

Senator Speaks In Deep Emotion

the United States to join with the League of Nations to 'hep put a stop to wars.'

"Every American should pause and consider as to whether America cannot do more to lead the world out of its turmoil by standing aloof. Sending an armed force would only engender rancor. By standing aloof we can prove to the world that the American democracy is a success.

"War is a hellish thing. It is well for you to stop and think. There is a motion to lead us into foreign entanglements. Had we gone into the League of Nations we would now be maintaining a great army in foreign fields or waiting to be sent across.

"America will lend the force of opinion of its hundred and twenty-nine million people to the end that these foreign struggles shall be closed. But let us not enter any alliance which would call our forces into war on foreign soil.

"America, by bringing peace and contentment to our own people, must hold herself steady to prove that the democracy of the people shall be the law."

The regular Kiwanis program was put on by four past presidents.

Sherif Gene Ward said he had been waiting twenty years to tell of his experience in the grocery business, but was now glad to decline so that his time could be used to better advantage by Senator McCarran.

Art Harrington spoke on the subject "What Can We Do For Our Schools." He stated that delinquency problems were still serious but that they had been reduced 50 percent since the recreational board had begun its program. He particularly stressed the need for more careful driving at hours when children are going to or coming from school and appealed for parents to enforce better discipline over children in the homes. He also urged that children take more interest in keeping school property in good condition.

Harve Perry, speaking of Chain Stores, said they are just like other stores. Every clerk is a potential manager and every manager must be a builder of men able to carry on.

"Chain stores help the community by providing the public with merchandise at lowest possible prices. They pay their employees good wages and the money is spent in the town. Cheaper prices do not mean inferior goods. Chain stores are able to buy in quantity and to place orders which permit factories to keep their plants running during slack seasons. Also, trained buyers go into the field and buy goods for their stores from factories without any middleman profits, commissions or sales expenses."

C. D. Baker preferred to release his time to Senator McCarran and will be on the program at a future date.

LUKE McNAMEE VISITS

Luke McNamee of Los Angeles spent a few days of the past week at the Apache hotel.

Houssels Heads Fall Race Meet

Kel Houssels, chairman of the general committee to hold a horse racing meet in this city November 26, 27 and 28 launched a vigorous campaign at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, to raise sufficient funds to insure a completely successful three-day meet.

Discussing the matter of financing, Mr. Houssels declared that it is the desire of the committee not to call on businessmen for the bulk of the necessary money as has generally been done in the past but to appeal for support to the entire population.

Among other things, it is proposed to raffle off a $1,000 Pontiac automobile selling chances at $1.50 each. These chances will be widely distributed among the general public and should result in a considerable sum of money for the race meet, and at the same time give everyone a chance to win a fine car.

It is the intention of Mr. Houssels and the committee to bring in plenty of horses so that the coming meet will provide the most exciting races ever held in Las Vegas. Interest has been shown by the leading horsemen in all parts of the west and a large attendance is expected.

Junior Chamber Motion Pictures

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has secured a series of novel and beautiful colored motion picture reels of places of interest in and about Las Vegas. The films were shown Monday evening at the municipal court room.

It is the plan of the organization to provide proper titles and show the film to every Junior Chamber of Commerce in the west prior to the convention next spring. This it is certain, will bring a large number of delegates to the convention.

One interesting feature of the films is the series of night-views of Fremont street showing the various neon signs in their gorgeous colors.

Bob Ritter left Tuesday night with the films and will show them at the annual ladies' night party and installation of officers of the Phoenix, Arizona, Junior Chamber. Later, President Frank McNamee and Bob Ritter will travel together to the various clubs throughout the district.

Walter Bracken had as his guest John Walsh, of the Walsh News Company of Salt Lake City, who is also Industrial Agent of the Union Pacific for the state of Utah.

Board to Meet In Las Vegas

Las Vegas will probably be the meeting place of the National Resources Committee meeting set for November 12 and 13, according to Archie Grant, a member of the committee, who attended the meeting at Phoenix last week-end, with John Wittwer of the Farm bureau.

The invitation was extended by the Las Vegas representatives and a large number of delegates present expressed a desire to meet here next time.

The work of the Phoenix meeting consisted principally in reviewing the report of the committee for 1936 on development of the resources of the lower Colorado river.

John M. Wittwer brought before the meeting several soil erosion and flood control projects for the Moapa and Virgin river valleys.

Mr. Grant submitted a report on supplementing the water supply of Las Vegas valley by pumping from Lake Mead, the project to be chiefly for the encouragement of industries with agricultural use incidental.

Chamber Passes On Resolutions

The Chamber of Commerce Tuesday passed a resolution introduced by Art Harrington as chairman of a special committee, recommending that the Colorado river commission employ an engineer to have an office in Las Vegas and devote his time to encouraging enterprises needing cheap electric power to locate in the Boulder dam area.

Another resolution introduced by Jas. H. Down to whom the matter had been referred recommending that the president issue an executive order to maintain the present price of silver was adopted.

Last Rites For Pioneer Vegan

William M. Robinson, a pioneer resident of Las Vegas died at his home on North First street Saturday.

Services were conducted at the Palm Funeral Home Monday afternoon under the auspices of the Elks, and the body was sent to Phoenix, Arizona, where the funeral was held and interment made on Wednesday.

A PEEK AT 1938

Here is a preview glimpse of what Pontiac will offer to the American Public for 1938. Pointing with pride to the latest "Silver Streak" is Thomas M. Ray, Pacific Regional Manager for Pontiac, and to his left, also greatly pleased with the new product, is R. J. Wilkin, General Manager of General Motors' Pacific Coast plant at Southgate. Both predict a "better-than-ever" year for Pontiac.
