THE ECONOMY WAVE

(Latest measures to reduce governmental expenses as reported through the United Press).

WASHINGTON, (U.P.)—Representative Will R. Wood, Indiana Republican, said he would study the matter further before pushing his attempt to reduce government salaries, including the pay of congressmen. Wood had proposed that a rider providing for pay cuts be attached to the agricultural appropriation bill.

EAST AURORA, N. Y. (U.P.)—The village engineer, who gets $4,000 a year, and the village clerk, whose pay is $2,500, volunteered to take ten per cent salary cuts because the cost of living is lower now than it was when they took office. The village board quickly accepted the offer.

TRENTON, N. J. (U.P.)—Economy is the order of the day in New Jersey. At Asbury Park school system employees agreed to salary reductions which would save the taxpayers $34,705. The freeholders of Toms River dropped the county health bureau, saving $8,000. At Ocean City taxpayers marched on city hall demanding that another $15,000 be cut out of the city budget.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (U.P.)—The House expenditures committee today began hearings on an "economy" bill designed to consolidate the war and navy departments under one post known as the secretary of national defense. It was estimated the cost of operating the military forces as a single unit would reduce the present cost by at least 20 per cent.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (U.P.)—A two year truce in enforcement of "antiquated anti-trust laws" was recommended to President Hoover today by Charles F. Abbott, of New York, executive director of the American Institute of Steel Construction.

ATLANTA, Ga. (U.P.)—Mayor J. S. Key today vetoed a proposal for payment of city employees' past-due salaries in scrip. He urged adoption of a 1932 budget prepared by the finance committee providing temporary 10 per cent salary reductions of all municipal employees.

IRON RIVER, Mich. (U.P.)—Salaries of Iron River's school teachers will be reduced 10 per cent Feb. 1—at their own request.

BANDITS KIDNAP BANK CASHIER AND FAMILY; ESCAPE WITH LOOT

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. (U.P.)—"Come on, get out of them beds," said five bandits early today in the home of Cashier M. C. Mott of the State Bank of Mundelein. They emphasized their demands with guns.

So the sleepy-eyed Mott, his wife, and their four children got on their clothes, wearily, because they knew what was coming. Only last April they had been herded out of their home, and driven to the bank where Mott said the same robbers took $10,000.

Into the bandit car the Motts piled again, at 4 a. m., to be driven to the bank, and there placed in the cellar to wait for four hours the opening of the automatic time lock on the vaults.

The robbers got hungry about 6:30 a. m. Two of them drove back to the Mott home for coffee. They brought it to the bank, drank some themselves and gave what was left to the Motts. They didn't say much. They rather listened in grim silence for the clock on the wall to tick to 8 a. m. Two of them went upstairs then, waited for Teller Sam Werthen to arrive for work, collared him, and forced him into the basement along with the Mott family. Then the robbers cleaned out the vaults, obtaining about $35,000.

They tried to take motherly Mrs. Mott with them as hostage, but her eldest son, Paul, 24, shouted: "No, don't take mother. Take me."

They took Paul into their automobile, announcing before they left: "If you raise an alarm for an hour, we'll kill this boy of yours and dump him in a ditch."

The Motts did not report the robbery until Paul was tossed unharmed from the robbers' car. Upon his release he told the following story to the United Press, describing how it felt to be kidnaped under threat of death.

By PAUL MOTT As told to the United Press. MUNDELEIN, Ill., Jan. 21. (U.P.)—An 80-mile an hour ride with armed bank bandits is no fun. But I wasn't actually frightened when the robbers forced me into their car. It was my second experience with them. They didn't say much during the six hours they guarded our family. They seemed sort of like friendly enemies.

Then they made me get into their sedan and the ride down the highway gave me all the excitement I wanted.

They raced right through town, not paying any attention to stop signs. Luckily there wasn't much traffic. I sat bumping up and down in the back seat. Two of the robbers sat back there with me, the others in front. They had revolvers, a shotgun and a rifle. I peeked at the speedometer and it said 80.

They watched the road more than they did me. But I couldn't do anything.

When we got about three miles past Wauconda the driver turned into a side road. "Now get out and start walking," one of them said. I did. They sped away and I went to the nearest farm house and called home.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY (United Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (U.P.)—The stock market was strictly a trading affair today. Traders were hindered by a lack of concrete news developments upon which operations could be based and the pattern of the market was similar to previous sessions. Several attempts were made to induce a resumption of yesterday's late recovery but these failed to attract much buying, although a few important shares were able to break through to new highs on the recovery from the early January lows.

Near the close most of the mid-session gains were erased and prices closed near their previous levels. At the time did they show much of a tendency to move out of a trading range. Because of speculative indifference, activity approximated yesterday's slow pace of approximately 1,200,000 shares.

The principal overnight news development was the postponement of the Louisiana reparations conference. This development had been expected and had little effect on price movements. Traders, however, continued to keep a close watch on European events, and were not willing to increase their commitments on either side of the market in the face of so many uncertainties.

Domestic news was not of a character to cause much stir in prices. Brokerage circles continued to believe that the railroad wage conferences now being held in Chicago would result in a 10 per cent wage cut, but developments today shed little new light on the subject.

Some capital was made of the indication that the $2,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation would become operative within a fortnight. Efforts to use this development as a basis for sustained recoveries in leading stocks aroused little enthusiasm, however, as the plan had been discounted for the time being by the rise in prices since the start of the year. The same excuse was used to whip up bull activity in the grain and cotton markets, but here, too, it failed to attract a following.

Generally speaking, most strength in stocks was in the railroad section and the least in the utilities. A number of traders apparently come out of the rail wage meeting by moderate purchases of rail stocks. Atchison, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio and Pennsylvania were strong for a time but most of them lost their early gains. American Telephone was a heavy spot in the utilities, where, however, losses were limited to fractions.

Stock common continued its improvement, reaching the best level on the current movement at 4 1/2, a gain of more than 11 points from its recent low of 3 1/2. Its strength caused many traders to revise their predictions of what action would be taken on the corporation's common dividend of $4 at the meeting scheduled for Tuesday.

In some quarters the belief was spreading that while the corporation earned nothing on its common stock last year, it would see fit to pay something or at least postpone dividend action if only as a gesture of confidence in the future.

On the bond market many leaders extended their recent gains, strength being most pronounced in the railroad section. Foreign issues, however, were unsettled by the tangled foreign situation, brought further into relief by the postponement of the reparations conference.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 21. (U.P.)—Only hogs were able to withstand dull trading today on the Kansas City livestock market. Cattle and sheep bombed on the low side, and yearlings ranged from $4 to $7.50 to 75 cents lower than last week. Top fat hogs, although steady, were at the lowest mark since 1899, selling at $380. The bulk of sales ranged from $3.40 to $3.75. Lambs sold from $5 to $5.75.

TRUST STOCKS NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (U.P.)—Investment trust stocks; Basic Industry, 2 1/4; Corporate Trust 2 3/10.

FARE PROHIS ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 21. (U.P.)—Three men who passed as prohibition agents broke up Jack DeMarco's "homecoming party" tonight, herded his guests into a bedroom, shot DeMarco five times and killed him.
