

Placer Operators In Sawtooth Area

Seven placer claims in the Sawtooth district, northern Pershing county, have been acquired under option of purchase from William Sloane by a group of Canadian and Wisconsin men, the Review-Miner at Lovelock reports, adding that a substantial down payment was made by the optionees.

Reports stated that the work of snipers, conducted with varying success in recent years, has served to open the placer ground in such manner as to facilitate extensive sampling. The purchasers, it was stated, are planning to work the placer deposits on a broad scale with two power shovels, a well-drilling rig and washing equipment.

Frank Vanderbilt of Quanicasse, Mich., thought so much of the beer-drinking ability of his pet bear that upon her death recently, he erected a monument to her memory, depicting her in her characteristic drinking pose.

When It's Time to Fill the Cookie Jar

Cape Cod molasses cookies have the tang of old-fashioned gingerbread and a pleasantly nutty flavor imparted by a generous sprinkling of all-bran throughout the batter.

By Barbara B. Brooks

A COOKIE jar can be a joy to every member of the family except the person who is expected to keep its stock replenished, unless she keeps on file a few easily prepared and inexpensive cookie recipes. Rich cookies are usually expensive, for they contain a generous supply of butter and sugar and eggs; and are not the type of sweet for the cookie jar—especially when every member of the household is permitted to help himself at will.

There are, however, numerous other cookie recipes that are just as satisfying, though less rich, and these are certainly more considerate of the kitchen budget.

The following recipe for Cape Cod Molasses Cookies, for example, embodies all the desirable qualities of a cookie that should find its way into a cookie jar. It demands no rolling or cutting of cookie dough before baking and can therefore be prepared as quickly as the dough can be mixed. It is not a rich cookie so it is not expensive, and it contains just a bit of bran which gives it a nut-like flavor without the richness or expense nuts would entail. The bran also adds desirable bulk, an important dietary feature in which most cookies are lacking. The triple tested recipe follows:

Cape Cod Molasses Cookies

½ cup shortening	¼ teaspoon soda
½ cup sugar	1 teaspoon baking powder
1 egg	¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup milk	½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup molasses	½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup all-bran	½ teaspoon cloves.
1½ cups flour

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg; beat until creamy. Add milk, molasses and all-bran. Add flour which has been sifted with soda, baking powder, salt, nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves and mix well. Spread batter very thin in greased large jelly roll pan with heavy wax paper in the bottom. Bake in slow oven (300°F.) about 25 minutes. Cut diagonally into diamond shapes as soon as cookies are removed from oven. Let cool slightly before removing from pan.

Yield: 4 dozen cookies (1¼ x 2½ inches).

Deny Purchase Of Nivloc Claims

In a statement received here yesterday by the Nevada correspondent of the Engineering and Mining Journal of New York, specific denial was given to reports that Bralorne Mines Ltd., of Canada, had purchased the Nivloc mine west of Silver Peak in Esmeralda county. Reports of the transactions have been published repeatedly at Tonopah.

Bralorne Mines Ltd. is reported to be an operating syndicate with an imposing technical staff and affiliations tying in with some of the world's major metal producers

It may be that the Tonopah reporter, never yet having correctly spelled or approximately, by a hemisphere, allocated its activity, may have misfired. Fred Vollmar Jr., responsible and always approachable, may have the answer.

WHAT! JAIL THE CAR?

In California Dr. C. F. Cheverton, president of Chapman College, has suggested to the State Traffic Commission the incarceration of automobiles as a means of punishing violators of the law. John Doe, convicted for speeding, for instance, would not go to jail and would not pay a fine but his automobile would go to durance vile, perhaps for 10 days, perhaps for 30 days, perhaps for 60 days.

This may seem like a whimsical suggestion, but there is in it the germ of an idea. If it is wise to disarm a man who seems likely to make harmful use of a gun, would it not be wise to disarm a man who has already demonstrated that he cannot use properly a machine just as dangerous as a gun? — Bangor (Maine) News.

Speaking of driving, a bright salesman extolling the virtues of knee-action wheels explained: "The wheels give, so if you run over a pedestrian, you hardly feel it."

CRITICISM IS EASY

At periodic intervals, someone appears in print with a slashing attack against the life insurance industry. These critics are usually unable to find a single good thing about insurance

Yet the fact remains that life insurance, for the great bulk of persons, is the only form of investment that offers both a profit and 100 per cent safety for principal. It is a practical and certain means of achieving a financially independent old age. It is the surest means of protecting dependents in event of the wage earner's death.

The depression demonstrated the worth of life insurance. Thousands of families were saved from dire want by their policies. Millions of dollars a day were paid out in loans, cash values and completed contracts. It is easy enough to criticize life insurance but no comparable savings and protection substitute has been offered.

The optimist who endorsed the note is the pessimist who pays it off.—Dallas News.
