LOCAL STORE GETS MATERIAL FOR EVER-CLEAN TABLECLOTH

Adcock & Ronnow have just received a new tablecloth material which requires no laundering, excepting to wipe off stains with a damp cloth, and which cannot be distinguished at sight from fine Irish damask. So perfectly does this remarkable material simulate linen that the difference can only be told by touch.
These tablecloths, known as Fairy Damask, are made in white and a number of colors and are hemstitched all around. They are durable and stain-proof and are not affected by hot dishes. A flannel back protects the table top and the cloth drapes as gracefully as heavy damask. While possessing all the advantages of oilcloth, the new material is entirely different in elegance of appearance and character. Various other articles for which linen is ordinarily used are also made from it.
