

Ely Visitors To Visit Ruth Pit

"A visit to a copper pit 30 years deep" is one of the many added attractions held out by George Doyle, secretary of the White Pine County Chamber of Commerce, and by the citizens of Ely, Nevada, to those who attend the annual convention of the International Four States Highway which will be held at Ely on September 18th. In addition, the visitors from the four states will also inspect the great copper smelter at McGill, one of the largest in the world. As a further attraction, the Lehman Caves, near Ely, which are among the world's most unique subterranean caverns, will be shown to visitors.

A general invitation has been extended by the directors of the Highway Association, which was organized to complete and to publicize Highway U. S. 93, to everyone on the highway route, whether members or not, to attend the Ely convention and to behold some of the most interesting places in Nevada.

According to announcement of Harland E. Wells, president of the International Four States Highway Association, in his call for the annual meeting, the convention will not be all play and sight-seeing. There is much serious business to be transacted, of vital interest to the highway and the communities along the route.

By far the greater part of Highway U. S. 93 is already constructed, and most of it is hard surfaced, except a few short gaps which directors declare must be completed next year. At the convention, a campaign will be commenced to bring a larger share of motor travel over the International Four States Highway route.

Communities in the northwest on U. S. 93 announce they have had the best tourist season in many years, and in some instances in their history, due to the activities of the Four States Highway Association and the publicity which the Association has given this new, well constructed and highly scenic route.

Hotels on the route are being enlarged, new hosteleries are being constructed, and motor courts are being added to. All along the line preparations are being made to take care of a greater number of motorists.

At the Ely convention next month a decision will be made on a proposed publicity plan of advertising Highway U. S. 93 and its scenic attractions. All communities along the route are expected to be represented there for this reason. President Wells has asked all the communities on the 1400-mile route to send large delegations to Ely to aid in planning for the coming years activities.

All or some of the governors of the four interested states, Montana, Idaho, Nevada and California, will be in attendance at the convention, as well as state highway commissioners, state highway engineers, supervisors, county commissioners, mayors of cities, and officials of the Chambers of Commerce.

Last year's convention, which was held at Whitefish, Montana, President Wells' home city, brought attendance from 100 communities along the highway, and this year's convention at Ely, on September 18th, is expected to bring out an even larger representation.

Among directors, officers and prominent citizens of Nevada who are expected to attend the Ely convention are:

- Carl Supp, J. F. McElroy, Wells.
- Vail M. Pittman, George Doyle, T. S. Shuttleworth, Ely and other citizens and public officials.
- E. L. Nores, Roy Orr, Pioche.
- C. P. Ronnow, Panaca.
- George M. Center, Caliente.
- James E. Killeen, Moapa.
- Guy E. Dotay, Glendale.

James Cashman, national treasurer; Oliver Goerman, assistant secretary; C. D. Baker, assistant to president; A. C. Grant, Las Vegas.

A. S. Gaines, L. R. Arnold, J. N. Nellis, Searchlight.

Robert A. Allen, state highway engineer, Carson City, has been especially invited by President Harland E. Wells.

Warden Thinks Meredith Dead

"He must be dead. I haven't heard from him for a month." That's what Warden William Lewis of the state penitentiary said here today about Jack Meredith, alias "Will Harris," Nevada's traveling prison inmate.

Meredith, who escaped from the Alpine county, California, sheriff several months ago and who scattered prison warrants about various states in the Union, has been the object of a nation-wide search by state and government agents for some time.

Meredith, using the name of Will Harris, state prison accountant here, has cashed several hundred dollars in warrants since his escape.

He has been trapped on several occasions, but always has made a safe getaway.

His brazen tactics in representing Nevada in making "big deals" in the east and then cashing a personal warrant while awaiting delivery of merchandise, has marked him as one of the cleverest escapees Nevada has ever known.

Authorities here believe he obtained sufficient funds to flee from the United States.

"He'll be caught some of these days," Lewis said recently, "and, oh boy! . . . when he gets back here!"

Meredith is wanted by federal authorities for posing as a United States marshal. — Nevada State Journal.

Reno Starts On New Publicity

Nevadans, Unlimited, will open offices in downtown Reno in a few days and start laying groundwork for a campaign to put Nevada on the map more than ever as a national tourist center.

The organization, composed of public-spirited citizens from all over the state, has taken a lease on an office at 43 West First street.

Remodeling by Mark Yort, owner of the building, is expected to begin this week.

As soon as the office has been redecorated and fitted out in a style that will carry out the theme of the group, a grand opening will be staged, marking the first step in a campaign that is expected to attract national attention.

Carrying out The Nevada State Journal's "One Sound State" theme into even greater detail than has already been done will be the objective of Nevadans, Unlimited.

SURE-THING INVESTMENTS DYNAMITE

There is no known formula which will enable an investor to pick an absolutely safe investment. Risk is always present in the ownership of property.

There is, however, a proven, time-tested formula which will enable the investor to avoid sure losses. Shun the plausible stranger who guarantees safety and large income at the same time. The securities faker, like the race track tout, offers his prospective victims "sure things."

Be sure you know exactly what you are buying before you invest. And, more than that, be sure that you know you are speculating before you speculate.

This is the gist of some advice recently offered investors by one of the nation's leading security authorities—Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock Exchange. Mr. Gay pointed out, further, that federal supervision of securities and state Blue Sky laws, even though they have accomplished some fine results, are no assurance of investment safety. In some cases, these laws have actually encouraged the fake security business—illegitimate brokers use the fact of government supervision as an opportunity for imposition on the unwary, offering it as evidence of either their own character or the character of their securities. The law can't catch every crook, whether he be a second-story man or the operator of a bucketshop.

There is no substitute for personal prudence and caution on the part of the security buyer. Rules of the New York Stock Exchange require that all concerns listing stocks and bonds on its board, make public exhaustive information pertinent to their past experience, the quality of their management, the purpose for which new securities are issued, etc. Anyone interested can obtain this information and discover precisely what he is buying. The investor who falls for the old dodge of a "sure thing that will earn 50 per cent a year profit" will lose his money 99 times out of 100.

The survey department of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, on the basis of 1936 statistics, figures that tourists will spend $1,000,000,000 in the eleven western states in 1939.

TESTED RECIPE

—By Frances Lee Barton—
TESTED RECIPE

SMUDGY little faces, grinning blue teeth and sticking out purple tongues are dead giveaways that blueberry time is here. But if we're going to share the enviable blue-tooth distinction with the children, we'll have to hurry before the season's over. Here's a suggestion:

Delicious Blueberry Puff Pudding

2 cups blueberries; 2 cups sliced apples; 1/2 cup water; 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca; 3/4 cup sugar; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

1/2 cup cake flour; 6 tablespoons sugar; 2 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon-colored; 2 egg whites; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar.

Bring to a boil blueberries, apples, and water. Combine quick-cooking tapioca, sugar, and salt; add gradually to fruit mixture and boil briskly 1 minute. Add lemon juice. Pour into greased baking dish and keep hot.

Sift flour once and measure. Add sugar gradually to egg yolks, beating until light. Beat egg whites and salt until foamy; add cream of tartar and beat until stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold egg yolk mixture into egg whites; then fold in flour, a small amount at a time. Turn out over hot tapioca-fruit mixture. Bake in moderate oven (325° F.) 50 minutes, or until cake is baked. Serve warm. Serves 8.

If desired, 3/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed, may be substituted for sugar in fruit mixture.

Ramon Novarro, who has been missed from the screen for two years, took time out recently during the filming of the Republic Picture, "The Sheik Steps Out," on location at Playa Del Rey, to pose in costume for this still picture with his third and newest Pontiac car. "The Sheik Steps Out," which heralds the return of this popular star, will be released in September.
