

EXCITING MYSTERY AT ALBEE REVEALS PICTURE SECRETS

Jealously guarded secrets of the motion picture industry and an intriguing mystery tale are revealed in the unfolding of the ingenious plot of Columbia's "The Crime of Helen Stanley," which opened Saturday night at the Palace Theatre.

The shooting of Helen Stanley, a screen star, as she dances before the cameras in the midst of scores of studio employees, is the starting link in a baffling chain of circumstances that leads to a startling solution through the deductions of "Inspector Brent" portrayed by Ralph Bellamy.

The first person suspected, and the seemingly logical candidate for the electric chair, is Stanley Wallach, ex-husband of the star. Having intended to kill her he believes that he has accomplished his purpose and tries to escape, leaping from a high roof to his death when his pursuers close in. But science proves that the death bullet had not been fired by the dead man's gun.

Various persons come under the probing eye of Inspector Trent, each seeming the guilty one, yet eventually proving innocent.

The solution is finally reached when Trent orders the scene of the crime re-enacted, causing the murderer to break down and confess.

Shirley Grey carries off leading feminine honors with an unusual display of talent. Gail Patrick is seen to advantage in her first role as the murdered star and others in the cast include Bradley Page, Clifford Jones, Vincent Sherman, Kane Richmond and Ward Bond.

D. Ross Lederman is to be complimented on his clever production.

Boy: "Say, dad, what does it mean when the paper says some man went to a convention as a delegate-at-large?"

Dad: "It means his wife didn't go with him, son."

"May I see the captain?" inquired a lady passenger.
"He's forward, miss," replied the first mate.
"Oh, I'm not afraid," said the lady, "I've been out with hospital students."

Father: "That young man of yours stays very late. Doesn't he know how to say good-night?"

Daughter: "Oh, yes, dad; better than any other boy I ever knew."

Dean: "Don't you know you shouldn't play strip poker?"

Sweet Young Thing: "Oh, it's perfectly all right. It's not really gambling."

Dean: "What?"

Sweet Young Thing: "No, you see, we always get our clothes back."

"Does it bring bad luck to tell about a dream before breakfast?"

"It certainly did when I told my wife the one I had about Jean Harlow."
