to the studio to be photographed. Instead of posing so as to look handsome as possible, he hunched his back as if it was broken and twisted his face into a dreadful gargoyle mask."

"Here," I said, "what's the matter with you? Are you crazy?"
"Go on, boss," said he. "Take me just as I am. You see, I'm trying to get out of an engagement with a St. Jo girl, and I've written her that I've been disfigured in an automobile accident, and I want to send her this photo to show her how I look."

He Had Waited a Long Time. Bill Nye, when a young man, once made an engagement with a lady to take her driving. The appointed day came, but at the livery-stable all the horses were taken save one old, shabby, exceedingly gaunt beast. Mr. Nye says Harper's Weekly, hired it, and drove to his friend's residence.

The lady kept him waiting nearly an hour before she was ready, and then, on viewing the shabby outfit, flatly refused to accompany Mr. Nye.

"Why," she exclaimed, "that horse may die of old age any moment!"
"Madam," Mr. Nye replied, "when I arrived that horse was a prancing young colt."

The big brakeman stuck his head through the doorway of the smoker and shouted:

The old farmer at the ice cooler gasped for breath.
"By heck!" he ejaculated. "They call these seventy miles an hour trains. I reckon they mean their brakemen can call out the stations that fast."

Identified. Tommy made himself the hero of a story—which the Boston Record prints—when he called for "that one about the boy who ate the ribbons and it made him sick."

Aunt Ethel was puzzled. "I know of no such story," she said, after searching her memory vainly.

Nothing she could suggest answered the description. Tommy cannot read, but he thought he could find the book. He found it. They read one thing after another, until in the midst of the "Night Before Christmas" Tommy gave a whoop of glee. Aunt Ethel was reading:

"He rushed to the window and threw up the sash."

"That's it! That's it!" cried Tommy. "You see, it's just as I told you!"

Question of Economy. Rounder—Your wife told me yesterday that you had decided to stay a month with her at the seashore this summer.

A Bargain. Mr. Mason rubbed the edges of the sunshade with discriminating fingers while his wife listened to the saleswoman's enumeration of its good points.

"This is ten dollars, isn't it?" he asked.
"Oh, no," replied the saleswoman, reproachfully; "it is nine dollars and eighty-nine cents."

"She seems to regard the eleven cents as particularly invidious—I wonder why?" whispered Mr. Mason to his wife.

"Not at all," said Mrs. Mason, with mild heat; "nothing 'invidious' about it. Only, very naturally, it touched the girl not to have you perceive that you were getting a bargain."

Additional Particulars. The raccoon had just remarked to Davy Crockett, in 'coon dialect, that he needn't shoot—he'd come down. "All right," said Mr. Crockett; "but let us keep this incident to ourselves. If ever the story gets out I know exactly what the President of the United States will say about it, and I don't want to go down to history as the first of the nature fakers." But the story somehow leaked out.

BAD BLOOD
THE SOURCE OF ALL DISEASE

Every part of the body is dependent on the blood for nourishment and strength. When this life stream is flowing through the system in a state of purity and richness we are assured of perfect and uninterrupted health; because pure blood is nature's safe-guard against disease. When, however, the body is fed on weak, impure or polluted blood, the system is deprived of its strength, disease germs collect, and the trouble is manifested in various ways. Pustular eruptions, pimples, rashes and the different skin affections show that the blood is in a feverish and diseased condition as a result of too much acid or the presence of some irritating humor. Sores and Ulcers are the result of morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood, and Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders that will continue to grow worse as long as the poison remains. These impurities and poisons find their way into the blood in various ways. Often a sluggish, inactive condition of the system, and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste, leaves the refuse and waste matters to sour and form uric and other acids, which are taken up by the blood and distributed throughout the circulation. Coming in contact with contagious diseases is another cause for the poisoning of the blood; we also breathe the germs and microbes of Malaria into our lungs, and when these get into the blood in sufficient quantity it becomes a carrier of disease instead of health. Some are so unfortunate as to inherit bad blood, perhaps the dregs of some old constitutional disease of ancestors is handed down to them and they are constantly annoyed and troubled with it. Bad blood is the source of all disease, and until this vital fluid is cleansed and purified the body is sure to suffer in some way. For blood troubles of any character S. S. S. is the best remedy ever discovered. It goes down into the circulation and removes any and all poisons, supplies the healthful properties it needs, and completely and permanently cures blood diseases of every kind. The action of S. S. S. is so thorough that hereditary taints are removed and weak, diseased blood made strong and healthy so that disease cannot remain. It cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., and does not leave the slightest trace of the trouble for future outbreaks. The whole volume of blood is renewed and cleansed after a course of S. S. S. It is also nature's greatest tonic, made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is absolutely harmless to any part of the system. S. S. S. is for sale at all first class drug stores. Book on the blood and any medical advice free to all who write.
