Baseball Season Gets Going as Eagles Stage Hot Practice Tilt

By YE RAMBLER
The Union Pacific baseball team will have to look to its laurels this season if the work done by two "Eagle" nines Sunday afternoon in a practice game is any index to the future.

Last Sunday afternoon Ye Rambler was attracted to the ball park by sundry shouts, and entering he found two score of Eagle ball enthusiasts in the midst of one of the most hotly contested games he had seen for many a moon.

The score was two-all with three on bases and two outs in the fifth. What more could you ask, in the way of a game?

Jackson Saves Day
Well, R. L. Jackson happened to be pitching at the time, and the way he saved the day Walter Johnson had not a thing on him. That's the kind of ball they were playing, and mind you it was only a practice game, and the first of the season at that.

There will be other practice games, and baseball will be far from a dead issue in this burg this season, for the Eagles are going to challenge and play Los Angeles and Caliente and Pioche and Arden and all the big places after they clinch the title locally, their actions claim—and actions speak louder than words.

Red Jackson has seen quite a lot of ball in the U. S. A. in the last six years and dishes up real stuff in almost any position.

Arthur Vann made a hundred per cent catch in the seventh that would have done credit to the big league.

The Miller boys and Tom Murray, who hold forth in the pasture back of the bases, will be hard to beat, and Bishop as shortstop is the flypaper edition when flies come his way within reach, or even a little out of reach.

Davis, Jackson and Hall are very much at home on their respective bases, and the last-named, not content with his mastery of third base, stole second and home in addition, making one of the hen's-tooth tails of his team. Tom Williams hung up the other for this outfit.

While Bishop and Bell rang up the twin tallies for the opposition.

Pinch Hitters Function
When "Davis's team" felt the shoe pinch, with a score of 2-0 at the end of the fourth, their pinch hitters, Bell and Bishop, stepped into the breach and saw to it that the score was tied.

Arthur Vann, temporary captain of the whole outfit, Doll Roberts, Vernon Miller, Hank Miller, Tom Murray, A. B. Davis, Bill Hall, Johnny Graghl and Jim Bohon are others who were guilty of brilliant and effective plays.

The boys inform Ye Rambler that individuals who find themselves bored on Sunday afternoon henceforth will find plenty going on in the ball park from 2 o'clock on. For they are going to work consistently toward the defeat of the 20-30 Club, the Elks, Rotarians, Kiwanians, Chamber of Commerce, and even the mighty U. P. outfit themselves!

After the team has whipped itself into shape, the outfit winning the first local game will challenge the next in line, and a succession of club and lodge games will follow, it is planned.

PLEAS ENTERED ON RUM CHARGE

Mayor Fred J. Hesse and others alleged to be involved in the conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act which resulted in the arrest of a score of local men a week ago, are back in Las Vegas after having made pleas at Carson City.

The men accused of conspiracy are: J. F. Hesse, mayor; Roy Neagle, police commissioner; R. E. Lake, former police chief; Fred LeRoy, James Ferguson, W. B. Farrington (Bill Speck), Bill Goodwin, Robert Ingersoll, Chief Osborne, Cliff McClellan and Joe La Due. The others arrested are charged with other liquor courts.

Jim Ferguson faces both conspiracy and other charges.

Mayor Hesse plead not guilty to the conspiracy charge. Others are rumored to have entered pleas of not guilty. The date of trial could not be learned today.

LIQUOR BLAMED FOR DEATH OF INDIAN

Bullock Smoke, Indian who died here under mysterious circumstances two weeks ago, and who was believed to have met with foul play, died because of poison liquor, it was revealed yesterday.

George McAfee, another Indian, stated that he and Smoke had been drinking with Ivy Rogers, who died in Needles shortly after the spree, and whose death was laid by physicians to the drinking of poison liquor.

PERSONAL

Gerald Nelson, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Butch Nelson, had a close call when he submitted to an operation for tonsillitis yesterday morning. He pulled through, however, and is reported now to be doing nicely.

Beauford F. Dunn, after a week of the flu which he "thought was going to be his last," is on the job once more at his old post with the Rockwell Electric company.

Mr. Young, contractor, spent several days in Los Angeles returning this morning. He has purchased appliances for largely increasing the output of concrete building tile being used on several new buildings here.

Mr. and Mrs. Huskin of Reno, arrived in Las Vegas Sunday afternoon, bearing with them greetings from our old friend, Frank L. Reber. They plan to make their home here and Mr. Huskin will engage in the real estate and contracting business.

Warren Richardson, of Tonopah, is in this city on business, having arrived Saturday. He is connected with the Richardson-Lovelock company.

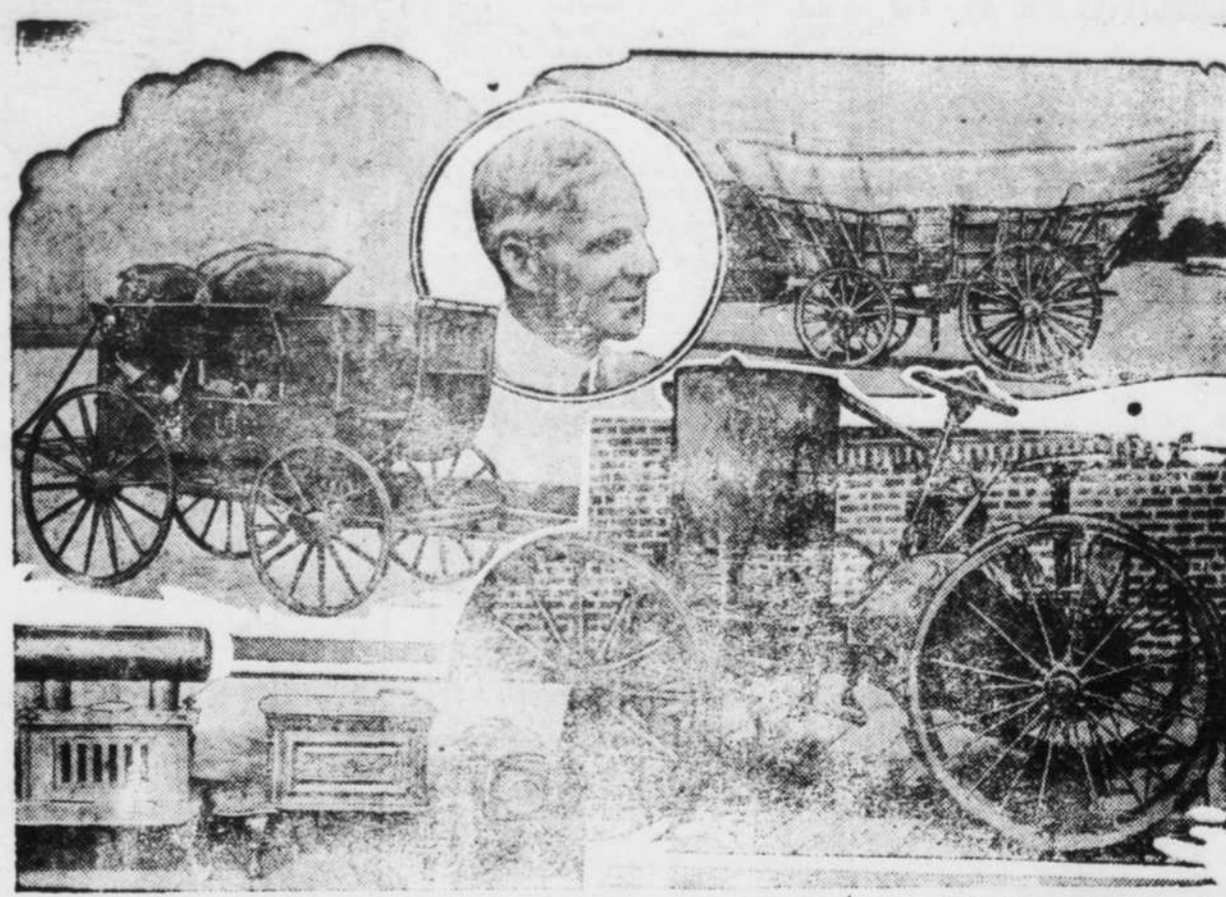

M. E. Sullivan and E. S. Sheppard went to Los Angeles yesterday on business, planning to return Thursday.

Vall Pittman, editor of the Ely Times, is in this city on business in connection with his ranch.

Mrs. Charles A. Gibbs left this city yesterday for her home at Puente, California, after spending a month in Las Vegas.

W. R. Wooddell of Los Angeles has joined the Roy P. Swanson company, realtors, to take charge of the rental department of this company, which has offices at 121 South Main.

Ford Is Collector

DETROIT, Mar. 19, (AP)—Henry Ford once referred to history as "bunk," yet today there is being assembled at his estate in Dearborn, near here, what is perhaps the greatest collection of historical objects having to do with early American life and ideals.

From the highways and byways of New England, colonial Maryland and Virginia and from the middle west, which was the "frontier" in the early days, are being gathered the things that go to make up a complete panorama of the progress of American home building, transportation, industry and commerce. While the story of transportation from the ox-cart to the modern motor car is being preserved the collection after all is intended as a contribution to Americana in its most complete sense, and one finds in the objects gathered a spoon of revolutionary days on the one hand and half a million dollars' worth of musical instruments on the other.

Housed in what are termed "sheds" on the Ford estate, the objects are being carefully preserved pending completion of Mr. Ford's contemplated "ancient village," which is intended to depict a fast fading period in American history.

Colonial times in colonial settings, with colonial houses, and colonial street scenes even to actors who live in colonial style, will be the picture presented by the ancient village.

While ox-carts trundle down the village streets, whose cobblestones will be the very cobblestones which rolled the carts and stage coaches of the early days, close by will be afforded a study in contrasts. It will be offered by the take-off or arrival of a huge trimotored Ford airplane on the regular flight to Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo or other eastern points.

When Caesar was a boy

THE FORUM was the common market-place for all of ancient Rome. Today a few crumbling columns stand as mute reminders of its former grandeur.

In our present-day complex civilization, market-places have become scattered. It is no longer possible to visit them all in a morning—or even in a day.

Advertising, instead has become the convenient Forum of modern buyers and sellers. If you are considering the purchase of a new car, you scrutinize the automobile advertising. Or if it's a razor or a talking machine that you want, you turn again to the advertising. Here is the national market-place for merchandise.

Furthermore, as you leaf over those same pages of products, your mind is storing away for tomorrow a compact and valuable fund of information. Instinctively, you will remember those facts when you make your future purchases. Increase your store of knowledge by reading the advertisements regularly.

Advertising has become the common market-place of this twentieth century
