

MASHBURN ON STAND AT HINMAN TRIAL

he remarked to Baker, as follows: "You have been a friend of Hinman for a long time. Now that you are a public officer you had better be careful or he will get you in trouble."
Horsey asked Harmon whether he did not say to Baker "If you are friendly to Hinman, I will get you." This Harmon indignantly denied.

CORROBORATES STORY
Later, when called to the witness stand, Mr. Baker corroborated Mr. Harmon's statement substantially, stating that Harmon said to him, "You have been a friend of Hinman for a long time. You had better be careful or it will get you in trouble, too."

Baker said that he was uncertain whether this remark was occasioned by Harmon's desire to give him some friendly advice, or by Harmon's personal animosity toward Hinman.

Dr. Roy W. Martin, C. P. Squires and A. E. Cahlan, three of those denounced Friday by Noland as a "crooked bunch", were next called for testimony.

Dr. Martin, told of the often referred to "secret meeting" in the office of Stevens and Henderson, at which time he said, the members of the committee had sought Mr. Stevens with an idea that he might use his influence with Mr. Noland to change the action of the latter in the report on the Harmon case. FOR COMMUNITY GOOD

Martin stated this action was taken, not because of the friendship of the members of the committee for Harmon, but because of community action, it being the belief that the charges against Mr. Harmon were without any real foundation, and that if persisted in, would only result in real harm for the entire community.

Martin admitted that he had no feeling of friendship for Hinman, but insisted that Hinman in no way entered into the actions of the committee, so stating that at the time of the meeting referred to he had no knowledge of any action against Hinman.

C. P. Squires also related his story of the visit of the committee to the office of Mr. Stevens, stating that the public good and his friendship for Mr. Noland and Mr. Stevens had more influence with him than his friendship for Mr. Harmon.

A. E. Cahlan was the last witness of the day, and further broke down the defense conspiracy theory. Mr. Cahlan also stated that while he considered Mr. Harmon a good friend, friendly feeling for both Mr. Noland and Mr. Stevens, and the welfare of the community were the main actuating motives.

NOT FAIR HEARING
Cahlan, who was present at the local bar proceedings, stated that he felt Mr. Noland "was acting under pressure and misapprehension" and that he felt that Mr. Harmon had not received a fair hearing, but that had been persecuted rather than prosecuted.

When Mr. Horsey questioned Cahlan as to his ability to decide on matters of ethics in the profession of law, Cahlan replied that the action of the State Bar association had borne him out.

Court adjourned at five o'clock until Monday morning, when the defense will continue its case.

WIDOW WINS DERBY PRIZE

Despite the thousands of persons who didn't get a winner, there was at least one woman who profited by the results of the Kentucky Derby yesterday. She is Mrs. Marguerite McGrath of San Fernando, Cal., a widow with seven children, who picked Sweep All in the American Sweepstakes won $5,427, according to officials of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here who sponsored the sweepstakes.

NO VACATION PAY BY FRENCH FIRMS

PARIS, May 16. (P)—American wage and salary workers, who gaze these spring days wondrous through open windows or visions of lake, mountain or seashore, might ponder this fact: The department of labor of the French government has learned that of 850,000 commercial or industrial establishments only 370 give their employees vacations with pay. That figures out as only "one house in a thousand."

CROWD DINES AT BUSY BEE CAFE

Helping the management of the Busy Bee cafe on north First Street celebrate its first anniversary, many Vegas people took dinner there last night. Such was the demand for the special dinners at the Busy Bee, that supplies thought to be sufficient for the two big week-end days, were exhausted before the evening was over, and a grand rush had to be made to replenish the larder before more could be served. The stock of fresh foodstuffs, however, was increased and ample provision made to take care of the increased patronage the management expects today.
