ARIZONA MOVING

THE PASSAGE of the new Colorado River Commission bill by the Arizona legislature is evidence that the state is moving into position to meet California and Nevada in conference. With the heritage of the much misunderstood Colorado River problem so handed over by the Hunt administration, Governor Phillips, perhaps, has been in a rather unhappy and embarrassing position. Nevertheless, the Age is very definitely of the opinion that the brains and common sense of Arizona will lead to a complete accord with her sister states and the ratification of the Santa Fe Colorado River Compact.

It is reasonable to expect that at this time there should be more or less confusion of the issue. But in the long run, "Truth is mighty and will prevail."

RADIO ADVERTISING

THAT BROADCASTING ADVERTISING over the radio should be subjected to the same tests and regulations as advertising admitted to the mails is obvious.

The suggestion recently made by Mr. Leigh Hunt of this city, that Congress should pass a law which will effectively prevent the broadcasting of fraudulent or improper advertising, subjecting it to the same supervision as is exercised over newspaper advertising sent through the mails is a most excellent one.

The flood of radio broadcasting of real estate promotions of a questionable nature which followed the Boulder Dam bill has called the attention of the public to the needs of legislation to prevent further abuse.

Many unsuspecting people have been victimized through unscrupulous broadcasting. Mr. Hunt's wise suggestion should be placed before Congress in a way to assure action.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

THERE IS SOMETHING SIGNIFICANT about the enthusiasm over the proposed lighting of Fremont street. It proves that the legendary lethargy which Las Vegas has been under the spell of, is fast dissipating.

Illumination of our main thoroughfare will not only mark us as an enterprising community but will be a great step indeed in a program of progression which our rapid growth demands. Property values will increase. People will be attracted to our business district. Impetus will be given merchants to attractively dress their show windows. And visitors will be impressed.

There is no greater welcome afforded guests of the city than well lighted streets and it would be well for property owners to consider augmenting the present plan which the city council is making.

"THESE CHANGING TIMES"

"THESE CHANGING TIMES" are emphasized just now for us of Las Vegas. The appearance of our old familiar streets is changing, and some of the changes bring little pangs of regret to some of the oldtimers.

Just now we notice the removal of four little cottages on Fremont street which have been there more than 20 years and have given shelter to many families. Two of the cottages were on the Nantz property next to El Portal Theater and the other two are on the property recently purchased by A. W. Ham on the south side of Fremont between Fourth and Fifth.

These changes, not important in themselves, are certain signs of the greater Las Vegas with which we are face to face.

YOUTH DOMINATES

YOUTH DOMINATES THE TIMES. Last night at the High School auditorium we enjoyed a happy little play "Sonny Jane" put on by the young people with a skill often lacking in regular dramatics.

It does seem as though the present generation of young folks is reaching maturity at an earlier age than we did in the past generation. Anyhow they are more sophisticated than the young people of former times. And they do "know their onions."

WHO'S LOONEY NOW?

THE LIMSY COUP DE ETAT which Gordon Stewart Northcott thinks he has executed in drawing the attention from Louisa Northcott that his own sister and not she is his mother will not find much favor with the jury.

This concoction of a perverted brain is simply another evidence of the ends to which the accused would have gone had he not been apprehended.

There is not any evidence in the record to show that this arch fiend was ever born so far as that is concerned and the controversy which he has now opened up will simply compel the court to instruct the jury to disregard any reference to his parentage. Astute legal minds declare that this move on Northcott's part precludes him from an insanity defense until he has established that he has a mother.

It is, indeed, a queer twist, but it is not conceivable that any jury will fall for that kind of fol do rol.

Mexico Supports U. S. Quota On Immigrants

By JOHN LLOYD

(Associated Press Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 2. (AP) — Efforts by the United States to limit immigration from Mexico government's own vigorous campaign to stem the northward flow of citizens. The recent wholesale exodus of Mexican citizens has created a grave problem.

In calling the matter to the attention of his cabinet, President Portes Gil pointed out that emigration of Mexicans is no more desirable to Mexico than it is to the country of their destination. He outlined a plan for stemming the outflow and various of the government departments have set to work on the project.

The president penetrated directly to the roots of the problem and found that lack of employment on this side of the Rio Grande is its principal cause. He gave orders that the cause be combated. It is hoped that by creating new industries and rearranging the tariffs so as to give Mexican production a maximum protection the field for employment will be greatly expanded.

By redoubling its program of irrigation works the government plans to open up vast tracts of land for agriculture, giving occupation to many thousands, and its announcement that 40,000,000 pesos will be spent in the next four years in road construction discloses its endeavors to better the system of communications and thus improve the situation by providing the farmer with a means of getting his products to the market.

In addition to erecting a barrier against the tide of emigration, measures are to be adopted to prevent exploitation of those who nevertheless insist on leaving the country.

LAUD RIDING QUALITY OF NEW FORD CAR

No feature of the new Ford car has been subject of more enthusiastic approval than its riding qualities. To persons accustomed to ride in a car in the so-called light or medium weight class, the degree to which the Model A absorbs road shocks and resists side sway is little short of unbelievable.

It is possible to explain the new car's efficiency in these respects in a simple, non-technical way.

The transverse, semi-elliptic springs of the Model A are heavier, stronger, and more flexible than those used on any previous Ford car.

One of the chief essentials in riding comfort is a high proportion of sprung weight and a low proportion of unsprung weight. Sprung weight is all the weight suspended by the flexible ends of the springs; unsprung weight is the dead weight below those flexible ends. It follows that the higher the proportion of unsprung weight, the more powerful and violent will be the road shocks delivered against the frame, body and motor of the car, and the more difficult to absorb.

Some semi-elliptic springs rest on their middle, or heaviest and thickest portions, below the line of sprung weight. Thus, the weightiest sections of the springs themselves form part of the unsprung weight, adding to the size of the "hammer" and the power of the blows dealt by the highway against the body, frame and motor of the car.

More than twenty-one centuries of service is the record of forty active employees of the Western Union Telegraph Company. Of this number eleven were telegraph operators, handling a key with old-time efficiency and speed at the beginning of the year. The others occupy various positions in the company and practically every one of the forty still uses the telegraph instrument from time to time. This total years of service is believed to constitute a record in American industry.

GIRL CHARGED WITH KIDNAPPING SISTER

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2. (AP)—Hazel Seelinger, 21, today faced grilling at the hands of the sheriff's office here upon her return from Ventura on charges of inducing her 14-year old sister to run away.

The two girls were picked up by the sheriff of Ventura county on a San Francisco bound bus. The authorities first started working on the case when the uncle of Edna, the younger sister, found a note saying: "I am going home."

When the girl failed to show up at her father's ranch at Saugus, however, search started.

The older sister faces possible prosecution on charge of kidnapping her own sister should her uncle press the charges.

Behind The Scenes With Washington Women

By SUE McNAMARA

(Associated Press Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. (AP) — From a hearty meal eaten by candle light in pioneer days with father in shirt sleeves and mother still in curl papers the American breakfast has risen to social splendor—at least in Washington.

President Coolidge has long started the American breakfast, which many consider the least important meal of the day from an esthetic standpoint.

Under presidential direction sausage and buckwheat cakes have assumed roles of leading importance in the day's doings. It has been the Coolidge plan, to have senators and representatives come to the White House at 8 o'clock in the morning, there to partake of coffee and food and enjoy an hour of social chat.

The breakfasts have proven a great success. Nothing puts people in a better humor for the day than a good meal, and there is something very companionable about pouring syrup from the same jug as the president.

Mr. Hoover also is adopting the early morning conference plan and has invited several prominent men to his home for breakfast since he became president-elect. He likes to get started on the day's work early. The Hoover breakfast hour is also 8 o'clock. The menu varies from that of the usual Coolidge breakfast, however. The Hoovers usually serve ham or bacon and egg instead of sausage and cakes. Mr. Hoover is very fond of eggs.

"Breakfast rose to really dizzy heights in Washington with the Sunday noon breakfast given by Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg to the many South American diplomats here attending the Pan-American conference."

The beautiful marble Pan-American building was the scene of the affair, and the smart gowns worn by the women would have graced any important social occasion.

Breakfast was served buffet style and consisted of hot chicken patties, olives, celery, potato chips, rolls, coffee, ices, cakes and punch. The Sunday breakfast served at noon is growing more and more popular in Washington society.

But unless the invitations are for noon Washington hostesses vary the menu but little from the good old American plan breakfast long established by custom. The wife of the late Senator Cummins of Iowa is said to have set a precedent for simple breakfasts when entertaining presidents, thereby greatly pleasing William Howard Taft.

On his swing around the country while chief executive he had been entertained royally in every city, each place vying with the other to provide fancy, expensive dishes. Owing to the brevity of his Iowa stop breakfast was the only meal at which Senator Cummins could entertain him.

Mrs. Cummins, instead of trying to outdo his previous hostesses, gave him a breakfast of buckwheat cakes and beefsteak.

WESTERN AIR EXPRESS AIDS HUDKINS SCRAP

"Western Air Express will offer every facility at its command to assist Las Vegas in putting on the championship bout between Ace Hudkins and Mickey Walker."

This was the word received here today from officials of the company at Los Angeles. It means that the big transport company will mass its equipment so that fight fans of Southern California will be able to fly here on the day of the bout and return the same afternoon.

"There is no doubt that thousands of Elks headed for the Los Angeles convention in July will stop off at Las Vegas, both to witness the fight and view the site of Boulder Canyon dam," the company's statement reads. "It is in this respect that we can be of considerable assistance to citizens of Las Vegas in entertaining the Elks and others."

"Prior to the fight we will send a sufficient number of our big trimotored, 12-passenger Fokker cabin monoplanes to Las Vegas for the especial purpose of making flights over the dam area. An hour's trip will give the visitors a comprehensive knowledge of the giant project, as well as permit them to see some of the most magnificent scenery in the west."

"In addition, special planes will be operated on the day of the fight enabling fans to leave Los Angeles in the morning and be home for dinner the same night. Attractive rates will be offered for the Boulder flights and the round trip from Los Angeles."
