SCREEN LIFE IN HOLLYWOOD

Both enjoy aviation and exploration themes. Joe E. Brown's "vote" probably comes nearer to expressing the popular feeling toward picture entertainment than any other star. Said Joe: "I don't want to come out of the theater with more problems than when I went in."

It would seem, too, that the stars go to the movies at night for relaxation and entertainment, as do the rest of us for whom pictures are made. (Doubtless they also sometimes are not entertained.)

Chic Sales, for example, a comedian, likes tragedy and adventure best and dislikes "sophisticated comedy and sex stuff," he told the producers' association. Marie Dressler prefers scenic pictures depicting faraway places—stories she probably never will have parts in.

Maurice Chevalier's forte is screen romance and he likes to be entertained by it. Constance Bennett named romance and exploration films. The four Marx brothers put detective mysteries at the top of their list, as does Mary Pickford.

TRAGEDY FOR JOAN

Joan Bennett, a carefree girl on the screen, seeks the tragic or the out-and-out farce. Except that Wallace Beery likes melodrama and Clark Gable romance, the preferences of both are very much alike.

LUTHERANS WILL HOLD SERVICES

Lutherans of Las Vegas will assemble at the American Legion hall on South Third street this morning at 7:30, when a divine service of worship will be conducted by Pastors W. Lange and E. E. Brideweiser, both from southern California.
