Hopes Of Roosevelt Forces Swing Upward And Triumphant 1st Vote Nomination Is Declared Assured

Delegates Struggling Over Prohi Plank For Party

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, June 25. (U.P.)—Hopes of Roosevelt forces for a triumphant sweep and a first ballot nomination spurred upward tonight. The first crack occurred among "favorite son" delegations. This may develop into a band wagon rush before the Democratic convention opens formally Monday.

RELEASES DELEGATES
Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Illinois favorite son, suddenly released his 53 delegates as Governor William H. Murray, Oklahoma, abandoned hope of getting the nomination.

Between 25 and 30 are expected to troop post haste into the camp of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. Where the others will go is uncertain. Lewis gave no instructions.

James A. Farley, Roosevelt manager, said the Illinois action clinched a first ballot nomination. Should Roosevelt get 30 of the Illinois delegates he then would have 633 delegates pledged, instructed or definitely promised to him, which is 55 more than a majority of the convention. Roosevelt leaders claim they will have even more.

Assuming the two-thirds rule is abandoned, Roosevelt will be nominated on the first ballot.

Release of the Illinois delegates added to the strong grasp that the Roosevelt forces had upon the situation tonight with plans to go to the convention, bowl over the old two-thirds nomination rule and push their candidate over on the first ballot.

OTHER CANDIDATE
Other "favorite son" candidates who yet have failed to organize an effective "stop Roosevelt" movement, even though directed by the dynamic Alfred E. Smith, were standing fast, but the atmosphere along "presidential row" had become manifestly depressed and disorganized. The Roosevelt camp, on the other hand, was jubilant.

Smith grimly expressed belief today that the Roosevelt forces can be "licked" in their attempt to upset the two-third rule. But he did nothing today to solidify the heterogeneous elements which are nominally under his banner. Instead he went out to throw off his worries in chasing the ball about a golf links.

Lewis released his delegates in a telegram from Washington, to V. Dalmann, Springfield, Ill., leader and old friend of the senator who said this would mean between 25 and 30 downstate votes for Roosevelt.

"I will not assume," Lewis said in his telegram, "to direct or even suggest any individual or joint action for the delegation."

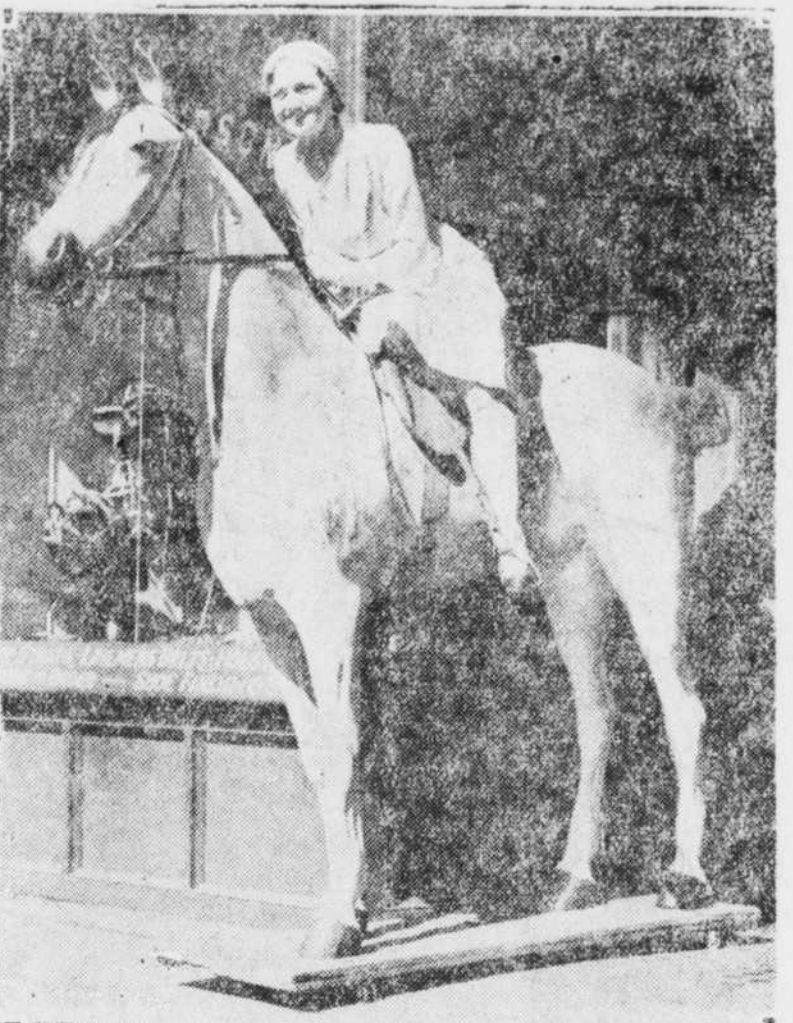

Murray, the main head candidate who never made breakthrough in the primary elections, philosophically bowed himself from the scene in an impromptu speech before a killed band of young women who screamed him in the lobby of the Congress hotel. His own estimate of his chances was about the same as that generally held about candidates row.

William Gibbs McAdoo, sponsor of the campaign of Speaker of the House John N. Garner, who is one of the leaders engaged in the "stop Roosevelt" drive, was elected national committeeman at a meeting today of the California delegation.

UNDER OBSERVATION
D. L. Derson, who gave his occupation as a dealer, is being held for observation in the city jail, after an unexplained attack on a fellow patient at the county hospital last night.

Derson was placed under the care of the county physician, Dr. H. C. Vander Meulen, following an attack he suffered in a local gambling club several days ago.

ANY PORT FOR THIS COWGIRL

Far from home and lonesome for the "feel" of a good cowpony, Edna Sims finally had to be content with boarding "Prince," veteran old white horse used for 42 years as an advertisement for a Seattle harness shop. She came from Texas and was used to seeing ponies running loose, but she couldn't find any in Seattle.

POLICE TO WAR ON HIP POCKET PEDDLERS AND L. V. BEER FLATS

Las Vegas is dry, and is going to stay dry, according to Chief of Police Clay H. Williams.

"The openly operated saloons in Las Vegas are a thing of the past right now," Williams said, "and as fast as we can clean them out, the 'hippers,' beer flats and 'shot cabins' will follow suit."

Williams referred to the whiskey peddlers who are said to be infesting the streets and alleys of the city since the dry edict went into effect Thursday night, as well as the saloons and houses that are said to have opened for the surreptitious sale of intoxicants since the "dry-up" order was issued after a joint conference of the Chief of Police and Sheriff Joe Keate, with District Attorney Harley A. Harmoh.

In a statement last night, the chief said that if anyone were found selling intoxicants, either in a house or cabin, or on the street, it has been arranged that no fines will be assessed, but that jail sentences will be meted out.

Francis Ray, 14 Stewart street, was arrested yesterday, and a case of beer allegedly seized in the raid. She was charged with illegal possession of liquor, and was released on $100 cash bail.

MAY ACCEPT HOOVER PLAN

GENEVA, June 25. (U.P.)—Representatives of a bloc of eight nations, led by Salvador Maderaga of Spain, met in sworn secrecy at the Spaniard's private residence in the Quai Des Eaux Vives tonight to shape a common policy for general acceptance of the Hoover plan.

The discussion dealt almost exclusively with the relation of the caliber of mobile land guns and naval guns. It was generally agreed the abolition of all large mobile guns, as mentioned in the Hoover plan, should include suppression of all sea and land guns over 155 millimeters (.61 inches).

UNREST GROWS AMONG VETS AWAITING BONUS

Commander Of 'Army' Resigns After He Can't Keep Order

WASHINGTON, June 25. (U.P.)—The Bonus Expeditionary forces today lost a leader and faced disension in the ranks.

Walter W. Waters, sandy-haired young veteran who led the first contingent of veterans here from Oregon, resigned as commander-in-chief. He complained that his commands had been disobeyed and admitted that the 20,000 veterans camped here had got out of his control. An early election to replace him was planned.

UNREST GROWS
Since the senate defeated the $2,450,000,000 Patman bonus bill, thus nullifying any hope for immediate payment of adjusted service certificates, sickness and unrest has been growing among the ragged remnants sprawled over the Anacostia flats.

Until yesterday, however, there had been no open break. Then an order from Waters for a concentration on the capitol was ignored. There followed an effort by him to depose one of his lieutenants. This also failed. In attempts to address the veterans recently he has been booed and heckled.

Police saw in these developments the disintegration of this army of occupation. Already several hundreds have deserted disgustedly. The present disension was expected so to undermine morale and determination that the various camps would gradually crumble and their occupants drift back home.

The cry began to go up of "when do we eat?" The police fund was pitifully low and contributions were small and slow in arriving. Baskets and boxes filled with food would gradually crumble and their occupants drift back home.

CALIFORNIA ARMY
SWEETWATER, Tex., June 25. (U.P.)—Hundreds of tired and ragged World War veterans, far afield from California—their home state—were billeted in Texas tonight and Commander Roy W. Robertson, speaking for the group, said they would continue their march to Washington.

Like an army preparing for battle, they worked over aged automobiles and trucks, spread washings on trees and tent lines and wrote letters home.

The motor section includes automobiles and trucks of every description, and a Commander Robertson, surveying his tattered force of mechanics, said the trail of the army could be traced between here and California by abandoned automobiles. They attended the Fifth Texas division American Legion air church services which will be held Robertson said the order to march would be issued either Sunday night or Monday.

Several women were with the forces here. They are sun-tanned and showed the strain and worry of the long trip.

Disturbance Centers In Industrial Districts

By FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent
BERLIN, June 25. (U.P.)—Political violence with many injured in armed outbursts, spread through Germany today, centering in the Ruhr industrial district, where one was killed and more than 50 injured.

RAID PUBLISHING HOUSE
In Berlin, 50 uniformed Nazis (Fascists) raided the printing house of the newspaper Vorwarts. The printers fought back and revolver shots were freely exchanged, resulting in serious injuries to two printers. The Nazis were driven off, but the fighting continued in the street, where many passersby joined in. One of the Nazis was badly hurt before police broke up the fight.

Five Nazis were stabbed and taken to the hospital in Magdeburg, where 40 Hitlerites fought in the streets with 100 Reichsbannermen. Renewed bloodshed in Dusseldorf, Dortmund, Duisburg and Marl, in the Ruhr district, resulted in more than 40 wounded and 100 arrests.

Innocent pedestrians were fired on by unknown persons aboard a train near Dusseldorf. Passengers on another train near Geresheim, who police said were Nazis, fired aimlessly, killing a bicyclist.

Two Communists were wounded battling police in a Duisburg cemetery. The Dusseldorf suburb of Ratingen was the scene of a wild revolver affray between Nazis and Communists. In the Dortmund suburb of Lindenerort, Communists overturned a delivery truck carrying Nazis and 30 were injured.

STREET FIGHTING
Police reinforcements quelled street fighting in Marl. The political situation was complicated by the conflict between the Reich and the south German states against unofficial uniformed bodies, such as the Fascist brown shirts. The Reich has rescinded the federal ban, but the states refuse to comply.

The Bavarian defiance of President Paul von Hindenburg's July 15 decree, although expected, nevertheless aggravated the conflict. Chancellor Franz von Papen was believed to be hurriedly visiting in Berlin from Lausanne today to complete arrangements for a federal edict forcing Bavaria, Baden, Wuerttemberg and Prussia to grant maximum liberty to Adolph Hitler's storm detachments, and restricting the authority of the 150,000 German state police.

IN CONFERENCE
Von Papen agreed from Lausanne and also discussed the progress of the reparations negotiations. A compromise on the south German situation was suggested. It was believed Hindenburg next week might issue a new order preventing the states from enforcing a general ban on uniforms and demonstrations, but allowing police, in special emergencies, to proclaim such bans for a brief duration.

KNIFE VS. CLUB BATTLE HALTED

Said to have been incapable of appearing in municipal court yesterday, the two Mexicans arrested early Saturday morning when their battle was interrupted by Officer "Rosy" Ward, must languish in the local "calaboose" until Monday morning.

Neither man gave his name to officers when they were booked, but it was learned that they were engaged in a knife versus club fight. According to their fragmentary accounts, one of the men was wielding a knife, and had the fight all his way until the other man laid hands on a piece of two by four, when the tide of battle swung the other way, only to have the melee stopped by Ward.

The club wielder was treated for several knife wounds, while the other man was adorned with an assortment of bumps and bruises.

LAST OF FAMOUS STUNT FLIERS IS KILLED IN FALL

VICTORVILLE, Cal., June 25. (U.P.)—Roy Wilson, one of the few remaining members of a group of 13 Hollywood movie stunt fliers called "The Black Cats," late today died of injuries suffered when his plane crashed on Dry Lake, 20 miles from here, during the filming of a war scene.

Wilson was supposed to dive his plane 3,000 feet to "strafe" a group of 25 Chinese extras, who, as Chinese soldiers, were going through the motions of firing rifles at the "enemy" airman.

The movie flier, according to witnesses, reached the bottom of his dive and narrowly skimmed the treetops containing the Chinese. Then as he apparently attempted to gain altitude in a zoom the motor died and the plane dropped to the dry desert lake.

Jack Holt, star of the picture which was being made by Columbia, was not on location at the time of the accident. Holt represents an American war correspondent in the Orient.

Wilson was counted as one of the most daring of the Hollywood stunt men. Recently a national magazine on his many brushes with death during a series of stories based on his film work.

His mother and his fiancée, Miss Dorothy Flanders, flew to Victorville from Hollywood when they learned of the accident.

MARKET TILL ROBBED HERE

Looting the cash register of Price's Fifth street market of approximately $12 worth of nickles and dimes, all the change left there over night, burglars added another chapter to their depredations in Las Vegas Friday night.

Police believe that the robbers entered the place by picking the lock, or sliding the bar with a sharp instrument, as the place was found locked when the robbery was discovered, and scratches on the door indicated the method used to gain entry.

SIAMESE KING SURRENDERS TO REDS

BANGKOK, Siam, June 26. (U.P.)—(Sunday)—The 150 year old dynasty of Siam has surrendered completely to revolution and today "the land of peace," one of the two absolute monarchies remaining in the world, is a limited, constitutional monarchy.

The revolution, headed by the army and navy, was swiftly and completely successful. The king accepted all conditions imposed by the rebels, and is returning to the capital by train from the seaside resort of Hua Hin, where he was resting when the revolt broke out.

The king and queen, Rambai Barni, were not harmed in the almost bloodless revolt and King Prajadhipok will continue to reign although his powers will be restricted and the people will share in the government. Prajadhipok is of liberal views and accepted the reform gracefully.

The people's party, composed of military and government officials, has taken over the administration of power, holding members of the royal family, including Prince Nagor Svarga, as hostages.

"If any member of the people's party is harmed, we must make the princes suffer," a manifesto said.

"The people's party has no desire to seize the royal property," the manifesto continued. "Its chief aim is a constitutional monarchy, if his majesty refuses to accept, or refuses to reply within one hour, we will proclaim a constitutional monarchy and appoint another suitable prince as king."

Kern County Takes Blow After Duo Of Thugs Rob Treasurer Of $41,000

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., June 25. (U.P.)—Two robbers entered the Kern county court shortly before noon today and held up deputy county treasurer Ray Holmes, who was forced to surrender $41,000 at the point of a revolver.

Holmes turned on the building burglar alarm and summoned officers shortly after the two men ran from the court house. He told officers he was about to place an envelope containing 41 $1,000 bills in a vault when one of the robbers stuck a revolver through a wicket in a window of his office.
