Note to Editor:

It is not often that this office is able to send you a "human interest story" drawn from the operations of the Farm Credit Administration's Eleventh District; but we believe that the accompanying story will commend itself to you not only because of its local interest, but because it possesses some of that quality designated by the over-worked word, "inspirational."

"There is a time to eat and a time to travel, and a time to save and a time to spend—and a time to pay your loan. This is the business philosophy of E. R. Temple, whose ranch is in the Newlands project and who is a borrower from the Berkeley Federal Land bank. With Mr. Temple's consent the land bank has forwarded to the Age the Fallon rancher's cheerful formula for helping him meet the installments on his land bank loan. Perhaps Rancher Temple's code may serve as a sign-post pointing the straight road ahead for others similarly indebted.

"To meet my payments in the first place I commence planning at least six months in advance. It is not a question of what money I use to pay it—whether it is a portion of the cream check, or from eggs, or from hogs or sheep, or what not. I have taxes coming due twice a year, also interest twice a year and water rates. The first one to come due is the one I concentrate on and make every other bill wait until after that is paid.

"If my family needs clothes, it might be necessary to patch the old ones a little, or put on a pair of stick-on soles on the shoes to make them last until afterwards. If it is a pleasure trip, that must come after my obligations are met, and then I can enjoy it more.

"I have studied this question a good bit, and I have come to the conclusion that the reason so many people cannot meet their payments is because they don't know how to save or when to save. Most of us need a little education along this line; not to be a miser, but to save either for the purpose of paying a bill, or for clothes, or for a pleasure trip.

"My place here is worth about $4,000; but my name is worth many times that sum. The Bible says, 'A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches,' and it has always been my wish to keep my name above reproach.'

NEW FEDERAL FEED LOAN FOR NEVADA ANNOUNCED

Purchase breeding cattle acquired by Nevada ranchers since April 1 are now eligible for feed loans from the Federal Farm Credit Administration, Alfred Thies, state field supervisor, announced this week.

Loans to purchase feed for such forestock, whether cows, helpers or bulls, have not been available before.

The feed loans for recently acquired stock, Thies said, will enable cattlemen in Nevada to keep up their foundation herds.

No advances will be made to purchase feed for newly acquired stock brought into Nevada from another state or for animals acquired from a person who did not own them prior to April 1.

The total number of cattle including newly acquired stock, for which able, feed loan allowances are now available, Thies said, may not exceed the number owned on October 1, or the number which the applicant will own after culling his herd in accordance with requirements of the cattle purchase program.

Since early in July, when the emergency feed loans were first made available, more than 252,000 of such loans and supplemental advances have been made in the United States, totaling over $17,000,000. The loans are disbursed from the Drought Relief Appropriation approved June 19, 1934.
