

In The WEEK'S NEWS

ACTRESS DESIGNED TROUSSEAU — Anne Shirley, 18-year-old radio star, who was recently married to John Howard Payne, designed her trousseau wardrobe herself, including this lovely formal street ensemble made of transparent black velvet and trimmed with cream colored lace.

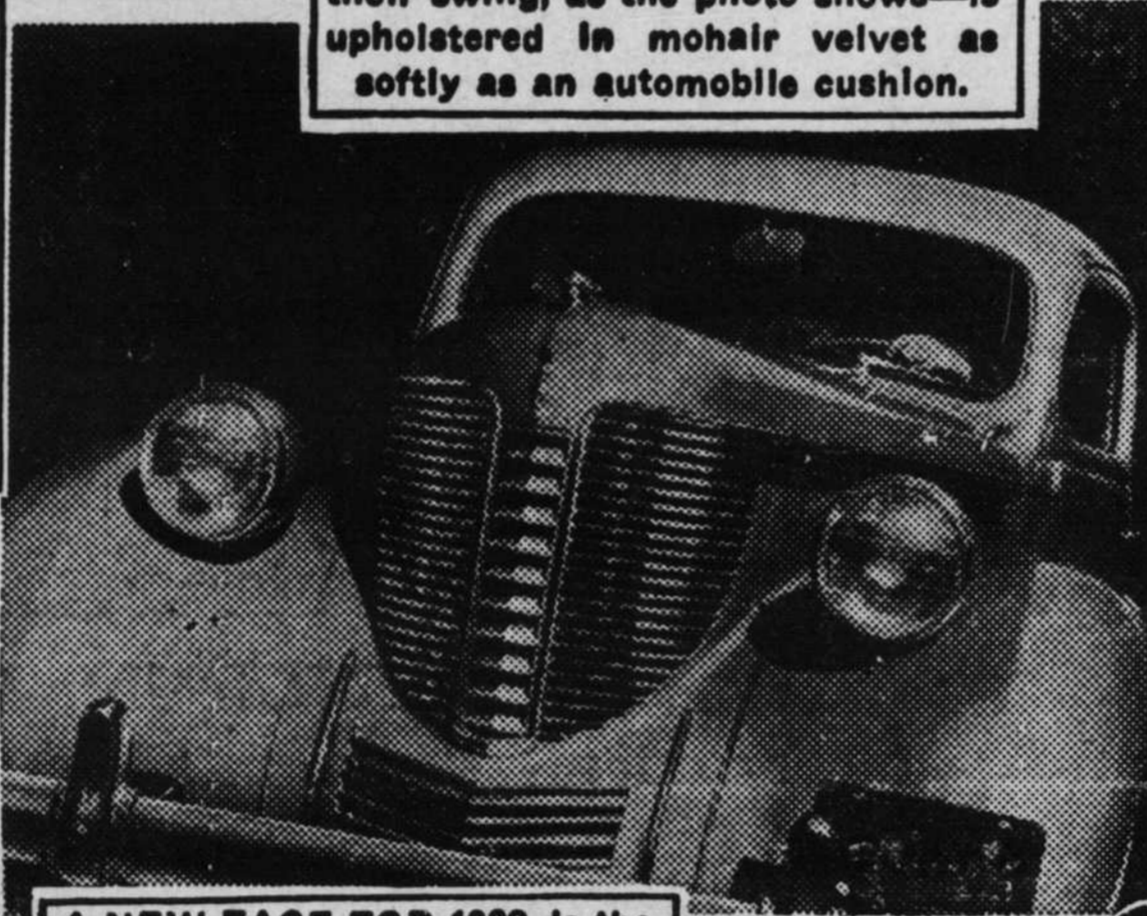

SWINGTIME WITH THE ROCKETTES—It's not all work for the famed ballet girls of New York's Radio City Music Hall. They have de luxe recreational quarters—even their swing, as the photo shows—is upholstered in mohair velvet as softly as an automobile cushion.

PLAYS FOR CHARITY—John Montague, Hollywood's mystery golfer and strong man who was acquitted recently of an old robbery charge, made his first limelight appearance in a charity golf match with Babe Ruth on a Long Island course. He used golf clubs instead of the shovel with which he once beat Bing Crosby.

WANTED TO PLAY TARZAN—When Cleveland residents complained a leopard-man was leaping at them from trees in a public park, police picked up Karl Metz, a baker, who explained a great desire to play the movie role of Tarzan led him to practice his art in the park. Police decided he was harmless.

A NEW FACE FOR 1938, is the smartly styled DeSoto with the horizontal chromium bars of the grille sweeping back to form the louvres of the car. A band of widely spaced front louvres, outlined with a strip of body coloring, divides the grille in the center. New features for comfort, safety and luxury have been added.

CORNHUSKING CHAMP—After twenty-six unsuccessful tries, Ray Hanson, of Bingham Lake, Minn., won the national cornhusking championship at Marshall, Mo.

SOCIETY

Another of the delightful social affairs for which Las Vegas is noted was the dinner-dance at "The Meadows" last Saturday evening with which Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Martin, Messrs. and Mrs. C. S. Wengert and O. C. Boggs entertained their friends. The occasion was an unusually jolly one and greatly enjoyed.

Those attending the party were: Messrs. and Mesdames Walter R. Bracken, Will Beckley, O. W. Yates, W. E. Ferron, Fred Hesse, Leo. A. McNamee, A. C. Grant, H. P. Marble, Dan Noland, A. W. Ham, E. W. Cragin, J. Weldon Wilson, Frank Gusewelle, James Cashman, R. R. Myers, J. D. Smith, Wm. Ellis of Sloan, A. S. Henderson, C. P. Squires, R. J. Stephens, Arthur Brick, Paul Webb of Boulder City, W. N. Schuyler, C. W. Woodbury, Leland Ronnow and Elmer Mikkelsen; Mesdames John Lightfoot, S. J. Lawson, C. E. Pembroke, Hazel Williams, Ruby White, and J. T. Watters; Ed W. Clark, Jack Price, and Allys Lawson; and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Wengert, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Boggs, and Dr. and Mrs. Roy W. Martin.

A delightful occasion was the bridge luncheon with which Mrs. R. R. Myers and the Misses Nevada and Thelma Pedrolli and Irene Barsaloux entertained a circle of friends Saturday afternoon at the Apache cocktail lounge. The guest list included Mesdames R. D. Balcom, Jake Beckley, Will Beckley, A. W. Blackman, O. C. Boggs, Don Borax, Walter Bracken, C. D. Breeze, Arthur Brick, Robert Brown, Florence Burwell, A. E. Cahlan, Marian Cahlan, James Cashman, W. E. Connell, E. W. Cragin, Earl Davison, Cliff DeVaney, Frank DeVinney, Charles Dimock, Marion Earl, W. E. Ferron, E. A. Francis, Frank Garside, A. C. Grant, A. R. Grant, R. B. Griffith, Frank Gusewelle, A. W. Ham, S. L. Hard, Jack Hemphill, Fred Hesse, Sam Lawson, John Lightfoot, H. P. Marble, George Marshall, Roy Martin, F. R. Mildren, H. Milligan, H. M. Orse, Leo McNamee, W. L. Olive, Wm. S. Park, Vern Perry, H. Prince, Carl Rau, Sally Riggs, Virgil Ham, R. R. Russell, Wm. N. Schuyler, Don Schuyler, J. D. Smith, Charles Squires, James Squires, Ryland Taylor, Roscoe Thomas, Ruby Thomas, J. Thorburn, G. R. Van Eaton, Ben Vaughn, Clair Wadsworth, J. T. Watters, Cyril Wengert, Ella Wengert, Ruby White, J. W. Wilson, L. Woitishak, A. C. Wingo, E. Winter, C. W. Woodbury, O. W. Yates, L. Hudlow, Gorge Zettler; and the Misses Evelyn Chappe, Roxie Copenhaver, Connie Diskin, Maude Frazier, Doris Hancock, Marcia Johnson, Frances Kramer, Jane Kramer, Mazie Martin, Frances McNamee, Ullis Newton and Angie Roosa.

FATHER CROLEY CONDUCTS SERVICES IN DEATH VALLEY

Father J. J. Crowley of Lone Pine, appeared in Death Valley last Thursday—the first time since the official season opened. He conducted religious services at Furnace Creek on Friday morning and at the junction Saturday morning. He then turned the nose of his faithful flivver toward Mt. Whitney for the return trip to Lone Pine, where he was scheduled for similar duty on Sunday.

Large Bequest To University

Unconfirmed reports from Seneca Falls, N. Y., indicated that Mrs. Augusta A. Benham bequeathed $15,000 to the University of Nevada for helping needy students under terms of a will filed for probate.

Mrs. Benham was the widow of Charles B. Benham and a native of Nebraska.

Silas E. Ross, Sr., chairman of the Nevada board of regents, reported he had not heard of the reported bequest. He said there was a Benham family in Nevada but also pointed out a possible chance or error because of the fact there is also a Reno, Nebraska.

President Walter E. Clark of the university is now in Washington, D. C., attending a national meeting of state university officials.

John Doherty and George Ullom arrived from Ely Wednesday evening and returned Thanksgiving night.

NO SNOW VISIBLE ON MT. CHARLESTON YET

Residents of Death Valley have noted with much interest this fall the lack of any snow cap atop Mt. Charleston, the 11,900 foot peak 50 miles to the east, and also none on Telescope peak, a like distance to the west of Death Valley Junction. This is the latest period in the fall, within the memory of residents of southern Nevada, and Death Valley when these amous peaks have remained entirely bare of snow.

Usually they are covered by a heavy blanket of "the beautiful" by October.