

Tower Company Opens No. 3

OPEN HOUSE TO BE HELD AT MARKET

SMITH HEAD OF VEGETABLE DEPT.

Harry Smith, owner of the vegetable department opened today in the new Tower Market No. 3, in North Las Vegas, is regarded by many of his numerous customers as one of the youngest and most enterprising merchants of this city. Coming from San Bernardino where he has been actively engaged in the owning and managing of several markets, he established a local concern last fall.

Rapid growth and popularity of his place has resulted in the opening today of his newest and second Las Vegas produce mart.

MORGAN HANDLES MEATS AT NO. 3

Jack Morgan, owner and operator of the meat department at the new Tower Market No. 3, opening today, is said to be one of the best known butchers in southern Nevada.

Located for years on Garces street, he recently closed that establishment to open his new mart in Tower No. 3 today.

Known to hundreds, ranging from Pahutes to senators, as "Jack," Morgan counts his friends and patrons by the hundred, and has a host of tales of the early days here for the interested listener.

THREE YEARS OF PROGRESS IN VEGAS

The opening this morning of the new Tower Market number three, in North Las Vegas, comes as a climax to three years of progressing merchandising and building in this city by the Tower Mercantile corporation.

The newest market of the organization is opening, almost on the third anniversary of the founding of the company, June 22, 1929, when M. J. Smith founded the institution with several other persons at the location of Market No. 1 on South Fifth street.

In October, 1929, Don Borax, P. R. Smith and Arnie Thompson bought out all other stockholders and turned the institution into a "family affair."

Under this management the corporation rapidly grew and prospered, until on March 1, 1932 a second market at 431 South Main street was taken over.

Coming rapidly on the heels of this transaction was the building of Market No. 3, located one mile out on the Salt Lake highway, which is opening this morning.

ed a second demonstration which was about to start after President Hoover was re-nominated by ordering the roll-call for the vice-presidential nomination immediately.

SETS OFF DEMONSTRATION

It was the acetic-faced Joseph L. Scott, famous in his own California as an orator, who set off the previously arranged and scheduled demonstration for the President. It was a glowing tribute he paid to the chief executive as he exhorted the great throng in the nominating speech. He worked earnestly. The perspiration rolled down his lined face. His spectacles were overhung by his bristling black eyebrows, like reads about a pool.

Picturing the President hard at work in the Abraham Lincoln study in the White House, with the interests of the nation his devoted concern, Scott struck out, scornfully and vehemently at those who scoff at the man in the White House.

"Today the septic and the cynic are busy about us, wise-cracking as never before," he said.

"The fathers who gave us this country were not soap-box orators." He praised the President for his "spiritual qualities" for his "real Americanism."

Throwing his head backward as if for a great effort, he belted as if his voice must carry to the far corners of the crowded hall without the aid of the perpetual amplifier: "I nominate as President of the United States and give you—Herbert Hoover."

A great din arose. Delegates, on edge for the signal, jumped to their feet as one man. State leaders grabbed banners and started for the aisles, Pennsylvania first in line.

REPRESENT INDIA AT OLYMPICS

The British India Olympic team traveled half way around the world to reach Los Angeles and enter the Tenth Olympiad and has the distinction of having come the farthest distance for the event. The three athletes with their American coach and Barbara-Lu White, official San Francisco Olympic "greeter," are pictured above. Left to right, they are Coach Ted Munby, director of athletics at Lucknow Christian college, India; M. C. Dhawan, hop-step-and-jump champion of the Far East; Mervyn Sutton, sprint and hurdle star, and R. A. Vermeux, entrant in the 100 and 200-meter events. Their journeyed to America on the N. Y. K. liner Shinyo Maru.

VEGAS FOLKS IN HIGHWAY MISHAP

Their big car turning over when it was thrown out of control as the result of a bursting front tire, A. C. Grant and members of his family narrowly escaped serious injury on the Los Angeles highway near Baker, Calif., yesterday morning.

Members of the party were Grant and his wife, her mother, Mrs. H. P. Marble, and her sister, Miss Lena Woolsey, and the Grants' infant daughter. All were shaken up, and Mrs. Grant slightly cut by flying glass, but they were able to proceed on their journey.

KIDNAPER IS FOUND GUILTY

SIX months to the day after the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, wealthy garment manufacturer, Marshall Deputy, 37, alias Martin Dewey, today pleaded guilty to charges of engineering the abduction.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Jefferson City. Asked if he had anything to say, Deputy replied: "No, sir. I want to plead guilty and be sentenced. I deserve it."

BRITISH SHIP IS IN TROUBLE

LONDON, June 17, Friday. (U.P.)—The British steamship Ferndale sent out an S O S call tonight from a point 50 miles northeast of Algiers. Lloyds was informed in a

ANTI-FASCISTS ARE EXECUTED

ROME, Friday, June 17. (U.P.)—Two anti-fascists found guilty of attempting to assassinate Premier Benito Mussolini were executed by a firing squad today.

Domenico Bovone, who was promised $5,000 if he killed the premier, was executed at 5:16 a. m.

Angelo Sbardotto died at 5:47 a. m.

They were shot in the back.

EDITOR GETS 10-DAY TERM

WABASH, Ind., June 16. (U.P.)—Don M. Nixon, publisher of the Wabash Plain Dealer, stood in the circuit courtroom today, a slight, grey-haired figure, and was sentenced to 10 days for indirect contempt of court while 900 persons cheered and stamped in a spontaneous demonstration for his courage.

Nixon was sentenced by Special Judge W. H. Elchorn, of Bluffton, who heard the middle-aged editor guilty on a citation issued by Judge F. O. Switzer, Wabash. Judge Elchorn also fined Nixon $100, but refused to order him to jail immediately.

FARM HAND IS HELD IN DEATH

FAIRFIELD, Calif., June 17. (U.P.)—Armour James Pickrell, 38-year-old farmhand, was held prisoner in a hospital today, accused of killing Mrs. Lois Sutherland, wealthy daughter of California planters, because she repudiated his attentions.

Robert Head, 21, son of Mrs. Sutherland, returned to their Suisun valley ranch to find his mother's body in a pantry. She had been shot in the head. Pickrell was in another room. A bullet had creased his skull. A rifle was at his side.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Jefferson City. Asked if he had anything to say, Deputy replied: "No, sir. I want to plead guilty and be sentenced. I deserve it."

VEGANS WILL GO TO ELY MEETING

Planning to attend the annual session of the Grand Encampment lodge and assembly of Rebekah at Ely, several Las Vegas members of the I. O. O. F. and local Rebekah will leave here Sunday morning for the White Pine city.

Members of the I. O. O. F. who plan to attend the annual meet so far reported are Frank Berger, A. G. Blad, Lawrence Chappel, and W. E. Mott. Harley A. Harmon is also said to be planning the trip, provided his health permits.

Rebekahs who plan to make the trip are Ida Harris, Viola Burns and Mrs. Chappel.

BLAST TOSSES ROCK IN HOUSE

Reported to be the third minor accident resulting from blasting on the new sewer project, a rock yesterday crashed through the roof of Judge Frank M. Ryan's home on Stewart street, narrowly missing Henry Bechtel, a roomer.

Police investigated the accident, officials of the construction company maintaining that all blasts were carefully screened to prevent flying rocks from doing such damage.

Opening today, Tower Market No. 3, latest venture of the Tower Mercantile corporation, is holding open houses at its location in North Las Vegas on the Salt Lake highway.

All day today events at the opening of the new market will be broadcast over KGIX, many speeches being made by local business leaders and patrons of the market.

Candy and toy balloons are being given to children accompanied by parents, and hundreds of free food samples will be distributed to housewives, according to the management.

Opening in the new building today are also several other business ventures, including a meat market owned by Jack Morgan, a vegetable and produce mart owned by Harry Smith, a drug store operated by Andy Rafael.

In anticipation of the hundreds of customers who will throng the market today, a number of exceptional specially priced items of merchandise have been prepared and advertised by all departments. Lots and equities in lots in Williams addition are also being given away today, one 50 by 130 foot lot, several $25 and $20 equities being included.

TOWER DRUG WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK

Announcement was made late yesterday that the opening of the Tower Drug store in the new Tower No. 3 Market building had been delayed due to an error on the part of the fixture company in shipping new fixtures too late for the opening.

The drug store will probably open next week, it is reported, and formal announcement will be made at that time.

FRENCH TAKEN FROM STAND BY COPS

Fuller, Mass., 57; J. Leonard Reple, Florida business man, 22 3-4; Bertrand Snell, 5; Charles G. Dawes, 9 3-4; former Senator William S. Kenyon, Iowa, 2; Senator Hiram Bingham, Conn., 1; David Ingalls, Ohio, former assistant secretary of navy, 5; Secretary of War Patrick Hurley, 21; and Senator James S. Couzens, Mich., 2.

In a telegram to the convention accepting the nomination, Curtis said he felt sure "that the record of the present administration is such as to insure the election of the entire Republican ticket in November."

"I congratulate the convention," he said, "on renominating the President."

The convention's last session, despite the intermittent demonstrations, was nevertheless very much a matter of business. It continued right on through lunch as the leaders determined to complete the day's work at one sitting, and thus finish according to schedule. It was one of the shortest conventions in political history, and ran off from first to last according to the original pattern. Chairman Snell suppress-

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Chicago: Tony Canzoneri of New York, lightweight champion, easily outpointed Harry Dublinsky, Chicago, in a 10-round non-title bout at the new West Side Boxing club's outdoor arena tonight before a crowd of 4,000. Canzoneri weighed 134, Dublinsky 136 1/2.

At Philadelphia: Kid Chocolate of Havana, holder of the synthetic junior lightweight crown, won an easy 10-round decision over Roger Bernard of Flint, Mich., tonight at the Phillies' ball park. The bout was one of a series of tune-ups in Chocolate's preparations for his shot at Tony Canzoneri's lightweight title in July.
