Although open and passable, tire chains are advisable on the Placer-ville route between Reno and Sacramento, due to the recent snow storms over Echo Summit. The snow belt extended over the Clear Creek grade, Lake Tahoe and Echo Summit areas of sufficient depth to require the use of maintenance crews to clear. Due to extreme slippery conditions at Echo Summit, chains are necessary through this area, the report said. Careful driving is recommended in the Tahoe region on account of ice and snow in shady spots, and chain should be carried.
