G. I. A. Feted By Engineers

The members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers entertained the Grand International Auxiliary Thursday night at a banquet in the Union Pacific dining room.

About fifty people enjoyed the delicious turkey dinner that was served.

At each place the guests found a small roll of typewritten paper on which were the words of the songs, "Casey Jones," "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary," "Till We Meet Again" and "Sweet Adeline." During the course of the banquet these songs were sung by the guests.

Much amusement was caused when the women insisted that the men sing "Sweet Adeline" by themselves. This was done with much gusto and drew a loud and prolonged applause from the ladies.

The banquet was ended with the guests singing "Till We Meet Again."

Immediately after the banquet a business meeting was held at the Eagles hall lasting until about 9 o'clock. From this time on the remainder of the evening was enjoyed in dancing old-fashioned dances interspersed with a number of the modern one-steps and fox trots. The old-time schottische and square dances were revived with District Attorney Harley Harmon officiating as "caller."

Punch was served during the evening to the guests.

It is understood that the entertainment was given in honor of Mrs. Lucy Goodman, grand matron of the Auxiliary, who is visiting here.

"Jazz" Morrison's Night Hawks furnished the music. Mrs. G. B. Hanford, chairman of the entertainment committee, was in charge.

Shot Guns Flash News

When the ill-fated Swiss aviators took off from Portugal on their attempt to fly the Atlantic, Adolfo Da Rosa, Lisbon correspondent of the United Press, was faced with a difficult problem.

After several trials at various taking-off places the Swiss flyers decided suddenly to take off from a barren pasture 25 miles from Lisbon on the other side of the Tagus river. There was no communication facilities with Lisbon and the time was so short that special telephones could not be installed.

The nearest village was Villa Franca, many miles from the pasture. It was Sunday morning and the single telephone line into Lisbon was closed. However Da Rosa made special arrangements to have the line opened. He posted one of his staff men at the telephone connected with the cable office in Lisbon.

Then Da Rosa engaged several men, provided them with shot guns and placed them at intervals between the field and the town.

When the airplane took off successfully Da Rosa signalled his first "gun bearer" who fired his shot gun.

The next man in line heard the explosion and fired his own gun. Then the next and the next—thus the signal traveled within a few seconds from the field to the village and the waiting reporter flashed the News to New York that the flight was on.

Booth's Climb to Football Greatness No Surprise to Homefolks in New Haven

Albie Booth's spectacular rise to a place among the football greats of all time was no shock to his home town admirers who have watched him perform since his grammar school days.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (U.P.)—Albie Booth, Yale's sensational sophomore, didn't step into the national spotlight until his brilliant three-touchdown spurt against Army, yet he is an old story here in New Haven where he has been a gridiron hero since grammar school.

New Haven, seat of Yale, in the past has supplied relatively few athletes to the Elis, but its contribution now in Booth seems of the highest order for as a football player he is mentioned in the same breath with Hinkey and Heffelfinger and Coy and other Yale immortals.

Albie's first toy was a football and he has been playing since. He first was able to toddle. He put the Ivy street school on the map locally in the public school league. Later he played on the boys' club teams coincident with his attendance at Hill House high school.

For the local school boy hero Yale was the logical school, but there were certain barriers yet to be hurdled in the way of college board examinations. He spent a

San Gabriel Fire Departm't Let House Burn, Owner Says

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8. (U.P.) The San Gabriel fire department tonight was charged with having refused to aid in extinguishing a fire 900 feet outside the city limits which caused the death of a woman and her 2-year-old grandchild.

Arthur Stahl, 23-years-old, and Mrs. Ida Olinberg died in the Alhambra hospital late today. S. S. McNair, owner of the house which was destroyed by fire, was burned seriously.

Neighbors said that while the occupants of the house had been removed, the firemen could have aided in saving the building. Chief of Police Mangler of San Gabriel said the firemen had orders not to go outside the city limits. He said they were ordered out on a report that several persons were trapped in a burning house, but learned on their arrival that all had been removed.

liminary estimates for the 1931 budget total $3,830,000,000, against a comparable figure of $3,941,000,000 for the current fiscal year, President Hoover announced today.

The detailed figures apportioning among the various agencies of the government have not yet been compiled. The president did not explain how the apparent reduction of $111,000,000 had been achieved in the estimates.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. (U.P.) Restraint and punishment of "men who think themselves superior to the existing governmental bank system," and measures to prevent "such disasters in stock gambling operations as have recently disgraced the country," were proposed today by Senator Carter Glass, democrat, Virginia, author of the federal reserve act.

SEMINOLE, Okla., Nov. 8. (U.P.) A policeman and a bank robber were killed last night in a gun battle during a raid on an outlaw retreat in an oil field two miles from Harry. Officer Jim Kiersey, 40, was killed by Owen Edwards, suspected of bank robbery. Claude Cuyler, state officer, killed Edwards. Two other members of the outlaw gang escaped. They were wanted for robberies at Prague and Hendricks, Okla.

OAKLAND, Nov. 8. (U.P.) Edward and William Vincent, brothers, were under arrest here today, each on the complaint of the other, and each for his own good.

Deciding to break the narcotic habit which has bound them for 15 years, the men swore to the complaints and had themselves arrested.

If either backslides within a year after release from Highland hospital, the other will obtain a new warrant, according to an agreement they have made.

French Plane Crashes With 12 Passengers

No Deaths, But Several Are Injured; Three Planes Are Forced Down in Fog.

PARIS, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—A French passenger plane from Brussels, carrying 12 passengers, a pilot and mechanic, crashed in a fog near Louvres today.

The plane was enroute to Le Bourget field, near Paris, where it was due at 2:30 p.m.

None of the passengers were killed but several were injured seriously and were sent to hospitals in Paris.

The big passenger plane overturned after the pilot had leveled it off just above the ground. He was unable to see the field because of the fog. The pilot cut the contact, thus preventing a fire after the crash.

Louvres is about 10 miles beyond the northeastern suburbs of Paris.

Two planes left Brussels, both filled to capacity with passengers. Neither plane arrived at Le Bourget.

As soon as word of the accident had reached Le Bourget, Commander Renouville left for the scene with two ambulances.

PARIS, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—A heavy fog over Belgium and France forced three Brussels-to-Paris airplanes, loaded with passengers, to make emergency landings today.

No lives were lost, and only a few of the occupants of the planes were injured.

All three planes belonged to the same air line. Although Le Bourget field, outside Paris, had broadcast warnings all day long advising planes not to attempt to land, a party of tourists chartered planes in Brussels and insisted on starting.

One plane was forced to land in a garden outside Brussels. Reports that some of its passengers were injured were not confirmed.

The other two planes made forced landings side by side, on the Flanders road ten miles from Le Bourget. Both overturned.
