Hornsby Up Against Hardest Job Making Chicago Forget McCarthy

Rogers Hornsby has spent the winter on his farm near Anglum, Mo., getting in shape to show Chicago fans that no mistake was made in his selection as manager of the Cubs. Here he is on the farm with his son, James, and dogs.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23. (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, one of the strangest personalities in baseball, faces the most difficult task of his long career: that of selling himself as manager of the Chicago Cubs to the North Side fans.

Hornsby, who never opened up to anybody, will need to do many things he never did before. He must justify the action of William Wrigley, Jr., the Cub owner, in not retaining Joe McCarthy, and he must win the approval of thousands of fans who vowed they never would be Cub boosters so long as Hornsby managed the club.

To do these things, Hornsby may change the tactics of a lifetime. He may talk more and listen less. He may even alter his declaration: "I don't care what people say about me."

Among the things that get Hornsby apart from the average baseball player are his abstinence from smoking, drinking, golf, dancing and card playing. He doesn't sing. He scarcely glances at the sports pages.

Emotions are strange to him. A crowd's boos, newspaper criticism, a strikeout or an error never change his expression. Hornsby reads the headlines of a story praising him, tore it up and tossed it aside.

"I don't care what people say about me," he remarked. "If it's good or bad, it makes no difference. I think I know myself."

Rogers' hobbies are hunting, dogs and airplanes. He'd miss a game any day to ride in an airplane. Near his Missouri farm home is a St. Louis field. He spends hours there.

Although he has been in major league baseball 16 years, managed the St. Louis Cardinals to a world's championship, played in New York, managed the Boston Nationals and helped the Cubs to a National League pennant, Hornsby still resembles a lonely, bashful Texas farmer boy just arrived in the big city.

French Police Guard Public Dances Now

LA ROCHELLE, Jan. 23. (AP)—Dancing in the department of La Vendee is to be regulated by official decree, according to rules just promulgated.

Hereafter, all dances to which the public is invited will be under police supervision. Indecent dances are forbidden, and it becomes illegal for a person under 18 to take part in a public ball.

Each mayor is empowered to set the hours during which dancing is legal, but it is suggested that midnight, or earlier, be the closing time. Special authorization for masked balls must also be secured under these new regulations.

The lone survivor of buffalo heads once owned by the state of Missouri died recently at Mark Twain park.

Negro carolers sang at Lincoln's tomb in Springfield, Ill. last Christmas for the first time in history. Illinois elevators handled 1,125,000 bushels of soy beans in 1930.

STEWART FINDS POETRY WHEATS JADED APPETITES

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—Sidney Gunthrope has discovered jaded appetites can be whetted by poetry to a much better advantage than by music.

Gunthrope, who has spent 25 years at sea and the last 19 as a chief steward with the Grace Line, has an appropriate verse of poetry printed on the menu for each dinner course.

The result, he says, has delighted his culinary soul.

Coroner's Jury Verdict Acquits Killer of Sharp

Joe Hudson, who killed "Breed" Sharp at Johnnie Yount's ranch Tuesday night, was not held responsible by a coroner's jury which held an inquest in Goodsprings Wednesday morning.

Evidence was adduced to show that Sharp had been killed in self defense. According to the story told by Hudson, which was sustained in all important details by others at the ranch, Hudson, a trapper, went out of the house Tuesday evening to drain his car. Almost immediately after he left the home a shot was fired. Hudson said the bullet missed him, and he dashed around his car, secured his gun, and returned firing, hitting Sharp and killing him almost instantly.

While there were no eyewitnesses to the shooting, others in the ranch house at the time of the shooting, told of the firing of the two shots, of the fact that one shot had been discharged from Sharp's gun, and also testified that Sharp was inclined to be quarrelsome when drinking, and had been drinking on this occasion. He had apparently conceived the notion that Hudson was a prohibition agent intent on arresting him.

None of Sharp's friends, not even his mother, held any bitterness towards Hudson.

The deceased was buried Thursday at the Manse ranch, all his belongings being destroyed after the ceremony, according to the Indian custom.

Hudson, after his acquittal, returned to his ranch, which is located near the Yount ranch.

London Women Lose Umbrellas Easily

LONDON, Jan. 23. (AP)—London women lose or mislay 400 umbrellas a day, according to the lost property office.

A spell of wet weather, it is said, brings umbrellas in at a greater rate than dry weather. They are left in omnibuses, street cars, taxis and even on the streets, and they are forgotten just when their owners need them most. It often happens that an umbrella is checked in at the office twice on the same day, the owner having mislaid it again shortly after regaining possession of it.

Peoples' Store Furnishes New Apartments

The new J. H. Healy apartment bungalows are a new innovation in Las Vegas. Each individual bungalow is arranged and furnished after the fashion of an apartment. The Peoples Store had the furniture specially manufactured for these comfortable apartments. The new Roll Eze beds are a feature. During the day they are stored away in a small closet. At night time they can be rolled out by a child and arranged for sleeping. These beds have the new Spring Floor matters, and are full double size.

The living rooms are nicely furnished with easy chairs and a Chesterfield that makes up a set. The rug is in harmony with the new style bungalow interior. All of this ensemble is the brain child of Otto Katz, home furnishing expert of the Peoples Store.

The kitchen is a model for housewives. Every time saving and also space saving arrangement is set out in perfect order. This idea was developed by Mrs. J. H. Healy. Mr. Healy was the builder of the bungalow apartments.

Alfonso's Honor Patron Saint

MADRID, Jan. 23. (AP)—All the Alfonso's in Spain, and there are many of them, celebrated Saint Alfonso's Day today.

The most prominent personages to celebrate were King Alfonso XIII, and the Prince of Asturias, whose name is also Alfonso. On this account the court wore its full gala uniform, and special mass was celebrated at the Royal Palace chapel, attended by royalty and nobility, with the Grandees and Dames of Spain in the picturesque uniforms.

During the day many aristocrats and diplomats who did not attend the mass, and even persons of humbler ranks went to the Palace to sign their names on the Palace album, as a signal of adhesion and devotion to the monarch and the heir apparent.

Other prominent members of the Spanish nobility to celebrate were the Infante Alfonso of Bourbon week these apartments will be open for public inspection. All are invited to call and see the latest in ideal apartments and apartment furnishings. The Healy apartments are located just off Fremont street at Sixth, next to the Church of the Latter Day Saints.
