Daisy De Voe, whose argument with Clara Dow, red-headed screen star, resulted in her conviction on a grand theft charge and a sentence to serve 18 months in the county jail, finally won a temporary victory on one of her appeals against the sentence. The district court of appeals granted her freedom on $5,000 bail until a hearing of the appeal next Friday.

Street, Old Catcher of Johnson, Sees New Model in Rookie Hurler

DIZZY DEAN

Dizzy Dean, another "Water Gabbit" Gabby Street, old time receiver for the "Big Train" with Washington, and now manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, thinks so. Dean, a right hander, is the club's prize rookie at the Bradentown, Fla., training camp.

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor) BRADENTOWN, Fla., (AP)—Take it on the word of Gabby Street, who has pitched himself some of the greatest pitchers in the game and seen most of the others come and go, no youngster in 20 years has come up to the big show with any better twirling prospects than Jerome H. Dean, popularly labeled "Dizzy." He is only 20 years old now, but he weighs 189, stands 6 feet, 3 1/2 inches and has the stuff worthy of a veteran of a half dozen years' more experience. "I may be too enthusiastic," said Street, "but this boy looks and pitches like Old Barney." Old Barney, in case anyone doesn't know, is none other than Walter Perry Johnson, who was caught for years by Street with the Washington club. As is fairly well known, Dean created such a stir among the Cardinal "chain stores" last season, first at St. Joseph and then at Houston, that he was summoned for a trial and hearing the end of the season.

Local Couple Married Here

The wedding of Leonard W. Noblitt and Miss Mary Frances Stockburger, which took place Sunday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Kimball, was an event of much interest to Las Vegas. Although it was known that an engagement existed, it had been planned originally to have the wedding take place in June. The presence of the bride's sisters and an uncle from California caused the young people to change their minds and to have the marriage take place at this time. Due to the very recent death of the bride's mother the ceremony was attended only by the immediate families of the bride and groom and a few very close friends. The Kimball home was beautiful with flowers and greenery. The Rev. C. S. Reynolds of the Methodist Episcopal church, which the young people attend, performed the double ring ceremony. The bride graduated from the Las Vegas high school two years ago.

and has been popular among the members of the younger set during her residence here. During the past year she has been employed at Ronzon's. Mr. Noblitt, the son of Mrs. Cora Noblitt, has resided in Las Vegas almost all his life. He is a graduate of the local high school and of the University of Nevada. He is employed by the Union Pacific. Mr. and Mrs. Noblitt left yesterday for a short honeymoon trip in California.

Vegas Girl Is Elected To Campus Players

Florence Frohman of Las Vegas was elected to membership in Campus Players, University of Nevada honorary dramatics society, last Tuesday evening. Miss Frohman was voted into the organization on the basis of her performances in dramatics productions on the campus during the past two semesters.

Mrs. W. R. Bracken left for San Francisco Sunday evening. She expects to meet Miss Elizabeth McCormick of Reno in the Bay City.

Should City Airports Pay Profit? Managers to Discuss Policy Angles

TULSA, Okla., March 30. (AP)—Perplexing problems of municipal policy regarding ownership and operation of airports were placed before the third national airport conference when several hundred city officials, airport managers, designers and construction men met here March 25, 26 and 27. "Just how far the city or town should go in entering the aviation business is the question facing the city fathers of many a community throughout the nation," according to Col. R. B. Barnitz, national chairman of the airport section of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce which sponsored the meeting. "Some cities," said Colonel Barnitz, "insist that their airports be operated with an eye toward making a profit for the city, either now or later and attempt to exploit every known means of raising revenue. "Some consider it necessary to make their airports the center of a continual air circus or fair to help pay expenses, although the air-circus element is a distinct handicap to the safety of transport lines' daily passenger operations." There is an increasing trend toward many cities, however, to consider the airport in the same category as city parks, streets or public water works," he said. "The airport, like the park, provides an important recreational center for a certain class of people and also opens a new avenue for the flow of business."

Stanley Raymond Harris, boy manager of the Detroit Americans, believes with all the enthusiasm in his make-up, and that is a great deal, that the Tigers will go places and see pleasant things in the approaching championship race. The spirit of the club seems to match that of the manager and all the players, young and old, are up and hustling. The determination of four young outfielders is so impressive that if any one of the veterans slips even a little, a recruit will be hot after the job. The two Walker boys, Harvey and Gerald, Frank Doljack, who won his spurs in a measure last autumn and Ivey Shiver, former star football player, form the quartet.

The delegation from the ranks of flaming youth is a quintet; when Marvin Owen, an infielder from Santa Clara college (California) is added. The success of Detroit may depend on how these five youngsters prove up.

Brother Act Harris believes in their ability and fervently hopes he is not wrong. The Walker boys, natives of Gulfport, Miss., were graduated to the American league from Evansville in the Three-Eye league. Gerald broke a leg last season, but is said to be fit again. He was batting for an average of .378 when he was forced out by his injury in mid-season. Harvey batted .355, but scored 136 runs and made 191 hits. Gerald had stolen 50 bases when he was forced from the paths for the season. Shiver, after a brilliant baseball and football career at the University of Georgia, his native state, has played with Evansville, Fort Worth and Beaumont.

Doljack, one of the numerous contributors Cleveland has made to major league baseball, led the Middle Atlantic league in hitting last year with a mark of .291 and joined the Tigers in time to play 20 games in September. Bucy thinks well of his pitching staff. "It's a broad statement," he says, "but as a whole, I wouldn't trade our pitching staff for any other in the league." The manager is known to have great confidence in Hoyt, Whitehill, Sorrell, Uhle, Hogsett, Wyatt and Bridges and there may be some others.

Catchers in the Know Two catchers with plenty of experience behind them also may prove very helpful to the Tigers. Johnny Grabowski, former White Sox receiver, who has been pasturing in the American association, will see plenty of action in the colors of Detroit and old Wally Schang, still going strong at 40, will get a chance from time to time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ham are enjoying a visit from Mr. Ham's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Ham, of Los Angeles.

It is easier to name the teams Wally has not played on than to give his service record. Strangely enough, it is the first time Schang and Harris have carried on a common offensive and defensive.
