City Fathers In Hot Meet

Last Monday's meeting of the City Commissioners was full of pep. The big question of the meeting was to consider whether or not to grant Keno licenses within the city. This question was forced to the background as the commissioners heard a complaint against the Northern Club, who were charged with failing to pay a gambling debt. After much arguing and a near fist fight, the commissioners instructed the city clerk to notify the Northern Club that they were given ten days to show cause why their gambling license should not be revoked.

After consideration the commissioners granted three Keno licenses, with the provision, however, that they may be revoked if the people vote against them at some future election.
