CONFIDENCE IN LAS VEGAS

ONE OF THE MOST SUCCESSFUL real estate concerns in the United States has shown supreme confidence in the future of Las Vegas by the investment of a fifth of a million dollars in Las Vegas properties.

The stepping into the realty field here of a company of the calibre of the John P. Mills organization, viewed in the light of the past and present successes of the organization, is a significant confirmation of the conviction of clear-thinking business men that Boulder Dam will be built and that this city is certain to make mighty strides ahead as a result.

The opening of this company's office in Las Vegas came only after a careful and exhaustive study of the situation from every conceivable angle. Mills bases his confidence in the certainty of the building of the dam not only on the knowledge of the widespread appreciation of its economic benefits but also on the fact that eventually the treacherous Colorado must be controlled for the safety of the cities and the productive countryside of the Imperial Valley.

Not only does Mills state that he is certain that the dam will be built; he backs his certainty with the investment of a substantial amount in Las Vegas real estate. And money talks.

THOSE DIRTY STREETS

ONCE AGAIN let's take up the first remark of the visitor who enters our city—his first impression as he walks down Fremont street from the depot—"My, what dirty streets."

Las Vegas has passed from the stage of the small country village to a city of prosperity, a city that commands the eyes of the world. The City Commissioners have a man sized job in attempting to keep abreast of the developments, and we believe are doing a good job—but what a whale of a difference just a few brooms would make.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

MODERN STREET LIGHTING will do wonders to improve the appearance of the business district and will be an asset that will repay many times over the cost to property owners. Great strides have been made in the past few years in types of standards, size of lamps and height of standards. The Age feels that it is a matter of vast importance to which very careful consideration should be given before a selection is made.

Nothing has a more pleasing effect on the tourist entering our city at night than to be greeted with the friendly beam of a well lighted city.

ANCESTOR OF HOOVER CAME HERE IN 1740

NEW YORK, Feb. 21, (AP)—President-elect Herbert Hoover is the lineal descendant of an American colonel who migrated from Germany in 1740, the American Heraldry society in New York has discovered.

The lineage of President Coolidge's successor is clearly defined from that date on, genealogists have declared and the family tree is announced as follows:

"Andrew Hoover (born Baden, Germany) settled in Maryland in 1740. Married Margaret Fountz. Their son

"John Hoover went to North Carolina and thence to Ohio and married Sarah Burket. Their son

"Jesse Hoover settled at West Branch, Iowa, and married Rebecca Yount. Their son

"Eli Hoover (1820-1892) married, first Mary Davis.

"Son of Jesse Clark Hoover (1840-1880) married Hulda Randall Minthorn. Their son, Herbert Clark Hoover, born at West Branch, Iowa, August 10, 1874."

The original spelling of the name was "Huber," according to Harry M. Hoover, author of the "Huber-Hoover Family History." The name is derived from the German word "hube," meaning the possessor of a tract of land. Other variations are Huver, Hover, Hoobler.

The crest of the family consists of a ucal coronet out of which spring two buffalo horns. The horns are characteristic of that early America to which Andrew Hoover came. In the language of heraldry, the horns signify honor and distinction.

The arms show in first and fourth quarters a male sheep springing over three hills and, in other quarters, rose in full bloom with four leaves.

Jimmy Cashman celebrated his birthday Tuesday afternoon by acting as host to some of his friends at a party at the Cashman home.

Don Schuyler of Los Angeles, former Las Vegas, visited this city this week, attending to business matters and visiting relatives.

STUDENTS, PROFESSORS TO HOBO THRU EUROPE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21, (AP)—A group of students and two professors of the University of Southern California will "hitch-hike" a vagabond way through Europe this summer studying and sketching classics of ancient, renaissance and modern architecture.

Forty-five students, led by Dean A. C. Weatherhead, and Prof. C. M. Baldwin of the architecture department, will cross the Atlantic third class and tramp their way through England, France, Italy and Switzerland. The class will net six units of upper division credit and is open to advanced and graduate students.

Dean Weatherhead, in announcing the "vagabond class," said that $525 will cover all expenses of the three months trip. He said, sketching from the structures themselves is much more advantageous than from photographs to which the average classroom is confined."

THREE SCHOOL GAMES COMING

Three, possibly four, basketball games will be played this week end by Las Vegas schools, according to Miss Maude Frazier, high school principal.

The high school five will meet Panaca on the local floor tonight at 7:30, journeying to Needles, California, Friday to play the Needles outfit there. They may stay over until Saturday evening to play the Mojave Indians, it was announced. The previous game scheduled with the Indians was called off because of a government inspection at the Indian school.

The Las Vegas grammar school quintet, in the hope of raising sufficient funds to take them to the interscholastic tournament of Clark, Lincoln and White Pine counties, will be held in Caliente March 1 and 2, will play the Caliente grammar school boys here Friday at 7:30 p.m. The admission will be 50 cents and 25 cents for students.

The high school boys have met Panaca once before this season, which game they lost. Tickets bought for the Mojave Indian game here will be honored at the Panaca game.

MILLER VISITS AIRPORT SITES

Report on the airport situation in Las Vegas will be made direct to the Department of Commerce at Washington by G. C. Miller, who was in Las Vegas Saturday to look over the proposed airport sites, according to Mayor J. F. Hesse.

"Miller did not seem to want to expressed preference for either the proposed site near the Wickman Ranch, or the other, south of town," said Mayor Hesse. "His attitude seemed to be 'take your choice.' I do not know what his recommendations will be."

Miss Edna Kramer, former student at the University of Nevada, has accepted a position in the county assessor's office.

CITY LICENSE CHECK BEGUN

A checkup on business establishments in Las Vegas which have not paid their quarterly city licenses was started this week by city officials, and a warning issued that licenses must be paid or action will be taken by the city.

In most cases pure neglect is responsible, but this, according to officials, does not excuse the houses guilty of the laxity.
