NEVADA'S HOG CONTRACTS MODIFIED BY GOVERNMENT

Modification of Nevada corn-hog production control contracts with the government to permit, under certain circumstances, the raising of additional wheat for harvest next year was announced this week by Professor V. E. Scott of the University of Nevada Agricultural Extension service.

Ranchers in Churchill, Clark, Douglas, Elko, Lincoln, Lyon, Nye, Pershing, Washoe and White Pine counties will be affected by the new ruling from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Scott stated.

Purpose of the modification, he said, is to encourage production of crops for use on the farms of the state early in 1935. Some additional winter wheat will be planted in Nevada under the new ruling, it is expected.

Corn-hog contract signers who also joined in the wheat production control program, as well as those who would have a "wheat base" of 15 acres or more are not affected by the change, according to Scott, who has been helping the Nevada corn-hog men in their local associations.

"In its original form," Scott said, "the corn-hog adjustment contract limited the acreage of wheat planted for harvest as grain to the acreage which the signer had planted in 1932 or 1933, whichever was the greater."

"The new ruling authorizes an increase in this acreage up to 15 acres but does not necessarily provide that the grain from the entire 15 acres may be sold. Any grain harvested from the acreage planted in excess of the producer's wheat base authorized under the original corn-hog contract is to be fed to livestock or used otherwise on the farm of the producer, and is not to be sold from that farm unit."

Thus a Nevada farmer who in 1932 or 1933 planted, for example, seven acres of wheat for harvest and sale as grain would be authorized, according to Scott, to increase his planting to 15 acres this year for harvest in 1935. He would be authorized to sell, next year, the grain harvested from seven of the 15 acres, but would retain for use on his own farm the grain from 8 acres.

Before planting wheat under the new interpretation, the producer is required to submit to his county corn-hog allotment committee a statement of the acreage to be harvested for grain for sale, the acreage to be harvested for food or other use under the new interpretation, and the acreage to be used for pasture or forage.
