400 MILES AN HOUR BRITAIN'S GOAL IN 1931 RACES FOR SCHNEIDER CUP

British speed pilots hope to gain permanent possession of the Schneider cup in this summer's races. They will use two super-marine planes of the S-6 type, shown above. Lieut. H. R. D. Wharton (left) and Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar (right) may pilot the ships.

LONDON, Feb. 27. (A) — British speed pilots will fly the Schneider cup races this summer bent on gaining the third leg and permanent possession of the emblem of world supremacy.

They will be aided by a "tailwind" of approximately $500,000, in the form of a guarantee for their expenses. Lady Houston, the fairy godmother who guaranteed the 100,000 pounds necessary to stage the event, came to the rescue of British aviation just as the government was saying firmly that it would not sanction expenses for the race.

Three Nations to Compete Both Italy and France have challenged Britain's right to permanent possession of the cup, and are grooming machines and pilots for the races to be held probably in August on the Solent.

Britain at present is planning to trust her chances to the same two planes which won the 1929 race, one with a speed of 357 and the other at 328 miles an hour.

R. J. Mitchell, designer of these two super-marine Rolls-Royce S-6 machines, plans alterations which he thinks will increase the speed of the ships to approximately 400 miles an hour.

Two Aces May Fly Flight Lieutenant H. R. D. Wharton and his teammate, Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar, are both available for this year's races, and will make their initial training flights in the rejuvenated snips in the early summer.

With a speed of 400 miles an hour within shooting distance, races in this competition will have increased the speed of their ships nearly 1000 per cent since the trophy was hung up in 1913 by Jacques Schneider, French engineer. The cup was won that year by Prevost at 44.7 miles an hour.

Since that time the speed has crept to 100, 200 and 300 miles an hour, and now approaches 400. In 1923 Rittenhouse flew 177.38 miles an hour to win for the United States. There was no race in 1924.

Doolittle Won Second Leg With Jimmy Doolittle flying 232.57 miles an hour in 1925, the United States secured the second successive leg, and a victory in 1926 would have sent the cup to America permanently. However, Italian colors, carried by Bernardi at a speed of 248.49 miles an hour, flashed across the line first in 1926.

British racers then made their bid, winning with Webster in 1927 at 281.49 and again in 1929 with the 328-mile-an-hour spurt of Wharton.

America will be absent from the 1931 races, as it was in 1929. The British race officials having announced the entry lists closed. This ended the possibility that Lieut. Alford Williams, formerly of the United States navy, might compete with a plane built by private funds.

Colleges in northeastern and western states showed little enrollment changes while schools in the north central and southeastern states gained slightly during 1930.

New Seed Loan Adds $50,000,000 To Farm Credit

By FRANK I. WELLER (Associated Press Farm Editor) WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (A)—At least $5,000,000 of the $20,000,000 added to the federal seed loan by the "compromise" amendment to the original act is expected to be loaned to credit corporations for capital stock.

The sum of $45,000,000 already had been appropriated for use in the drought, storm and hail area. These corporations, set up by banks, other organizations, groups of business men or farmers, would invest the borrowed capital in Liberty bonds or other gilt-edge security and put it up with the nearest federal intermediate credit bank as collateral.

Then, when the farmer who could produce security applied to the corporation for a loan, the officers would endorse his note and discount it at the intermediate credit bank.

Can "Pyramid" Ten Times Under the federal farm loan act, intermediate credit banks may discount credit corporation paper to an amount ten times in excess of the corporation's capital stock. On $50,000 capital, a credit corporation could pyramid its credit to $500,000. In actual practice, however, the pyramiding never exceeds seven or eight times the capital.

Thus the addition of $5,000,000 to the capital of the credit corporation could release a credit of from $35,000,000 to as much as $50,000,000 to farmers borrowing through these corporations.

Intermediate credit banks cannot loan to an individual. They must operate through financing agencies which underwrites the notes the banks are asked to discount. The federal farm loan act provides that only notes given for production credit may be discounted by an intermediate credit bank.

In that light, it is debatable whether farmers who borrow through credit corporations can use the money to buy food unless the act is amended or the banks' powers given a new interpretation.

Helps Plantation Owners The credit corporations are specifically intended for one class of farmers — the plantation owners whose custom it is to feed, clothe and otherwise carry his tenants and share-croppers through the season.

They usually are cotton farmers. They own their own land and machinery. The drought burned up their crops and they have no money to carry their dependents who, likewise injured by drought, cannot repay previous loans made to them.

Numerous banks in the drought area have failed or cannot further extend credit even to plantation owners who have security. It is to overcome the breakdown in normal credit facilities that the amendment provided for credit corporations.

A second feature of the amendment is to broaden the uses for which money will be available from the seed, feed and fertilizer loan fund.

Languages Wage War Nightly In European Ether

POTS DAM, Ger., Feb. 27. (A)—Here in the middle of Europe one listens to a nightly clash of nations in the air.

All because radio is no respecter of national boundaries. Even with the friendliest of intentions, broadcasts spill over the boundary from foreign lands just when Germans want to listen to their own programs.

Most irritating of all, to judge by the volume of protests, are the communist lectures in English, German and other languages which radiate from Moscow.

Soviet officials have explained that Russian is no: the only language spoken in their nation, and that if their German-speaking citizens want programs in German they ought to have them.

Nevertheless it was a shock to many nationalistic-minded Germans to read that the Soviet government is planning a 500-kilowatt transmitter for Moscow, 11 other stations of 100-kilowatt power and 38 of 10-kilowatt rating supplemented by several short-wave stations.

Not all of Germany's radio fans are worried about the political side of foreign broadcasts, and many walls that arise are based simply on the difficulty of tuning in on German programs without interference.

Utah Press Has "Poet Lariat"—Lariat Being "Rope 'Round Neck to Hold His in Check"

SALT LAKE CITY—The Utah Press association has a new official. His title is "Poet Lariat" and, believe it or not, that is the proper spelling of the title. It all came about in this manner. Prof. H. R. Merrill, instructor of journalism of the Brigham Young university, was invited to address the press association during one of the meetings of its annual sessions in Salt Lake recently.

During his talk Mr. Merrill referred facetiously to the fact that a friend of his had informed him that he was to be "poet lariat" of the Ogden stock show. Right then and there the press association decided that newspaper men should also have one of those "critters" and unanimously voted to make Mr. Merrill the official "poet" of the organization.

Following a round-table discussion, however, it was agreed that poetic license should be somewhat curtailed and it was therefore decided to hang a rope around the poet's neck by adding a word to the title and designating Mr. Merrill as "Poet Lariat." Thus the Utah State Press association claims the distinction of being the first organization of its kind to have a properly controlled poet.

Incidentally, Mr. Merrill's poem, "The Editor," which was read before the gathering, is having a very wide publication throughout the newspapers of this state. The poem follows:

The Editor— Who's told about the stork that flies? The Editor!

Who's informed first when some one dies? The Editor!

Who has to sit through sermons long, And praise some crack-voiced singer's song— Who has to right all civic wrong? The Editor!

Who has to smile when skies are black? The Editor!

Who has to walk the narrow track? The Editor!

Who listens to the space-hog's guff, And never treats him harsh or rough? The Editor!

Who'll pluck his harp while the choir sings? The Editor!

Who, when he dies, should have four wings? The Editor!

Who'll pluck his harp while the choir sings? The Editor!

Who'll know the heavenly hosts by name? The Editor!

Who'll help increase fair heaven's store? The Editor!

By telling folks about hell's flame? The Editor!
