WHAT A DRY AGENT'S BUCKSHOT DID

Shown above is the bullet-ridden auto in which Henry Wirkkula, a confectioner, was slain by a charge of buckshot fired by Emmett J. White, a 24-year-old U. S. customs patrolman, on a dark road near Interna- FOR SALE-New 4-room house, on tional Falls, Minn. Wirkula died at the wheel, the position of the car indicating that he was trying to stop after customs officers had hailed him, believing the auto contained liquor from Canada. His two small children on the back seat escaped death because they were asleep and were lying down, the buckshot passing over them. Arrows indicate the bullet holes which are being pointed out to County Prosecutor David Hurlburt, left, by Sheriff Hugh Reidy. No liquor was found in the car by the officers, who say White was siming at the tires.
