Three Derbies Now in the Air All at Once!

Women Check in at Wichita: Storm Delays Portland-Cleveland Racers; Third Contest Starts in Florida.

WICHITA, Kans., Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Ten of the fourteen women fliers remaining in the air derby from California to Cleveland had checked in at this overnight control at 5 o'clock.

More than 20,000 persons greeted the women as they set their planes down at intervals, led by Mrs. Louise Phaden of Pittsburgh.

She was followed in order by Ruth Nichols of New York, Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Phoebe Omie, Memphis, Amelia Earhart, New York, Ruth Elder, Hollywood; Thea Rasche, Germany; Neva Harris of Great Neck, L. I.; Mrs. Keith Miller, New Zealand, and Vera Walker of Los Angeles.

SPOKANE, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Wind, threatening rain and low-hanging clouds caused the eight remaining pilots in the Portland-Cleveland air race to decide to remain over night here shortly after they arrived from Walla Walla.

T. A. Wells, of Wichita, Kans., who was first to arrive at Walla Walla, in record time, led the field to Spokane and brought his plane down at 3:12 p. m.

The fliers had intended to take off for Missoula, Mont., after refueling here, but decided to wait until morning.

Charles S. Bates, of Milwaukee, flying a Waco, crashed on a sand bar in the Columbia river. His motor was working badly before he left Portland. The plane was badly damaged and Bates is out of the race.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 23. (U.P.)—A third air derby gets under way tomorrow when twelve fliers will hop off on the Miami (Miami Beach)-Cleveland air race, feature of the National Air Race and Aeronautical Exposition which opens at Cleveland tomorrow afternoon.

Fruit Fly Not Found In California Search

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—No trace of the Mediterranean fruit fly has been found in any of the eight southern California counties after a three-months inspection by state officials. It was announced today by County Agriculturalist Ryan, commissioner for the southern area, in a report to the state department of agriculture.

Farrar Groomed To Head Legion

Former Commander Carl Farrar of Las Vegas Post, American Legion, is being prominently mentioned as the southern Nevada candidate for state commander.

Las Vegas post plans to send a large delegation to the state convention to be held at Elko next week. The local boys believe it is time for them to share in the honors which the position of state commander brings to a post, and, it is stated, Las Vegas will be heard from in no uncertain way at the Elko convention.

New Park Place Streets Being Rebuilt

Work of grading streets, just south of the Park residence, for Boulder Realty corporation, was commenced recently by the Desert Construction company.

More than 2,500 yards of dirt will be removed from Division, one block south of Charleston boulevard, Sixth, and the street between Sixth and Fifth, to be known as Fifth Place.

Seven hundred yards of gravel and 12,000 gallons of oil will be used in making of the roadbeds, according to Pat Cline, general manager of the construction company. Water lines are now in, and two caterpillars, graders and automatic fresnos are now busy with the grading.

Otis Smith, Frank Gusselle, J. M. King and E. A. Ferron are among the owners of the lots in this section.

Vaudeville, Big Western, Clara Bow In 'Parisian Love' Show This Week

More vaudeville! Living up to its recently adopted policy of giving a double show regularly each night, El Patio, open air theatre, has booked in the "Sunset Harmony Boys," who will give vaudeville acts each night, changing nightly to an entire new program, consisting of stringed instrument music and song.

The "Harmony Boys" have just finished an eighteen month engagement in Los Angeles and southern California.

Clara Bow, the "It" girl of the cinema, will "strut her stuff" Sunday evening at El Patio in "Parisian Love" featuring Apache dancing, knife flashes, gun barks, kisses, romance, mystery and gay intrigue as only Clara can put over such pictures. This presentation is an intimate glimpse of life in the underworld of Paris, showing lives of the Apaches colorfully, vividly.

Monday Tex Maynard appears in the "Kansas cyclone," type western picture "The Prince of the Plains," in which there is presented action that tingles and thrills, sizzling with speed and vibrating with vitality.

Tonight "Behind Closed Doors," starring Virginia Valli, Gaston Glass and Otto Matiesen a mysterious drama packed with thrills and surprises, will be shown. Suspense in this picture is carried to the very end, and the authors defy their audiences to guess the ending.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP.

By GEORGE H. BEALE
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—That veteran trouper, George Fawcett, is among the group that mourn the "good old silent picture days."

And he predicts that eventually the silent picture will come back.

He believes that the silent film will reach greater heights than ever once talking pictures have ceased to be a novelty.

"Silent motion pictures," that "speak" for themselves are the very highest in screen art," he says. "Difficulty in getting story material paved the way for the temporary submergence of the silent film but they will come back."

In common with other "native" Californians most film stars keep a watchful eye upon the box office records in their old home towns.

The key cities, such as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and the like, indicate the success or failure of a picture but cinema actors rarely consider their films a washout until the home town has failed to give appropriate recognition.

Lon Chaney admits he still watches the Denver papers for returns and criticisms, Joan Crawford

Judge Orr Is On Road to Recovery

Judge Wm. E. Orr, who has been home ill for several days, spent much of the day out of bed yesterday, and seemed on the road to recovery last night.

At the request of Judge Orr, a wire was sent yesterday by County Clerk William Scott to Judge J. Emmett Walsh, at Goldfield, asking Judge Walsh to come here about the twenty-sixth if possible to hold court for the local district. No reply had been received late yesterday.

Radio Store Has New Sound Proof Room

A new sound-proof demonstration room for radios has been added to the store and sales room of H. E. Saviers and Son store on South Second street.

Manager H. D. McCoy has secured a lease on an additional room adjoining the former quarters to the rear, and has made this into a demonstration room, this making possible the creation of larger work room and service department. McCoy is expecting a new ship-
