roll's are the new silk ensembles, modeling the new prints and mixtures distinctive for style and quality.

WOOL SKIRTS
And then Bracken's array of novelty French wool skirts and sweaters come to view. Style-correctness is the keynote of each little plait, each little bit of modish trim, each clever color combination. Crowning the selection is the elegant white silk outfit, perfect in detail for the spring sports need. Also attractive and ultra-smart are the printed chiffons in subtle combinations forming the perfect dress for the informal party.

Again to L. A. goes the Colonial Shoppe buyer, to get more and newer selections of chic sport dresses in the coveted mesh and pure-dye silks, as well as Dupont spun rayon in new blues, greens, whites, blossom pinks, and sunshine yellows, each combining quality with detail perfection, whether it is an amusing trick of fastening or trimming or a beautiful piece of fine embroidery, lace, or handwork, as in the rich crochet-trimmed models. Thus the discriminating dresser knows her style.

No spring is comfortable, however fitted a linen dress; and depression is speedily alleviated along this line with the offering at the Happy Day Shoppe of inexpensive linens in all colors. As well to be noted is the generous display of large sizes in silk prints.

PORTS MODELS
On to the Olympics we would go!

One of Mrs. William E. Mott, those present at the party were Mesdames Lucy Barnum, William J. Orr, R. C. Mosbach, Unity Chappell, Lawrence Chappel, Rova, J. M. Watson, Leonard Noblitt, Lila Leavitt, J. H. Down, Mina Stewart, Madie Furlong, Olive Roberts, Joe Onnow, Wm. Mott, Soers, Minters and the hostesses.

Mrs. William B. Mundy entertained the members of the Seventy-niners Monday at her home and included her birthday anniversary, the members of the club are Mesdames Charles Lee Horsey, Van antongue, Alexina Moffat, William Mundy and William E. Orr.

Miss Vilate Bunker and Mrs. Reed Whipple were hostesses Monday evening at the home of the latter, in honor of Mrs. Lee Frehner. The guests included Bryan L. Bunker, Roy Whipple, Carl Cromer, Pat Miller, Merle Frehner, Orville Lee, Glenn Jones and Miss Arlene Stewart.

FACES EASTERN CHARGE
R. G. Gibney, 48, was arrested by officer Dett Smith Saturday afternoon. Gibney is wanted by the chief of police in York, Pennsylvania, on an embezzlement charge.

AT GIFT SHOP
Mrs. Bukerton, representing the Gossard Corset company, will be at Carroll's Gift and Toggery shop on Wednesday, April 6.

and Adcock and Ronnow's would cooperate in our desire, with their showing of popular models for this event at prices advantageous toward the purse which saves-if-it-would-see! Red, white and Olympic blue they are in color; fashionable, comfortable and practical they are in design; and, with the accessories on hand to complete the perfect outfit, even to the large mesh hose, the ideal sports costume is effected.

With the thirtieth anniversary sale on in full swing, J. C. Penney Company offers a display of white spring coats, in newest fabrics. Popular lines form the only trim, with true style exemplified in the tailored collars, neat pockets, and form-fitting belts. Put on the gay sports dress from the special sale rack, don a chic new straw model with an upturned brim, slip into the white sports coat, and satisfaction is reached.

NEW SELECTION
Also keeping up with the latest trends of fashion, the Hollywood Shoppe has a new selection personally chosen last week on the coast by ever-alert buyers. Further than being well-styled, the Hollywood frocks are made of fabrics of such high quality that they win attention, and are finished with such precision that they are specially fitted to please discriminating tastes. Spirits soar upward as the gowns are seen, while the thrill of donning the orange and black suit with the chic little jacket and Eugenie sleeves is fairly over-powering!

Friday night we go to the Junior Prom, with the lovely peach formal

MINSTREL SHOW OPENS MONDAY

"Land O' Cotton," the minstrel show to be presented tomorrow night by the Lieurance club of the local high school, promises to be excellent entertainment for the audience. The show was given as a matinee for the grammar school students Friday afternoon and was praised by the students and teachers.

Many old favorite songs and some new hits are among the musical program and the dialogue is exceptionally humorous.

The show will be given only one night, at the high school auditorium, starting at 7:30.
