MONA KEY IS CLASS LEADER

Mona Key is valedictorian of the class of '29 at Las Vegas high school, and Nancy Craig is salutatorian. Frances Martin ran a close race with Miss Craig for the honor of being second high student. It was revealed last night by Miss Maude Frazier, high school principal. There is barely one-fourth of one percent difference between the averages of the two girls.

The honor students have been determined, said Miss Frazier, but their names are a deep, dark secret, not to be divulged until commencement night, at which time the final, special, senior issue of the Desert Breeze will make its appearance.

PLANTING DAHLIAS IN RENO'S PARKS

More than 600 prize winning dahlia bulbs have been planted this season in Idlewild park, Reno, by Park Commissioner Henry Dietrich under the supervision of Dr. Luther Michael of San Leandro, California. The offer of Dr. Michael to plant the dahlias in Reno's park was made to Mayor E. E. Roberts in 1927. Last year for experimental purposes 200 bulbs were planted. So well did the bulbs thrive and produce beautiful blooms, it was decided to plant 600 this year. The soil in Idlewild park is par-

'WISE MEN' SEND STRANGE 'INVITE'

From "The Three Wise Men" of Las Vegas High School emanated a strange invitation to certain faculty members this week, according to Miss Frazier, principal. "Big Blowout" is the term used in the invitation, and the "blow-out," it seems, is to be in the Oasis at 1:15 Sunday. Asked whether it was to be 1:15 a.m. or p.m., Miss Frazier averred she thought it was to be in the afternoon.

At least she is going to attend to see what it's all about. It is believed to be a certain senior class affair. The names of the three "wise men" were divulged at the bottom of a clever invitation: Roland Hanny, Lawrence Higbee and Wendell Bunker, senior president.

NEIGHBORS OF WOODCRAFT INITIATE CLASS OF FIVE

The Neighbors of Woodcraft initiated a class of five Tuesday at Elks' hall, according to Mrs. R. Roschl, Guardian Neighbor. They were Genevieve Jensen, Elizabeth Bailor, Ellen Nay, Essie Hallett and Nellie Chappell.

Particularly adapted to growing dahlias, stated Dr. Michael on his return to California from Reno. The soil is sandy and sufficient water from the Truckee river provides moisture.

People from various parts of the state of Nevada travel a long distance to view the blooms and last year Mayor Roberts had large electric flood lights installed in order that the flowers could be viewed at night time.
