

MIRACLE ELECTRIC RANGE HOLIDAY DINNER

This crafty young homemaker found that everything for her memorable holiday dinner could be prepared at one time with her brand new Hotpoint electric range. The roomy, heat-controlled oven held the 12-pound hen turkey, sweet potatoes, and rolls, and the swift cooker—the roomy, insulated economy unit in the range—steamed the pudding, cauliflower and beans.

NEVADA CRIMINAL POPULATION INCREASING

CARSON CITY, Nev.—Nevada may be faced with the necessity of providing additional quarters for the state's criminals if the prison population increase of the last three years continues.

With 237 inmates confined, an all-time record for state prisoners in the institution was set last month.

At the present rate of increase, the prison's cell block capacity of 260 prisoners would be reached within three months, officials said. The state board of paroles and pardons, however, at their November 1 meeting gave clemency to some applicants for parole, avoiding the likelihood of an overcrowded condition in the prison at an early date.

Crime Wave Not To Blame

Nevada prison officials do not blame the increase in the number of their charges to any crime wave. Rather, they view the growing number of convicted men as one of the things to be expected with the general increase of Nevada's population.

Although many prisoners received are youths, a large number of middle-aged and old men are sentenced to the institution. Many of the older prisoners already have served time in other prisons.

A large number of new prisoners have been convicted on burglary and robbery charges, the officials report. They say that there has been no noticeable increase in crimes of violence in Nevada, but that the number of fictitious check crimes is smaller than usual.

Some Nevada counties are sending men to the prison to serve sentences for supplying Indians with liquor. There are occasional cases where the crime committed was the theft of horses or cattle. Two men convicted of murder have been received in the past year.—Elko Free Press.
