

SCREEN LIFE IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — How does a young lady earn $5,000 a day? If the young lady is Constance Bennett—and she is—she does it by getting up "be-times." Sometimes being 6:30.

CONSTANCE BENNETT

First she gets for a swim in the Pacific, which is at her front door, whether it is golden in the sunlight or grey under what is affectionately known to native Californians as a "high fog."

EXPENSIVE AWAKENING

It is 11 o'clock and Miss Bennett is sitting up in bed. It will take two days of filming and $10,000 in cash to get Miss Bennett out of that uncomfortable studio bed.

$1,000,000 HER GOAL

Back on the set and in bed again, Miss Bennett rehearses another scene. When it has been taken, six minutes of actual recording has been completed. Ten or 12 minutes may be taken before the day is over.

MANY RESPOND TO APPEAL FOR FUND IN PANTAGES TRIAL IS MADE

Ending the active campaigning, and appealing for contributions to be sent in, Ira J. Earl yesterday announced that the subscription fund to meet the Boy Scout budget for this year had been raised more than another hundred dollars, making a grand total of $1,014.50 toward the quota of $1,200.

SAN DIEGO, June 11 (AP)—The trial of Alexander Pantages, theater manager, on conspiracy and morals charges, was thrown into gear again today while in an adjoining room the San Diego grand jury investigated an alleged plot to suborn perjury for the defense of one of the three other defendants in the girl market case.

After two days of legal arguments, during which the jury was excluded, Judge Turrentine denied motions by each defendant to strike certain portions of the testimony and motions for a directed verdict of acquittal because of insufficient evidence.

PERJURY HINT LIMIT SET ON GOLD DEPOSIT

Permission to accept deposits of gold in quantities of two ounces and over was received at the U. S. mint in Carson City Saturday, June 6, says the Daily Appeal. This means that deposits in form suitable for mint operations and containing at least forty-one dollars worth of gold may now be taken.

The new ruling applies, however, only to gold in the natural state, and does not permit acceptance of deposits for dental gold or jewelry scrap, or other fabricated material unless the offering is of the value of at least $100.

Las Vegas "Horrors" Are Broadcast By Hearst Scribe—Boosts Boulder

Little city like Las Vegas gets to the place where her prosperity and activity commands the attention of the great papers of the world we should at least be, and are, thankful of the tremendous good that any advertising will bring.

However, Mr. Taylor does not do our city justice. Our sister city of Reno will shudder when she hears that the glories thereof were once hers alone are now divided.

Chicago, of all cities, coming way out here in the west in search of vice when the echoes of scandal and corruption of that city are still ringing. One of the greatest problems of our police department here has been in trying to keep Chicago gangsters and racketeers on the move. It has even been rumored that Al Capone intends to make his home here.

Maybe so. Al always likes to be "in the money."

In Mr. Taylor's article we note a few discrepancies. There is less poverty in Las Vegas than in any other city in the world. We do need a new jail, but Las Vegas is one of the safest cities in the country.

The "Meadows," the Monte Carlo of America, is referred to as a $176,000 enterprise, when that project will be near the million mark.

In all, Las Vegas is the one spot where prosperity reigns supreme in the United States today. We thank Mr. Taylor for his advertising—and just watch Las Vegas grow.

Mr. Taylor's article follows: By WOOSLER TAYLOR Herald and Examiner—Universal Staff Correspondent

LAS VEGAS, June 8.—Out on the desert that presses its blistering heat upon the oasis men are killing stray burros for food.

A child, blackened by the sun, gnaws a bone in the doorway of a rusty tin shack.

A mother drags her way about the rude encampment; a tired-eyed man tinkers with a flyer in the head-high clump of mesquite that fringes the "graveyard camp."

1,200 WAITING FOR JOBS Waiting—Idle, hungry—1,200 men waiting for jobs!

And just over the hills is a thundering pit of industry—spidery figures dangling against the face of sheer cliffs—steam shovels, drill, screeching whistle.

This is a country of contrast. Las Vegas wide open. More "dynamite" here than at Boulder dam.

Reno a Sunday school picnic in comparison. A dozen gambling clubs are crowded day and night with men and women—sixty-five bootleggers arrested in a single raid and more flourishing.

ASKS BIGGER JAIL Chief of Police Percy Nash begs the town council for a bigger jail.

desperate job-hunters carry off slot machines bodily into the great woods, where the swing of an axle fills empty pockets with quarters, halves and dollars.

A wild frontier town, Las Vegas—gateway to the Boulder dam. Poverty and prosperity cheek by jowl. Money flows in like the waters of her famed artesian wells.

Business booms. New buildings encroach upon the cactus and sand-stores, dwellings, oil stations; a $176,000 hotel to be built on the desert, three miles out of town.

Hotels are thronged, rooms anywhere at a premium, and hundreds camping out alongside the city cemetery.

VICE FLOURISHES OPENLY

Predatory women ply their trade openly, coolly sitting in front of their establishments in tilted chairs along the cotton-wood-shaded lanes of the notorious "block."

Fremont and Main streets are thronged with an endless procession of men in white shirts and rolled-up sleeves, straw hats, civil engineers in puttees, fero dealers with their inevitable eyeshades, heavy, flushed-faced contractors hurrying along with rolls of blueprints and plans.

The continual sound of hammers, the three-story addition of the Hotel Nevada, nearing completion, mingles with the clink of money in the gambling places. Stacks of it—glittering dollars under the restless fingers of the croupier and dealer visible through the doors.

PLAY POKER WITH PENNIES

Like no other gambling house in Nevada is this place run by A. T. McCarter, six-foot commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post, and his partner, Bob Kincaid.

Bank, bedroom, bar (soft drinks only), gambling house, outfitting depot—all in one big, ground-floor room.

"Down and outers" sleep there by the dozens at night on newspapers spread upon the floor and on the gambling tables when the play is ended.

Another article of this series will follow, probably in tomorrow's Herald and Examiner.

IDAHOAN BUYS DELKIN STORE

J. H. Umbaugh, well-known jeweler of Twin Falls, Idaho, has purchased the H. M. Delkin jewelry store in this city, and will operate it in connection with his Idaho concern. He will bring his family here in the near future.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE AGE

BIDDLE TO WED WEALTHY WOMAN

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—Anthony J. Drexel Biddle of Philadelphia notified the Princess Row registry office today of his intention to marry Mrs. Margaret Schultz, only daughter of William Boice Thompson, copper magnate.

Mrs. Schultz said the time and place of the marriage and details of the honeymoon remain to be decided. She is the divorced wife of Theodore Schultz, prominent New Yorker.

Biddle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Drexel Biddle, one of the socially prominent families in America. His first wife was Mary Duke, daughter and heiress of the Duke tobacco fortune. They were divorced last March.

Mrs. Schultz is one of the most wealthy women in America, having inherited the 100 million dollar estate of Colonel Thompson.
