Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

Two serving secrets that are time-savers for the home-maker may be summed up in these few words:

Prepare foods beforehand whenever possible, so all the fussy work is done during the "cleaning-up" part of the day. Then when ready to serve, one need only lift the dishes out of the oven or refrigerator and place them on the table.

Escalloped and casserole recipes, meat loaf, custards and tapioca desserts lend themselves well to this scheme.

Another short-cut is offered by the compartment plate. Meat, potatoes, a green vegetable and a salad can be artistically arranged on the plate. Then when dessert is in order there is but one dish to remove from each place. This adds tremendously to the efficiency of a meal, and makes easy, pleasant service for all concerned.

Ham and Chicken en Casserole

In a well-buttered casserole put diced chicken and ham. Mix with cream sauce; cover with grated cheese and crumbs and brown.

For cream sauce use: 2 level tablespoons of butter or margarine, same of flour, 1 cup milk, salt and pepper, blend as usual.

Does Your Oven Scorch Cakes?

If bread, cakes and biscuits have a habit of scorching in your oven, set a small pan of salt under the tins and note the improved baking.

Milk Brightens Silver

The silver will be much brighter if you add a little milk to the water in which it is washed.

When the Pans "Stick"

Never scrape a scorched pan. Just sprinkle baking soda over the spots and set aside for awhile. The food will soon loosen up and the pan may be easily cleaned.

Pictures Invade the Kitchen

Since kitchen and cooking equipment have become so colorful, pictures have come into the kitchen, too. Cheery scenes they are—a sunny road winding over country hills; a glimpse of an old-fashioned garden; a holiday at the beach, perhaps. They help—wonderfully—during working hours.

Very Latests

BY CECILE

New York, April 12.—Oh, but they're wrappy, these new Spring Wraps. And a number of other things they are, too. Broad of cuff, and banded with fur as deep as you can afford it. Small and flat of collar—sans fur, sans trimming of any sort.

Many of the earlier spring coats have capes swinging smartly from the back. Those that are most snitable for spring and summer, however, are apt to be soft, wrap-around garments such as the one illustrated—which Joan Crawford wears so effectively. It's a luxurious little coat of rose beige fabric trimmed with a wide band and cuffs of red fox fur.

New Collar Lines Are Soft
Many new frocks and blouses show the use of the soft scarflike collar that ties low in front. Or the order may be reversed, the scarf beginning at the bottom of the neck and flying up over the shoulders. Or it may drape itself carelessly around the neck.

Do Have a Polka Dot
Somewhere in the wardrobe there should surely be found a touch of Polka Dot. It may be a frock of polka-dotted silk shading from dark to light colors; or a colorful jersey, with a polka dotted scarf to set it off; or at least a suit, coat or bag with a spotted lining.

And What About Hats?
Smaller than ever are the newest of the new hats. Many of them are scarcely more than a skull cap of felt or straw. And they are usually brimless. Sometimes the edge of the hat is softened by a fold of felt, or wheels of straw graduating inside so that the largest wheels occur just over the ears in helmet effect.

In Confidence

Readers desiring a personal reply are asked to write Miss Flo, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Miss Flo,
When I was 17 years old I was married. I have been married three years and have one little son 15 months old. For the last year or so my husband has wanted me to leave him and let him have the baby but I couldn't part with the baby.
Do you think it wise to leave him and go to work and take care of Sonny myself?
DOT.

pay for a gift under the circumstances? Also, should the girl pay as much, or more, for his gifts as he pays for hers?
Miss N. B.

The answer to the first two questions is "No," except under unusual circumstances in the case of the second question. It is proper, I believe, and a very nice courtesy, to invite a young man to dinner at home even though they are not engaged and are new friends.

As to gifts, the matter of money does not enter at all into the question, as the gift should always be judged by its thoughtfulness rather than its monetary value. But I think in the case outlined above, it would be out of place to exchange gifts so early in the friendship. Get better acquainted before making an exchange of gifts.

Dear Dot, before leaving him you should try every possible way to make some other adjustment. The old rule of marrying "for better or for worse" still holds true. Perhaps the difficulties between your husband and yourself can be adjusted and your marital troubles smoothed over. As you have not confided in me just what seems to be the trouble between your husband and yourself, your letter is very hard to answer.

However, I could not advise you to leave—with or without the baby. Try to make the best of it. Some passage of time may mend everything.

It will be very difficult for you to make a living for your son and yourself, unless you have some special training. Your letter gives me no idea of what you intend to do.

Do special things to please your husband; go out of your way for him. Be as kind and good to your husband as you can be, and just see whether or not he will appreciate it. I think he will.

Better Wait
Dear Miss Flo,
I am a girl of 16 in love with a man of 19, and we want to get married but our parents advise us to wait. We know each other for about four months. What shall we do?
NANCY

Dear Nancy, I think your parents know best. Wait perhaps a year or two before taking the step, and meanwhile become better acquainted with the young man. You are both very young and may be mistaken in each other, and only time can prove whether your love is a true love. Meanwhile I think you can have a very beautiful friendship with the young man, and it will be wisest for both of you to know each other better before thinking of becoming life-mates.

OPERATOR

THE RUSH is on, right at your door, WAHMONIE the new mining camp, bids fair from present indications to rival the great Cripple Creek. As developments progress, and new strikes are made, we feel justified in making this statement. New Capital is coming in daily—are you going to lay back and let the OUTSIDER gather the cream while you take the skimmings.

Just think only a few dollars placed in this rich field may mean opulence. Stop and consider what has been done in Cripple Creek, on Comstock lode, and in later times on the Mohawk, Fairview and many others. We tell you History repeats itself and this is your chance. What are you going to do about it? Sit on the sidelines and let the show go by. NO, throw in your mite and help the mines to produce their treasures.

The OPERATOR'S long steel drills have already felt out a hidden ore-body in the Mohawk, big enough and rich enough to consign to the mill. Listen folks; just one stope like the Clermont No. 401 and the Operator is a dividend payer sitting on Velvet with the stock books closed.

Operator stock still available at 10 cents.
But watch out for an early bulge on the market.
