The line which was started by Nevada Airlines, Inc., between Renc and Los Angeles, the 'divorce special," as it was dubbed by Los Angeles newspapers, since its start May 15 has grown from a triweekly service into daily service according to Boggs, and now six trips are made a week each way between those two cities.

The service between Las Vegas and Reno will be inaugurated on a two-or-three-times-a-week basis with Lockheed-Vega monoplanes having capacity for four passengers. The company owns three such planes, which are to be used on the two lines, according to Boggs.

The fare from Las Vegas to Reno will be $50, with no reduction for round trips, Boggs stated, and planes will probably connect with the Los Angeles-Reno line eastbound. The schedule will acpend entirely upon demands, and on whether or not the mail-carrying privilege is granted, said Boggs. The plane probably will leave Reno at 1 p.m., immediately after the arrival there of the plane which left Los Angeles at 9 that morning. It is expected to reach Las Vegas at 4 p.m., stopping off at Tonopah and possibly at Carrara. The return trip will be nade the next day, according to present tentative plans, leaving Vegas at 5 a.m. and arriving at Reno at 12 results. Ross' round.

Further expansion of the company by the starting of lines iron: Reno to Alturas and Ely is contemplated, the president of the company said yesterday. Both of these towns now have landing fields. The Reno-Los Angeles line now
