The big social of the school year—the one that is looked forward to with delightful anticipations and looked back upon with pleasant recollections—the junior prom, occurred Friday evening at the high school gym. The auditorium had been changed into a bower of beauty by the members of the junior class—a place fit for these gracious young ladies and gentlemen to receive their honored guests—the seniors. Youth, beauty and happiness were rampant, the beautiful young girls clad in filmy gowns and dignified young men in dark coats and white trousers.

Miss Ruthie Doolittle was crowned queen of the 1932 junior prom by Roline Mosbach, queen of the prom of 1931. The newly crowned queen responded in a few chosen words. The grand march was quite an intricate affair, but was brought to a conclusion without a misstep.

The patrons and patronesses for the ball were: Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Doolittle, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. Raby J. Newton, Miss Maude Frazier and Ed. Clark. Mary Jane Kramer, president of the junior class, was chairman of the affair, with Marcia Johnson in charge of the decorations; Carmen Harvey and Ruthie Doolittle selected the programs; Harold Foremaster arranging the promenade; and the remainder of the class cooperating in making the dance a huge success with the advice of the class sponsors, Miss Nevada Pedrolli and Mr. J. Harold Brinley.
