LEFT HOOKS

By BOB SHERIDAN
 Olive Hatch, formerly of the old Venice Swimming association of Venice, and at present performing under the colors of the L. A. A. C. at Los Angeles, Calif., was married here recently, and immediately left for Los Angeles. There is nothing in A. A. U. rules that stipulates whether a contestant should be either married or single.

We remember well the remarkable progress made by Miss Hatch, under the expert coaching of Frank Rivas, who was later under contract with the Olympic club of San Francisco. Most of the swim stars now with the Los Angeles Athletic club started their careers at the club who is a real threat in the spring-old Venice plunge. Miss Hatch is a team-mate of Georgia Coleman, board diving.

MAJORS OPEN SEASON ON TUESDAY

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY

SALLEE GOES A SHOPPING

 Proud, indeed, will be the wearer of the dainty net creation, in the clearest blue color, trimmed with tiny plaits and ruffles, finished to perfection by cunning sleeves and a bit of color in the sash. Long slinking silks and taffetas for the more sophisticated Prom-goer; lace and chiffons for the dainty miss; both are on hand, with picture hats to complete the outfit, making the ideal costume for spring weddings or afternoon events sure to be a part of the coming series of social events. And—just a word—a new selection of more intriguing sport berets and chic knit hats must not be overlooked!

While formal for the Prom are still at hand at J. C. Penney Company, particular attention is being paid in the spring wardrobe. So necessary in the spring wardrobe. Fairly amazing price qualities are being featured; clever models combining the distinct sports style with the more somber jacket are being displayed at special prices, while all colors and styles are on hand, conveniently displayed in various-price racks.

As a special inducement and courtesy to the Prom shopper, Bracken's is offering a special on formal dresses for the coming week, and woe to the woman who purchases without viewing the fascinating array of gown here shown. Imagine standing in the spotlight on Friday night, wearing the daintiest, embroidered lace dress in the loveliest shade of pink, slender lines flowing gracefully to the floor, with the chic little matching jacket setting off the entire costume to absolute perfection! "Be happy at the Prom," evidently is the motto of Bracken's buyer in choices of garments for the occasion, as each model should bring complete satisfaction.

Thus, with hose from Beckley's, or from Lasky's, and with correct slippers for formal wear, the Prom will go on, Friday night, in all its glory.

And certain little people too young to attend the formal, will be made happy by a trip to Ronzone's, for here is a treasure chest for sure, for young tots who as well seek to be correct! Little Mr. Brother needs one of the exquisite linen suits in green, blue or tan, with matching blouses, either tailored or ruffled, depending on the age, as they are available from six months to six years in sizes. Handwork makes the small suits pleasing to the eye of the careful mother, while the Russian blouse effect fairly brings envy to the hearts of those who have none! And for little sister, Sunnyland dresses, in sizes two to six, are on hand; while dainty pajama suits in sizes 1 to 14 years are waiting. But the very last word is achieved, when the ultra-chic little jacket is donned over the pajamas, and a matching bonnet is perched on a tiny head proudly held high with satisfaction.
