GARDEN OPENS BALLYHOO ON BATTLE

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent) NEW YORK, April 26 (U.P.)-Madison Square Garden "turned on the heat" for the June joust between Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling today. The "heat" or publicity or ballyhoo, didnt amount to much, being devoted almost entirely to photographing Sharkey's classic profile as he wandered hither and yon over what is going to be the new Garden bowl.

But, as Jimmy Johnston said, "we just started to ballyhoo this thing yesterday. When we get going full blast practically the whole nation will be Sharkey-Schmeling conscious in no time.'

Just what method of attack the Garden will use when it "gets going full blast," only Mister Johnston and his mister, Walter St. Denis, can say. But certainly it will be more original than that of today. manager, John Buckley, in two, Johnston paraded to Long Island
