

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK NEW YORK, Mar. 5. - Arturo Toscanini is perhaps the most temperamental genius of music row in New York.

The pride of Milan's opera house also is Italian above everything else. Therefore, during the two months he spends in this country as conductor of the Philharmonic Symphony orchestra, he seldom sees anyone socially who is not a compatriot. He almost never goes to public places and rarely has permitted himself to be interviewed.

But countrymen, especially those from Parma, his birthplace, are welcome callers at his apartment in a Broadway hotel, where he stays with his wife and three chil-

Scorns Publicity

Toscanini speaks English, but bornly to Italian, as he did recently to the discomfiture of a publisher's representative.

The latter, a little frightened by reports she had heard of Toscanini's "tempests," appeared with a copy of Tobia Nicotra's biography the family surrounded, as it often is, by a group of garrulous Italians.

Timidly she tried to get a comely daughter to pose, holding the book, for a news photographer, The daughter declined, so the visitor approached the father himself. First she asked him what he thought of the book and he said. bella." That exhausted her gnowledge of Italian and she tried to success. The Changing Village

Here and there in Greenwich Village the "quaint atmosphere" that became a lure for sightseers is giving away to shiny modernism. The change is exemplified in a new 1 estaurant conducted by Sam Schwartz.

Sam, a tall slender darkling with a poet's wavy hair, has fed villagers for years. In the old days he had the T. N. T., a rendezvous for many who since have sold plays or novels and moved into duplex apartments uptown or houses on the Riviera. About seven years ago but Sam continued to play host cut their ideas by candlelight.

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 5.-If anyone should scour Hollywood's screen ranks in search of recordholders in various types of roles, Alec B. Francis would be decidedly in the running for championship honors in the delineation of aged~ priests fathers, and ministers. This veteran Y trouper, who has been in pictures

18 years, has been the screen father of so many tioned without warning, h would probably ave difficulty in e m e m b e ring them all. And in more than 35 pic-tures he has worn the cassock of a priest or the subdued attire of a minister. The reason, of course, is apparent with one glance at his venerable, kindly face, his snowy hair, his whole appearance of serenity and gentleness so often required for priestly and paternal roles.

MALE MOSQUITOS APPEAR HENPECKED

EDENTON, N. C., Mar. 5, (A)-In family life among anopheles mosquitos, the kind that spread malaria germs, the wives and daughters have much the best of the bargain. When cozy resting places in houses and sheds are available, it's the female of the species who does her resting there, and most of the males are left to shift for themselves in less desirable nooks.

Conducting an investigation along the Roanoke river in Bertie county, during which more than 5,500 mosquitos were captured, Dr. Henry W. Kumm of the Rockefell-Foundation's international health division station here made this observation: "Of anophelines captured inside houses all were female; of anophe-lines captured in mule sheds about 99 per cen twere females; of anophelines captured under houses, 71.7 per cent were females and 28.3 per cent males; of anophelines captured in hollow trees,, 20.4 per cent were females and 79.6 per

A number of the mosquitos were stained and set free in an effort to find out how far these pests can fly and spread their poison within one generation of their breif lives. Some of the stained ones were recaptured 0.4 mile from the point where they had been marked. Other investigators, Dr. Kumm points out, have measured mosquito flighst by the same method and showed they were capable of traveling as much as a mile.
