KEEPING AHEAD

Observing figures on the growth of the legal business of the county during 1931 printed in another place in this issue of The Age, we are pleased to know that marriages are still keeping ahead of divorces.

So it is reassuring to have the marriage licenses issued number 1048 and the divorce suits filed only 653, leaving quite a margin for an increase of divorce business.

One queer thing we notice, which may give the attorneys cause for worry. There were 1048 marriage licenses issued during the year and only 1031 marriages performed.

SEPTEMBER MOR'N JUNE

Scanning further the statistics of legal business referred to above, we observe the startling record of 117 marriage licenses issued in June and 121 in September.

SIDEWALKS NEEDED

We are unable to find anyone who does not insist that more cement sidewalks are needed in many parts of the city.

VEGAS VERDE NOTES

State highway trucks were busy Monday filling up the mud hole that has been balthering traffic at Five Points for more than a month.

STREET PAVING

Proposals for street paving in the district east of Fifth street has been dropped several times during the past two or three years, generally because the district was extended to too great proportions.

SWING PROPOSES ANOTHER REMEDY

Los Angeles, Jan. 4. (UP)—Relief of unemployment through coordination of federal, state, county and city public works projects will provide the "one remedy" for present unsettled conditions in the United States, according to Congressman Phil D. Swing.

TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Stone left for Los Angeles by auto early Monday morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. L. D. Stockton.

point it would be nice to have the whole city improved at once. But experience has taught us that we can succeed best by doing a little at a time.

THE WASHINGTON BYSTANDER

By KIRKE SIMPSON WASHINGTON — Revival of third-party gossip among anti-Hooverites in the senate during the Christmas holidays served to throw into relief one consideration which might make some of the off-the-reservation republicans think twice about actually engineering a bolt.

The most sanguine member of the bloc probably would admit privately that the only thing to be accomplished would be further to jeopardize the Hoover chances of re-election.

With democrats in an exultant mood, defections from that party to a progressive or liberal of what-you-will ficker quite likely would be no more important than in 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt, the most spectacular figure in public life in his generation, led the bolt.

AIDING THE DEMOCRATS

Which is just another way of saying that a third-party drive by the irregular republicans, so far as now can be foreseen, only could benefit the democratic nominee, whoever he may be.

The notion presented privately by some of these irregulars that they would resort to this extreme in expressing their dissatisfaction with Hoover only if the democrats likewise failed to make a nomination acceptable to them, loses a good deal of its influence on democratic procedure for that reason.

It would seem that whatever they do, the democrats would be the sole beneficiaries of open disaffection among republican irregulars.

Taking these rumblings of intra-party discontent on the republican side merely at present value, however, they serve to emphasize the degree of apparent harmony the democrats have achieved since they stormed and captured the house organization.

Impending fights over the speakership, over committee assignments and other possible causes of internal strife were successfully dodged. The thing got so far that three weeks before the democratic national committee met to select the 1932 democratic campaign fund contributors on the point, and let it go at that.

RASKOB'S 'SOFT PEDAL'

Chairman Raskob was described as prepared to soft pedal on his demand that the committee recommend definite action on the prohibition question to the coming national convention.

The Bystander did not see Mr. Raskob quoted to that effect, yet it was said he would be content to submit the results of his private poll of 1932 democratic campaign fund contributors on the point, and let it go at that.

If that is true, party stalwarts of great influence must have been talking harmony to Raskob.

SYLVIA SIDNEY STARS IN NEW EL PORTAL FILM

Paramount presents an exceptional vehicle for intense dramatic action in "Ladies of the Big House," which will be the feature at the El Portal theatre today and tomorrow.

This picture has for its leading featured artists two talented personages who recently sprung into public favor because each possesses high dramatic ability, a distinct personality, and good looks, qualities essential to success.

Sylvia Sidney, who plays the leading woman's part, already has a strong fan following, because of her outstanding work in "City Streets" with Gary Cooper, in "An American Tragedy" with Phillips Holmes, in "Street Scene" with William Collier and in her Broadway stage success, "Bad Girl."

She has as her leading man, Gene Raymond, who sprang into prominence in the Broadway stage production "Young Sinners," which brought him a screen contract.

Recently he was featured in "Personal Maid" as Nancy Carroll's leading man.

Raymond's light blond complexion is a pleasing contrast to Miss Sidney's dark tresses in the "Ladies of the Big House," which is a gripping romantic love drama of the lives of two young people who are cruelly separated by the law.

The picture has the strong punch of authenticity in its prison scenes. It is a dramatic pen-picture by the convict author Ernest Booth with screen adaptation and dialogue by Louis Weitzenkorn.

A NEW YORKER AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON NEW YORK—Here are a couple of Christmas stories which have just come to notice and should be recorded.

The first concerns a wealthy, philanthropic woman who loved children. Although she had already contributed goodly sums to various charities, she decided that she would like to give a Christmas party in her own home to be attended by 20 poor children.

After making elaborate preparations for a tree, Santa Claus, toys, a big dinner and other "fixins," she called several charity organizations asking them to help her get children who otherwise would have no Christmas party.

In all New York 20 such children could not be found.

All the youngsters being taken care of by various homes and societies had already been invited to parties being given by politicians. Such parties, it seems, make for good will for office holders.

And then there was the Broadway show that was taken up to Sing Sing for a special performance. The convicts themselves fitted up the stage and lighted the set.

The convict in charge of the lighting did an excellent job, and Robert Glecker, the star, congratulated him. "These lights are marvelous," he said. "What were you before you came to the big house—a stage electrician?"

"I should say not," the prisoner blandly answered. "I was a thief."

WOMAN, 58, FORSAKES HER FARM FOR CLASSES IN TEACHER SCHOOL

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 4. (UP)—A 58-year-old woman, who waited almost 40 years to complete her education, is enrolled at the State Teachers' college. She is Miss Janet McIntyre, of Hall, N. Y.

Miss McIntyre was forced to leave high school when 20. For eight years she taught school, then worked on her father's farm.

"For 15 years I ran that farm," she said. She helped her sister, Mrs. M. E. Werly, Itasca, N. Y., put her three boys through college.

thrustastic about the idea," Miss McIntyre said. "I'm afraid she thought I was too old for such active exercise."

After her mother died, Miss McIntyre gave up farming and returned to teaching.

A good physique, gained through farm work, has prompted Miss McIntyre to apply for a place on the freshman tennis team, but school officials questioned this.

NEEDLE TRAVERSES BODY CLEVELAND, Tenn., Jan. 4. (UP)—Mrs. C. Conbow complained of a pain in her right toe—and extracted a needle point, which she figured had been run into her right hand accidentally three years before, while hemming a gown.
