morrow for comparison with the ransom and the Jafsic notes. He said "we have nothing to indicate a connection between Harry Fleischer and Brinkert." Fleischer, a Detroit gangster, surrendered in Detroit this week after being wanted for several weeks for questioning in the case.

FEARED POLICE GRILLING

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 10 (UP)—Violet Sharpe, a servant in the household of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, committed suicide today "with guilty knowledge of the Lindbergh kidnaping," according to the New Jersey State Police.

Faced with an impending police inquiry into her movements on the night of March 1, when the kidnaping was accomplished, the 29-year old woman drank a solution of cyanide of potassium and dropped dead in the pantry of the Morrow mansion.

She had identified Ernest Brinkert, a taxicab driver, "whose present whereabouts are unknown," as her companion on the night in question.

In a statement issued shortly after discovery of the latest sets on the chain of astounding events that began with the night of the kidnaping, Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of state police made it plain that Miss Sharpe was under direct suspicion.

During the hours from the time Betty Gow, the child's nurse, put Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. to bed in the Hopewell home, until his empty crib was discovered by the horror-stricken family, Miss Sharp was absent from the Morrow home.

"TWO MEN AND A WOMAN"

With her, during those hours, were "two men and a woman," whom Miss Sharp was "unable to identify" in her earlier discussions with the police.

But there were conflicting statements. Her first denial that she knew the identity of her companions was shaken later by the admission that she could describe at least one of them.

She admitted, subsequently, that she had received a telephonic call from the man who invited her out that evening, at 1 p. m. on March 1.

"Of all the servants, she alone had been unable to clear herself of suspicion," Col. Schwartzkopf said.

For weeks, while Miss Sharpe's name was kept from the press and public, and while she continually pleaded that she was not in it, questioning, a physician had been summoned, to be present at the inquiry.

Miss Sharp was notified through Mrs. Morrow to hold herself in readiness, and a group of police officers was ordered to accompany her from Englewood to Alpine.

The police orders were issued this morning. At noon the young woman went to her room. Shortly afterwards she staggered out and reached the pantry, where she fell, dying, and without—so far as the police have been able to ascertain—making any statement.

BRINKERT CAPTURED

Brinkert was captured late yesterday by a private citizen at Trenton, N. J., who was just reading a newspaper description of the man when Brinkert attempted to take his car from a parking lot.

DEBATE HELD ON DRY-LAW BENEFIT

CHICAGO, June 10. (UP)—A synthetic battle over the merits of prohibition between Dr. Scott McBride and Fred G. Clark gave a taste to-night of what is to come at the Republican national convention next Tuesday.

Dr. McBride, the Anti-Saloon league superintendent, spoke on the benefits of the liquor laws at the Third Presbyterian church. Clark, the dynamic young president of the Crusaders, militant anti-prohibition organization, listened in, with the following results.

Asked Mr. McBride: "What constructive substitute for the 18th amendment have the wets to offer as a solution of the liquor problem?"

Replied Clark: "Remove private profit from the liquor traffic and for the first time in our history let society control liquor and end the days of liquor controlling society."

Said Mr. McBride: "Conditions during these days of depression would be very much worse if drunkenness and rioting were added to unemployment and poverty by the legal sale of liquor."

Retorted Clark: "Police records of drunkenness arrests in Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Atlanta, Chicago and other metropolitan centers show that intoxication has increased from 35 to 300 per cent under prohibition. Whatever good prohibition has done in small towns has been wiped out in increased drinking in metropolitan areas."

Continued Dr. McBride: "After all, a repeal candidate for president would be a liquor candidate. A repeal plank would be a liquor plank."

Said Clark: "A repeal plank would not mean a liquor candidate any more than a dry plank means a bootleg liquor plank."

Added Dr. McBride: "A repeal plank in the national Republican party platform would be a colossal blunder. Constitutional prohibition is a non-partisan issue relative to which neither party can wisely take a partisan stand."

that at any subsequent interviews, a physician would be present.

Accordingly, when it was decided today to take her to the state police headquarters at Alpine, N. J., for questioning, a physician had been summoned, to be present at the inquiry.

EARTHQUAKE ROCKS NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

One of the most severe earthquakes California had felt in many years appeared to center at Eureka, 300 miles north of San Francisco, on the coast. There Mrs. McCutcheon, 25, was killed when a brick chimney crashed through a roof, and her husband incurred some broken bones. The above scene shows debris shaken down by the tremor. Mrs. McCutcheon and her husband appear in the inset. The quake was felt for 250 miles along the coast, and extended as far inland as Yreka, Calif., and Roseburg, Ore.

NOMINEES ARE CHOSEN FOR LEGION DEPARTMENT HEADS

Fireworks, brightly colored flares, and the blare of bands characterized the long parade shortly after dark as it marched briskly from Main to Fifth streets along Fremont.

The parade was led by the Boulder City band, followed by several groups of marchers from the various posts. Then came a large touring car, in the back of which Mary "Tommy" Lindsay, Queen of the Convention, was enthroned with her attendants.

The marchers, all carrying colorful flares, were followed by a long stream of automobiles, three abreast and all full of delegates from the many posts participating in the convention.

Following the parade, the tired marchers went to their quarters to prepare for the big dinner dance at the Meadows, which capped the social activities of the day.

At the morning meeting, Roy L. Cook, national vice commander of the Legion, spoke at length on the aims and accomplishments of the American Legion, to the assembled delegates.

Saying that the Legion and the Auxiliary must never forget their duties to members and the people of America, Cook dwelt upon the responsibility of the organization to America's ex-service men, saying:

"It is easy to cheer the departing soldiers, marching away to the tune of martial music, with the bands playing and flags waving. It is easy to cheer the heroes when they return after successfully carrying on their campaign; and it is also easy to forget. But the American Legion and Auxiliary must never forget."

"We are also charged with the welfare of the orphans and dependent children of those who gave their lives in the great war, and we are carrying on to the end that because they were the children of a patriot they should not be denied the same opportunity as those whose fathers were spared. It was for this nation and principles which we believe God would approve that their fathers gave their lives, and we are working everlastingly in their behalf.

"We believe further that there is little difference whether men are struck down by gas or machine guns and those struck down by unemployment. And we are extending a helping hand to those millions who are unemployed. We have returned over 900,000 men to work in our national unemployment campaign, and with our 10,600 posts still firing away along this front, we are confident of reaching our goal of a million."

The many speeches of welcome to the visiting delegates were answered by E. C. Mulcahy of Sparks, judge advocate of the Nevada department. His talk was followed by Lt. Gov. Morley Griswold, representing Governor Baizer, who was unable to attend the convention.

HOOVER TALKS TO GRADUATES

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(UP)—Education affords negroes an opportunity to overcome "a handicap for which they were not responsible," President Hoover told the Howard university graduating class today in urging them to lead their race.

"It is vital in a democracy that the public opinion upon which it rests shall be an informed and educated opinion," the President said. "The negro race comprises 10 per cent of our population, and unless

This development, Mr. Hoover said, required trained leadership which he understood was the function of Howard university.
