OUR UNIVERSITY

AT THIS time of year when schools are about to close and graduation day is approaching, the thoughts of our young people turn to the future. What university to attend, what course to study, how to make the grade in both finances and study grades, are problems which our graduates have to solve.

The great universities like Stanford or University of California, Yale or Harvard, or any of a dozen others, offer fine opportunities and a degree which carries with it a certain general prestige.

Yet it is in the smaller universities such as the University of Nevada that students are most apt to get an education. In the large universities where classes number several thousand the student is almost lost. There is no personal contact or encouragement with the instructors. Students probably hardly know some of those whose lore they are supposed to absorb by name. And the professors know their students in a general way only as a wriggling mass of humanity to whom they are supposed to talk.

One may attend lectures or not and nobody is the wiser. One may shirk and dodge all the year and then possibly, by good luck, avoid being thrown out.

In Nevada our young people may have close personal contacts with their instructors and will be much more apt to absorb knowledge than part of a mass numbering thousands.

Our university is small enough so that the classes are not unwieldy, and yet large enough to furnish all the college activities. The cost of board and attendance is reasonable and the temptations to extravagance small.

It would be well for students and parents to take a little look at the advantages of Nevada U. before they make up their minds what to do next. It is very probable that some who think college entirely beyond their means will find that they can, after all, manage a year or two at Nevada U.

"WASHINGTON MARKET"

THE NEWS dispatches say that the stock market is a "strictly Washington" market.

Meaning that everybody is sitting down waiting for congress to shoot or give up the gun.

With all the unsound measures being advanced by various alleged legislators, investors, businessmen, manufacturers, all have decided just to sit down and wait the next few weeks and see what, if anything, congress does.

When congress does adjourn it is very probable that they will have done a fairly sensible and satisfactory job of legislating.

If they will simply brush away the obstacles apparent in our business and financial setup, and give business a chance to go ahead without fear, affairs will quickly begin to right themselves. In the meantime, there is a "Washington market," which means simply nothing doing.

BARTHELMESS ON PALACE BILL

Surrounded by a powerful cast, in a powerful and novel story, Richard Barthelmess, First National star, opens at the Palace theater today in "Alias the Doctor." It is an adaptation of a Hungarian stage play.

Barthelmess plays the role of Karl, an orphan, brought up by Mother Brenner on a farm in Bavaria, with her other two children, Lottie (Marian Marsh), and Stephen (Norman Foster). He and Lottie are deeply in love. Karl also loves the fields and the farm lands, but Mother Brenner has an overpowering ambition to get away from the farm. She sends her own son, Stephen, and Karl, whom she loves as a son, to the University of Munich to study surgery.

At the university Karl is the star student. Stephen an indifferent one. Just before graduation Stephen becomes involved with Anna (Adrienne Dore) a bar maid, performs an operation and when she is dying, tells Karl to save Stephen. Karl says he performed the operation and is sent to prison. Stephen graduates and does some desultory practice, but developing lung trouble, dies.
Karl assumes Stephen's name and begins his career as a surgeon. He sees that this is the end of her love as under the masquerade she is the man's sister. Karl's subsequent career and the startling manner in which he and the girl solve their problem supply the picture with a sensational surprise finish.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By OTTO E. STRUM
(United Press Financial Writer)
NEW YORK, May 18. (UP)—Wall street ignored several bright features in the business news today and, looking in vain for constructive congressional action on the tax and budget problems, sold stocks again. While the turnover was small, selling was heavy enough to close the list down fractions to more than a point.

Feeling on the contention that this is a strictly "Washington market," such news as an improvement in the steel industry, declaration of the regular American Telephone dividend and a drop in the number of business failures failed as market stimulants.

For a time stocks were steady. Steel particularly responding to the "Iron Age" report that automobile orders had boosted operations from 24 to 25 per cent, but, as the day wore on the market turned easier.

Special pressure against public utility and railroad stocks further weakened the market's superstructure. The former stocks were sold on the report of a 13.1 per cent drop in electricity output in the week ended May 14, and a decrease from a year ago so far reported.

Electric Power & Light, Electric Bond & Share subsidiary, broke to a new low and others of the group, including Consolidated Gas, North American and Standard Gas, were thrown on the market at losses of 1 to 2 points. Public Service closed almost a point lower at 42.

Rails then were hammered down, traders ignoring declaration by the C. & O. of the regular dividend. The stock dropped more than a point after an early advance. Losses also were substituted for gains in Union Pacific, Atchison and New York Central.

Steel, Westinghouse, American Can, Allied Chemical, General Electric and other industrial leaders maintained a relatively steady undertone until late in the session, when they succumbed to the influence of weakness in other sections and closed with losses of fractions to a point and more.

Wall street had expected American Telephone to declare the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 and the action did not halt a setback that started in the stock in the afternoon and left it more than a point lower at the close.

Aside from a rise in U. S. government issues, which responded to federal reserve announcement that the policy of open-market buying of government bonds would be continued, the bond market gave a very discouraging performance, reacting mainly on further liquidation of rail issues.

Wheat dropped all of an early advance while an announcement advanced about 50 cents a bushel on a favorable weekly weather report by the government.
