JACK THE RIPPER AIDED START OF SCOTLAND YARD

Editor's Note: "Jack the Ripper" a fiendish slayer of women, remains one of the most colorful figures in Britain's criminal history. How his sensational attacks later were to benefit society is described in the following article, the second of a series on Scotland Yard.

By ARTHUR F. DEGREVE (United Press Staff Correspondent) LONDON, May 20. (U.P.)—Scotland Yard followed a trail of blood to fame. In 1888 a maniacal slayer who clashed his victims to death had terrorized the slums of London. He sent a letter to police with bloody fingerprints boldly smeared thereon and blazely informed them when his next crime would be committed. The public was panicky. Women and children lived behind closed doors.

"Jack the Ripper," as the fiend signed his letter, was on every tongue. The press bitterly criticized the police and especially Scotland Yard, organized ten years before, for its failure to capture the man. FORCE AUGMENTED Using this as an example that crime was increasing, police officials demanded and received additional men to augment the detective force. This proved to be the vital spark needed to raise the "Yard" from an ordinary group of plainclothes men to an agency which has grown to be feared by the worst criminals in the world. A series of sensational murders which were promptly solved "sold" Scotland Yard to Great Britain.

The detective story, the popularity of which has so increased in recent years, has made a super-Sherlock Holmes out of a plain, business-like man who spends as much on luck as science to bring criminals to justice, according to officials. Lieut. Andrew Oliphant who retired after serving two score years on the force, in commenting on this phase of the situation said: NO SHERLOCK HOLMES "No detectives possess uncanny powers such as Sherlock Holmes."

And, another shock to thriller readers is contained in the statements of other police heads that detectives rarely use disguises but dress in such a way as not to attract attention. All are excellent marksmen but do not carry guns. The chief value of the Scotland Yard agent is his keenly developed powers of analysis and observation, which, aided by every modern invention of science, gives him the

made. To Carson City for trial on June 8. George Boyle, Liberty's Last Stand. Possession and sale. Bond $500. Plea guilty. Remanded to U. S. marshal for trial at Carson City, June 8. Edward Wasserbach, Manufacture and possession of 4,512 bottles of beer and 60 gallons of brew. Plea not guilty. Bond $1,000. Hearing set for July 15.

COAST LEAGUE USES OLD BALL

PORTLAND, Ore., May 20. (U.P.)—The Pacific Coast league will continue the old baseball this season for the very good reason that it has an abundant supply on hand.

President Harry Addison Williams, making a swing around the circuit, said here that the league stocked up on old balls before the new ones came in. President Williams considers the raised seam ball an experiment and that it would be folly to try it out in the coast league, when teams already have plenty of baseballs. If it proves successful in the big leagues this year the coast league magnates no doubt will use it next season.

Williams believes that the coast league race will be one of the closest in history this season. He has seen every team in action and a few teams in two or three series. He particularly stressed the new life and hitting power of the Portland team under the new manager, Spencer Abbott. He predicted that the Beavers will have one of their best seasons, both in games won and in attendance.

COLLEGE TO AID POORER STUDENTS

HANOVER, N. H., May 20. (U.P.)—A new scholarship system under which only those students who have exhausted other sources of income will be given financial aid has been started at Dartmouth. Under the new plan every applicant for assistance is required to submit a complete financial statement of his expenditures during the preceding year as well as a budget for the coming year. An advisory committee, headed by Professor F. J. A. Neef, will examine the applications.

BEES DELAY TRAFFIC

EUGENE, Ore., May 20. (U.P.)—Motorists and pedestrians were panicky when honey bees swarmed on the branch of a tree that hung down in the way of traffic. Several hours later an apiarist came with a box. The branch was cut off and the swarm captured.

FIRST N. Y. WOMAN GLIDER

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 20. (U.P.)—The first glider pilot's license granted to a woman in western New York was awarded recently to Mrs. Dorothy Holderman, wife of Capt. Russell Holderman, head of the airport at Leroy, N. Y.

CLAIMS NEW WORK RECORD

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 20. (U.P.)—William E. Love, 65, claims a record which anyone might envy. In 49 years' service as a master carpenter for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, Love has not missed a pay day. He was retired on pension.

ASKS DIRIGIBLE TO BRING HOOVER THAT SAVED LIFE

AKRON, Ohio, May 20. (U.P.)—A proposal that the U. S. naval dirigible "Los Angeles" bring President Hoover here for the dedication of its new and larger sister ship, "Akron," has been advanced by Shorty Fulton, manager of the Akron airport. Fulton suggests the president could make the trip from Washington and return on the same day, and thus earn the distinction of being the first president since Roosevelt to fly while in office. A date for dedicating the "Akron" has not yet been determined.

NEBRASKA HOLDS PET POLL

LINCOLN, Neb., May 20. (U.P.)—Nebraska's favorite dog is the Boston terrier. A state-wide poll of all the pets and common "mutt" dogs showed that this breed led all others in the number owned.

DIVERS CATCH CAVALRY TEST CANNIBAL FISH BEING PLANNED

AZUSA, Cal., May 20. (U.P.)—Cannibal trout, one of which will destroy more than $150 worth of speckled fish every year, were destroying hundreds of trout at the Rainbow angling club. Because they feed on the smaller fry, they refused to rise to the fishermen's hooks.

William Graw and "Sailor Jim" Brown, deep-sea divers, were called into consultation, and working on the established curiosity of fish for bubbles, evolved a plan to capture the destroyers.

The men stretched a net across one end of the huge pool, swept all the fish behind it, and opened a small hole. Then Brown went into the pool in his diver's outfit, armed with small hand nets. The fish, attracted by bubbles from the diver's helmet, swarmed around, and Brown had little difficulty in netting the cannibals. Cannibal trout are of the same hatchling and same age as the other fish, but attain swift growth through eating their mates.

SEVEN MILES HOURLY

The test, made by 214 men and 250 horses, was a world record for movement of horse troops over the 100-mile route, officers said. The time, 23 hours, allowed five hours for rests.
